STATE SECRETS OUT; CRANE QUESTIONED

Publication of Inside Facts on Chinese Situation Caused the Minister's Sudden Recall.

HE HAS A TALK WITH KNOX

Shows Concern After Interview—Also Has a Conference with John W. Foster, Counselor for China.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Charles R. Crane's sudden and mysterious recall to Washington by Secretary of State Knox, as he was on the point of sailing from San Francisco to assume his duties as Minister of the United States to China, was occasioned by developments involving the question of Mr. Crane's fitness for that post.

This much is known to-night in well-informed quarters in Washington. Unless Mr. Crane is able to clear himself in the eyes of Secretary Knox of an accusation of a serious breach of what the State Department regards as the first principle of diplomatic discretion, the conference with his official chief may result in the abrupt termination of Mr. Crane's connection with the diplomatic service.

Minister Crane arrived in Washington late this afternoon from his hurried journey across the continent, reiterated his declaration of ignorance as to the occasion for his dramatic recall and declined to discuss the matter in any of its aspects beyond saying that, while he expected to be here several days, he had reserved new accommodations for the trans-Pacific voyage on the steamer sailing from San Francisco on Oct. 20—a week from next Wednesday.

The State Department has in hand, it is said, evidence to the effect that Minister Crane, on the eve of his departure for the Far East, became responsible for the publication in a Chicago newspaper of what the department views as a most indiscreet discussion of the attitude of the United States toward the two treaties recently negotiated between China and Japan. This the department holds to have been the more serious because that attitude is still under confidential consideration, no decision having been reached.

No Trouble Over Speeches.

The speeches delivered by Mr. Crane before the American Asiatic Association and at a dinner given to him at Chicago are viewed at the State Department as having been at best unwise and undiplomatic, but they had been carefully considered before Mr. Crane started for San Francisco and were not regarded as justifying any change in his plans.

The Chicago publication, however, falls into a category very different. China and Japan early last month entered into treaties which contained provisions regarded by the State Department as very surprising and possibly objectionable to this Government. By these treaties Japan would obtain rights in Manchuria which are held by some diplomats to be in direct violation of both letter and spirit of the Portsmouth Treaty. China has agreed in the treaties now under consideration that before extending her present railway system in Manchuria she shall consult Japan, and, presumably, obtain her consent thereto. This provision is regarded as inharmonious with the declaration of Japan in the Treaty of Portsmouth that she would not obstruct any measures taken by China for the development of her empire.

Another provision relating to the operation of coal mines on both sides of the Antung-Mukden and South Manchurian Railway, it is thought, may be objectionable to this Government as violating the policy of the "open door" as inaugurated by the United States and subscribed to by Japan as well as by all the leading powers of Europe. This "open door policy" is intended to assure "equal opportunities" to all nations to assist in the development of China, without impairing her territorial integrity.

Matters of a highly confidential nature with respect to the position of the United States regarding these and other provisions of the treaties between China and Japan are alleged to have been divulged in the Chicago publication, and for these disclosures the State Department is disposed, in the absence of proof to the contrary, to hold Minister Crane responsible.

Crane Talks with Knox.

Late to-night it became known that during the evening Mr. Crane had had a "preliminary conference" with Secretary Knox and Henry M. Hoyt, special counsel to the Secretary. When Mr. Crane returned to his hotel he admitted that he had seen Mr. Knox and that in this "preliminary conference," the matters at issue had been discussed. He was evidently deeply concerned about the situation.

"Will you resume your journey to China?" Mr. Crane was asked.

"I am under salary," he replied, "and subject to orders."

Mr. Crane told his interviewers that upon his arrival in Washington he had received a note from John W. Foster, formerly Secretary of State and Minister to China, and now special adviser to the Chinese Government and its American Legation. He declined to divulge the nature of the communication or of a conference he had with Mr. Foster.

At Secretary Knox's house all information regarding the conference with Mr. Crane was refused, but Mr. Hoyt admitted that there had been one.

"I do not know why I was summoned to Washington by Secretary Knox," said Minister Crane upon his arrival here late this afternoon from San Francisco. "Shortly before sailing time I received a brief telegram from Mr. Knox asking me to return to Washington at once. That is all the message said. You know I am a salaried man now, and I had to obey the summons."

No Time to Talk With Taft.

"Did you see President Taft in San Francisco?" Mr. Crane was asked.

"Yes, I had a chat with him at a dinner, but we did not have time to discuss the reasons for my recall to Washington. Immediately after the dinner I left for the East; I have come direct to Washington, stopping en route only to change trains.

"Secretary Knox has made an appointment for noon Monday at the State Department, at which we will discuss the matter. I expect to be here several days; until Thursday at least. I have reserved accommodations on the steamer sailing from San Francisco on Oct. 20. I do not know how long my business at the State Department will consume. I do not expect to see any State Department officials to-night."

Mr. Crane declined to discuss any phase of the Far Eastern situation. "It would be most unwise for me to do so on the eve of my conference with Secretary Knox to-morrow," he said.

Minister Crane arrived in Washington heavily loaded with baggage and apparently much fatigued by his long journey across the continent. His baggage was marked "C. R. Crane, Peking," but at the hotel he registered "Charles R. Crane, Chicago." He met with cordiality the newspaper men who awaited his coming, but declared he had no information for them.

"I was expecting you to have some news for me," he said, with a smile.

RIOTS AT AIRSHIP MEET.

French Crowds Angered by Poor Train Service—Wright Machine Wins.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Oct. 10.—Four hundred thousand persons witnessed the flying contests at Juvisy to-day, half the number darkening the amphitheatre of the hills outside the inclosure. It was the first popular day of the meeting.

The train service was a disgrace to the French railway administration. Many trains consumed three hours in traversing the twenty miles between Juvisy and Paris; some five and a half hours. Indignant passengers smashed the windows of scores of the coaches and hooted the railway officials all along the route. Those who arrived too late to witness the tests wrecked the station.

Magnificent weather favored the flying tests, which resulted in a triumph for the Wright machine. Count de Lambert, driving it, led in all the events.

CURTISS MAKES BRIEF FLIGHT

Covers a Mile in Little Over a Minute at St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 10.—Repeating his performance of yesterday, Glenn H. Curtiss in his biplane made a flight here early this morning around the aero field in Forest Park. His expected flight this evening was called off when it was seen that the wind was too strong.

At 6:30 o'clock this morning Curtiss had his machine wheeled out of its tent, and fifteen seconds after his propeller was started he was in the air, headed east. He went to the extreme end of the field, made a wide circle, and veering so he would land with the wind in his face, he alighted from his aeroplane at the place from which he started. But few persons witnessed the feat.

Curtiss covered a little more than a mile in one minute and seventeen seconds.

BENNETT CUP AWARD HELD UP

Search Made for Man Who Said Mix Landed in Hungary.

GENEVA, Oct. 10.—The final classification of the competitors in the recent international balloon race, which started last Sunday from Zurich, has been held up pending an investigation of the statement made by Otto Thum, the merchant of Dettva, Hungary, in a postal card received by the Commission, that he saw Edgar W. Mix, the American contestant, land in Hungary.

The Committee is searching for Herr Thum in order to obtain a further report from him.

NURSE GAVE POISON TO BABY.

Mistook It for Cough Medicine—Child Will Die and Girl Is Locked Up.

Charged technically with felonious assault, Mary Patrick, of 151 Attorney Street, employed as a nursemaid in the home of Jacob Tomshowsky, at 211 East Ninety-ninth Street, was locked up yesterday in the East 104th Street Station. According to the police, she forced nine-months-old Marie Tomshowsky to take a dose of lysol, which she mistook for cough medicine, while the child's parents were out. The parents have forgiven the nurse, for they realize that she made a blunder. The baby will die.

The girl had been with the Tomshowsky family for some time. When the baby's father and mother decided to go walking yesterday afternoon they left the house and baby in her charge. The parents had been out but a short time when the baby started to cough, and the maid hurried to a medicine closet to get a cough mixture which had been bought for the child. In her anxiety to relieve the baby she took the wrong bottle and poured from it a teaspoonful of the poison. As soon as it swallowed the dose the baby was seized with convulsions.

The maid ran to a front window and called Policeman McKenna of the East 104th Street Station, who summoned Dr. Mosher from Harlem Hospital. Dr. Mosher took the child to the hospital, where it is expected to die, and McKenna placed the girl under arrest.

EDITOR BREAKS ANKLE.

Amery of London Falls from Horse While Riding with Earl Gray.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 10.—L. C. Amery, an editor of The London Times, met with a serious accident here last night. He was returning with Earl and Lady Gray from riding in a paper chase. While he was going through a half-open gate his stirrup caught in a post. He was thrown violently to the ground and his ankle was broken in two places. He was hurried to a hospital, where the fractures were set to-day. The doctors say he will be able to leave New York for London on Oct. 26, traveling on a stretcher.

Mr. Amery has been nominated for a third time as the Unionist candidate for Wolverhampton at the coming general election, and is anxious to get back to England.

BIG LINERS TO CANADA.

Allan Line Planning Them—Request for Docking Privileges.

BELFAST, Oct. 10.—The Harland-Wolff Company is seeking the consent and cooperation of the Canadian Government for establishment of graving docks and repairing yards on the Canadian coast to accommodate the largest ocean liners.

The Liverpool Journal of Commerce announces that the Allan Line is on the eve of an important expansion which will be independent of the Grand Trunk Railway.

GEOLOGIST MAY BE LOST.

Prof. Leith, Who Went Into the North Woods, Has Not Returned.

Special to The New York Times.

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 10.—Prof. C. K. Leith of the Department of Geology and Mines in the University of Wisconsin may be lost in the Canadian wilds. He went out at the head of a party to investigate rock formations near Hudson Bay, supposedly in the interest of the Canadian Government, in a search for ore. No report of any sort has been received since the party entered the wilderness early in the Summer. They were expected to return several weeks ago.

The party, consisting of Prof. Leith, Hugh M. Roberts of Superior, and Francis S. Adams of Deerwood, Minn., left Madison in early June. Prof. Leith is a thoroughly experienced man, having made several similar trips into Northern Canada. The season, however, is so far advanced that their return this year is not probable. It is hoped that the party has reached either Fort Albany or Moose Jaw Post.

SEES SPIRITS HOVER OVER MINISTER WU

He Attends Seance and Medium Describes Chinese Shades That Attend Him.

CAN'T SEE THEM, HE SAYS

Wants to Know Why—Goes Away Unsatisfied and Intimates That He Will Come Again.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Having satisfied himself yesterday regarding the technique of flying machines when he visited Wilbur Wright at College Park, Md., and plied him with all sorts of questions, Dr. Wu Ting Fang, the Chinese Minister to the United States, to-night turned his attention to spiritualism and took his first plunge into the mysteries of the spirit world. He attended a meeting of the Temple League of Spiritualists, where he was informed by a medium that half a dozen spirits hovered about him.

From the time "the human interrogation mark," as Dr. Wu has sometimes been called, entered the hall accompanied by Wu Chang, an attaché of the Chinese legation, and took a seat in the front row directly in front of the speakers' platform, he was all open-eyed attention. Notwithstanding his flowing purple robes, the Minister was not recognized by the half hundred regular attendants, but he was not the less on that account the centre of curiosity.

When Mrs. Hennen, regarded as a very good medium by the Spiritualists, took the floor and asked whether any one was present who had never received a message from the spirit world, Dr. Wu signified that he was such a person. Then the medium declared that she saw standing by the Chinese Minister's side a woman of his country and two children. She said she had not their names, but described them to him and remarked that if during the evening the spirits revealed the names she would make them known to him. While she gave spirit messages, names, and descriptions of spirits to persons in the room, Dr. Wu watched and listened with the keenest attention.

To his companion another medium gave a long "reading," informing Mr. Chang he was going away shortly, but would return. The young companion of the Minister nodded his head in affirmation at all that was told him, and an animated conversation in Chinese took place between him and Dr. Wu after the reading.

When the meeting came to a close Dr. Wu sought out the different mediums and interrogated them.

"What was the woman's name?" and "how was she dressed?" he demanded of Mrs. Hennen. She replied that the name had not been given, but the woman was dressed in white flowing robes. She also saw an elderly man dressed in the robe of a Chinese of high rank, with cap on his head and fan in his hand. He had come close to Dr. Wu as if he wished to communicate some message to him.

"Why is it, then, I cannot see the spirits?" was the next question, and then: "How long have you had this power to see the spirits?" asked Dr. Wu.

When the answer came that the power was a "gift" and that the medium had been able to see the spirits since she was a child knee-high, Dr. Wu shrugged his shoulders and uttered a significant "um." Many were the other questions he asked before he took his departure, and it was not until then that the Spiritualist leaders learned that their visitor was the Minister from China.

Before leaving Dr. Wu carefully inquired regarding future meetings and gave the impression that he intended to investigate further.

HIRES WHOLE MUSICAL SHOW.

New Yorker Has "The Candy Shop" Produced in Boston Hospital.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Oct. 10.—Henry S. Jenkins, a wealthy New Yorker who has temporarily lost the use of his legs and is a patient at the Bay State Hospital on Bay State Road, Back Bay, witnessed a condensed version of the musical comedy, "The Candy Shop," in that institution last evening.

The satisfaction of this whim of the millionaire patient cost him at least $1,000, for twenty-five members of "The Candy Shop" were present and performed "bits" of the show. They included William Rock, Mrs. Annie Yeamans, and Mlle. Rayo, the première danseuse.

With two nurses at his side, Mr. Jenkins, propped up in his cot bed, which had been placed in the large reception room, enjoyed himself hugely. Dr. Elizabeth A. Riley, who conducts the hospital, acted as hostess, and, at the earnest solicitation of her patient she invited about twenty-five of her friends, who gathered at the extreme end of the room while the performance took place in the centre.

Mr. Jenkins, who is said to have acquired a great fortune in copper mines, is about 38 years of age, and a devotee of the theatre.

4 BROTHERS FIGHT GUARDS.

Passengers Climb Out of Windows on Second Avenue Elevated.

Three tailors and a painter, brothers, fought conductor and guards on a Second Avenue elevated train last night. Some of the passengers were so frightened that they jumped from the car windows as the train drew into the Fiftieth Street station. Two of the brothers, all of whom are Russians, were intoxicated, the police say, and insisted upon lying on the seats of the cars. Passengers were forced to stand, and there were some women among them.

Finally a complaint was made to Conductor Harry D. Adams of 3,708 Third Avenue. He entered the car and ordered the brothers to get up, but scarcely had he done so when the brothers began a fight, into which the conductor, some of the passengers, and the train guards entered.

Detective Tobin, Patrolman Shermeyer, and several other men from the East Fifty-first Street Station reached the station as the train drew in, and they arrested the four brothers. They said they were Benjamin, Israel, Abraham, and Rubin Bronovitz. They all live at 235 East 117th Street.

A child who was with the brothers and who said he was Robert A. Bronovitz, the 6-year-old son of Israel, was sent to the rooms of the Children's Society.

AL SMITH DEAD.

Well-Known Referee and Stakeholder for Prize Fights Dies in Gilsey House.

Al Smith, one of the best-known sporting men in the country, died last night at his home in the Gilsey House. Smith brought out John L. Sullivan, Dan O'Leary, the walker, and many other pugilists and athletes. As a stakeholder and referee he was known from coast to coast.

SHAW WOULD BE CENSOR.

Challenges George Edwardes to Name a Man Better Equipped.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—Bernard Shaw is himself again. After a relatively long period of silence he has written a column and a half letter, which The London Times will publish to-morrow, on the vexed question of the censorship. Shaw is more strongly convinced than ever that the censorship should be abolished, but he concludes:

"If the nation still clings madly to the ideal censor clamored for by so many witnesses, a man of the world, a man of culture, brains, public experience, sympathy with literature and art, of some knowledge of the French and German drama, why not make me censor? I throw off my natural modesty so far as to challenge George Edwardes to name any living real, not ideal, person with, on the whole, a better equipment.

"At all events, if there is a better man, name him."

KEPPEL IN KING'S SUITE.

Figures as Orderly Officer in the Albemarle List of Guests.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—The Hon. George Keppel, who at one time was the American agent for Sir Thomas Lipton, has been appointed to a post in the personal suite of King Edward. He figures in the list of guests invited by the Earl and Countess of Albermarle to meet King Edward at a week end party as "orderly officer to the King."

Col. Ponsonby and Col. Hotford, two of the King's regular equerries, will also be in attendance, so the special designation given to Mr. Keppel is exciting some comment. Mrs. Keppel is included in the house party.

NURSERY SCHOOL OF PEACE.

Edward Ginn Asks Mothers to Discourage Battle Play with Tin Soldiers.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 10.—Edward Ginn, the publisher, who is devoted to the cause of international peace, declares that little can be accomplished without the help of the mothers. He says:

"The child should be taught not how to mount a gun and play at shooting tin soldiers. It should be taught to take care of them and guard them against getting broken. The mother should not laugh when the child stands up his red tin men and his blue tin men and says, 'Fire!' and shouts in glee at seeing them fall to the ground.

"The mother who sees her boy do that and does not try to stop him is doing much to prevent the establishment of international peace. She should, when her son takes his gun and starts for the woods to amuse himself by imagining he is killing everything in sight, tell him that by doing this he is not enjoying himself, but throwing his time away. The mother who does that is doing the greatest work in the world toward helping civilization."

Mr. Ginn also denounces the giving of tin soldiers to baby boys as cradle toys.

OVERCROWDED AT CORNELL.

College of Agriculture Unable to Accommodate Winter Course Students.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 10.—Officers of the New York State College of Agriculture at Cornell University state that the number of new students at the college this year is so large that they will be unable to accommodate in the college buildings the Winter course students, 700 of whom will arrive here in the middle of December.

Acting Director Webber explained that the registration of the regular four-year students this year is about 500, while last year it was 365. These students alone crowd the college building so that laboratories and lecture rooms are taxed to the utmost capacity, and several classes have to be held in the large auditorium. By midwinter there will be 1,200 students in the college.

The college buildings were constructed four years ago, after the State had appropriated $250,000. They were dedicated by Gov. Hughes in April, 1907. Since that time the increase in students has been phenomenal. Mr. Webber says the equipment and buildings are valued at $500,000, and the income is $300,000. At the present rate of registration increase, he says that the equipment should be doubled and the income raised to $500,000 in two years if the college is to do the work the Legislature requires.

HARVARD'S CHILD PRODIGY.

All Amazed at Mathematical Grasp of Youngest Matriculate, Aged 13 Years.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 10.—Harvard University has seen more than her share of notables in the past week, but none of these have aroused more interest than William J. Sidis, aged 13 years, of Brookline, Mass. The youngster came to the university offices Saturday accompanied by his father, Dr. Boris Sidis, and as the pair entered the door they were greeted by Recorder George W. Cram, who said, "What, again?"

"Yes," said the thirteen-year-old, "but this time for success." And he wrote his name in well rounded letters in the college registry.

Three years ago the boy first knocked at the classic gates of Harvard for admittance, but the powers that be refused him on account of his youth. Last year they still remained obdurate, and he entered the Tufts College, where he was a chum of Leopold Weiner, who graduated from the Medford Institution last June at the age of 14. Both boys were interested in the same course of study—mathematics.

For the third time, this Fall request was made to the Committee on Admission at Harvard and at last favorably acted on. Young Sidis will continue to reside with his father in Brookline, and will come here for the courses he elects. He is of Polish descent, and can speak that language and French as well as English. His studies at Harvard will embrace the higher mathematics, including calculus and a course in English composition.

He is the youngest student ever matriculated at Harvard. The lad has amazed all who have come in contact with him by his marvelous grasp on mathematical subjects, the speed of his calculations, and the ease with which he assimilates the most intricate branches of the science.

INTRUDER IN CHURCH AT BANNARD MEETING

This Profanes a House of Worship, Cries a Man Suspected to be of the Opposition.

DISCUSSION IN CLASS ROOM

With Very Personal Questions Asked by Visitors Not of the Congregation —Intruders Depart.

A meeting addressed by the Republican candidates, Otto T. Bannard and John Purroy Mitchel, in the classroom of the Manhattan Congregationalist Church last night, was brought swiftly to a close by the protest of a Tammany man against using a place of worship for political purposes.

The protest caused a lot of excitement in the congregation for a few minutes. The Rev. Henry A. Stimson, the pastor, hastened to explain that he and his congregation believed that the ends of practical Christianity were best attained by just such meetings. Just prior to this the questioning process had elicited from Mr. Bannard a repetition of the statement that he would not retire from the ticket in favor of Mr. Hearst.

John B. A. Mullally, Tammany candidate for Assembly in the Fifteenth District, made the protest. Mr. Bannard and Mr. Mitchel had just finished replying to a long list of questions, many of them exceedingly personal, when Mr. Mullally, in frock coat and carrying his silk hat, forced his way to the front and demanded recognition. He said that he had seen a sign over the church door announcing that Mr. Bannard was to speak on "The Needs of New York," and that a discussion was to follow. He had listened a little while to the speaking and the campaign questions asked and answered.

An Intruder Interrupts.

"I am the son of a Presbyterian clergyman and the grandson of one," continued the protest bearer.

"I am also a lawyer and am here at the request of some of the younger members of this congregation to protest against the holding of a political meeting in this church. I do not come here as a lawyer, however, but as a citizen and a Christian. I came as a follower of Him who said there should be no petty squabbling in a place dedicated to His worship."

A buzz ran through the room. Members of the congregation looked at each other uneasily.

"It's a far cry from the Congregationalist Church to the place—a place where you would not take your wives or your daughters—but where Mr. Parsons and Mr. Woodruff met in the dead of night and decided that these men you have heard here to-night were to be on the ticket," continued the speaker. "I am not here to make a political speech."

"Mr. Bannard has set you an example here in teh house of God by smiling at every serious question you have asked him," continued Mr. Mullally. "Yes, here in the house of God—"

Mr. Stimson, who had been standing uncertainly, waving his hand now and then at the speaker, who had paid no heed, interrupted at this point.

"Now, I think—." He began taking a step toward Mr. Mullally. But the latter went on.

"I protest against the holding of a political meeting in the house of God," he repeated. "All in this congregation who are in favor of what I have said will please follow me from this place."

And, without looking at Mr. Bannard and Mr. Mitchel, who sat near by, puzzled by the unexpected turn the meeting had taken, he started for the door, several men who had followed him into the room trailing along after him.

There was a buzz of comment in the room till Mr. Stimson held up his hand for silence.

"We believe that the best Christianity is practical Christianity," he said. "And we believe that the way to make the community better is to improve the condition of the community, both mentally and physically, if possible through the Church. We thank you for coming. The meeting is over till next Sunday night."

Strange Questioners on Hand.

In the questioning which preceded Mr. Mullally's appearance the congregation had much to keep it excited, for a dozen or more men who had never before been seen in the Manhattan Congregationalist Church, and looked more like members of a Cooper Union audience, were on hand, primed with all sorts of questions for Mr. Bannard and Mr. Mitchel. Several times these questions were so personal that the candidates either refused to answer or were saved from answering by the pastor's intervention.

The whole proceeding was evidently a surprise for Mr. Bannard. He had been invited to address the congregation and to listen to a discussion which would follow. His address was delivered from the pulpit in the church itself, but after this the congregation adjourned to the classroom at the side of the church, where the pastor explained that the right of free speech would be observed, and they could, as he expressed it, "get closer to the candidates" than they could in the church itself.

The church had not been quite filled at the short service which preceded Mr. Bannard's address, but as soon as he began to speak the men already referred to, who had been waiting outside, entered and sat down near the door. They occupied front seats in the classroom when the congregation adjourned there, and the discussion began.

Won't Withdraw, Bannard Says.

"Is the prospective Mayor in favor of new subways to be built with the city's money, and since your candidacy has become a menace to the success of the ticket will you withdraw in favor of Mr. Hearst?" asked one young man near the front, explaining that he meant no offense.

"Our subways must come from the city's money," replied Mr. Bannard. "But they should not be operated by the city until the city government is more honest, and—I'm not going to withdraw."

A storm of handclapping greeted this.

"I want to know what Mr. Bannard regards as the difference between himself and Mr. Hearst?" was another question.

"That is a personal question," declared Mr. Stimson.

Mr. Bannard's answer was: "I haven't begun to attack the other candidates

JEROME THOROUGHLY OUT.

Rumor That He Will Leave Town Until After the Campaign.

All efforts to communicate with District Attorney Jerome yesterday met with failure. It is not known yet what part, if any, he will take in the campaign, but the chances are that he will make few, if any, speeches.

John A. Henneberry, chief clerk in Mr. Jerome's office and the manager of his two campaigns, says that he does not know the District Attorney's plans. Despite the fact that it is said that a decided effort has been made to induce Mr. Jerome to enter the campaign in behalf of both ex-Judge Whitman and George Gordon Battle, the Tammany nominee for the District Attorneyship, there was a rumor last night that he would leave the city shortly for a vacation of several weeks and would not return to town until the election smoke had blown away.

Mr. Whitman says positively that he has not personally taken any measures to induce Mr. Jerome to take the stump for him or indorse his candidacy. He also says that if his friends have taken steps in either of these directions they did so without his knowledge or consent.

MAY WED SAXON PRINCE.

Family of Miss Kerens of St. Louis Will Not Discuss Report.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 10.—Persistent rumors in local circles of the engagement of Miss Gladys Kerens to Prince Gonthier Schönberg of Saxony are not discussed by the Kerens family. Prince Schönberg is now a guest at the Kerens home, and has been for a week. His entertainment has been entirely informal, large events having been omitted at his own request. He leaves for New York Tuesday, and sails for Berlin in a few days.

The Prince met Col. and Mrs. Kerens and Miss Gladys at a house party at the home of Senator Stephen B. Elkins, at Elkins, West Va., last Summer. When he expressed a desire to see St. Louis he was invited to the Kerens home during centennial week.

Prince Schönberg was born at Potsdam on Aug. 30, 1887. His father, Prince Victor, died in 1888. His mother is dead also. An elder brother, Prince Otto, is now head of his house. Prince Gonthier is landlord of Fontanele, Valea, Seca, and Fasleu Serat, in Roumania, and makes his home on the family estates in Saxony and Berlin. He is a Lieutenant of Artillery in the German Army.

BLUE SUNDAY IN PENSACOLA.

Only One Theatre Manager Dared Give a Performance—No Newspapers Sold.

PENSACOLA, Fla., Oct. 10.—This was Blue Sunday in Pansacola, the Law and Order League enforcing enactments of fifty years ago to the letter. Not even a newspaper or cigar could be purchased, while those housekeepers who failed to provide themselves with bread and neglected their marketing on Saturday had to rely upon restaurants for their Sunday dinner.

Meat markets, bakeries, fruit stands, cigar stands, book and newspaper stores, theatres, and other classes of business heretofore wide open, kept closed.

One man defied the laws and the league —a theatre proprietor—who opened his doors this afternoon and ran uninterruptedly until the closing hour to-night.

The Sheriff refused to make arrests, unless members of the Law and Order League made affidavits and got warrants.

SKULL BROKEN AT FOOTBALL.

Players Crash Together in Staten Island Game—Youth May Die.

Ernest Stamm, 27 years old, of 411 Sixth Street, Brooklyn, was perhaps fatally hurt while playing football at Midland Park, Staten Island, yesterday afternoon. He was playing on the eleven of the Acorn Athletic Club of Brooklyn against the St. Paul's Athletic Club of Richmond.

Stamm rushed to recover a ball and so did Frederick Staerle, 21 years old, of 370 Seventy-fourth Street, Brooklyn. Their heads met while they were going full tilt as they stooped to grab the ball. Both fell to the ground. Stearle revived in a few minutes, but Stamm was rushed to the S. R. Smith Infirmary Hospital, where it was found he had a badly fractured skull.

Stearle was arrested.

FALL BLOTS OUT MEMORY.

Man Who Slipped Out of Apple Tree Doesn't Know Who He Is.

Special to The New York Times.

SUMMIT, N. J., Oct. 10.—Recovering consciousness to-day for the first time since he fell twenty-five feet out of an apple tree yesterday afternoon, John Coghlan of Short Hills gives no sign of necessarily fatal injuries, but his mind is a complete blank as regards past events. He does not know who he is and appears to have lost all sense of identity or relation with the world about him.

Coghlan struck on his head when he fell. The doctors say that his condition may be the result of a slight concussion of the brain. It is also possible that a clot of blood has formed which will blot out his mental record of the past unless it is possible to remove it.

HEALTH BASIS FOR DEGREES.

Radcliffe's Physical Director Would Bar Girls in Poor Condition.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Oct. 10.—Poor physical condition should be considered a bar to conferring a college degree upon girl students, in the opinion of Miss Elizabeth Wright, physical director at Radcliffe College.

Miss Wright goes even further, and says that girl students unwilling to do gymnasium work should be asked to leave college.

"Every college should have a physician whose duty it should be to examine every girl and pass an opinion on her health," says Miss Wright. "On finding anything the matter with a student, he should report it at once to the Dean, and if the ailment is only temporary he should prescribe the amount of time she should devote to study."

Register to-day. It is the last day of registration. If you fail to register you cannot vote at the election on Nov. 2. The registration places open at 7 A. M. and close at 10 P. M. A full list of registration places in Manhattan and the Bronx is printed elsewhere in THE TIMES to-day.

HEARST BROKE FAITH, GAYNOR NOW CHARGES

Solemnly Pledged Him Support Unconditionally on Any Ticket, Even Tammany's.

HEARST'S BITTER DENIAL

Says Gaynor's Statement Bears Its Own Refutation—Letter from Block to Corroborate Gaynor.

The mystery of Justice Gaynor's allusions on Saturday to a "breach of faith and plighted word" that he did not believe "possible in this world" was bared last night when the Democratic candidate for Mayor directly accused William R. Hearst of having unconditionally promised to support him on any ticket this Fall and of having betrayed him. He also charged the editor with being jealous.

Justice Gaynor told of two meetings with Mr. Hearst, backing up his story of what took place between them with a letter to him, signed with the name of Rudolph Block of Mr. Hearst's editorial staff, corroborating the statement that the editor gave such a pledge to the Brooklyn jurist, Mr. Block saying that he was present.

In making his charge of treachery, Justice Gaynor ridiculed Mr. Hearst's complaint that Tammany had stolen the machinery of the Independence League, asserting that he would not let the convention of that body be called for the reason that he had found that a decisive majority of the delegates chosen were in favor of Gaynor. No party boss, said the Justice, ever went so far as this.

He hinted that the refusal of the official in authority to call the convention might be found to be "an indictable offense," and said that this was being "looked into."

Referring to Mr. Hearst's cry of ballot-box stuffing at the League primaries, Justice Gaynor said that there were probably not ballots enough at any poll "to stuff a teacup, let alone a ballotbox." Four-fifths of the delegates throughout the city, he added, were for him, he had been informed, and he intimated that this was the real reason for Mr. Hearst's repudiation of his league.

Justice Gaynor's Statement.

Justice Gaynor's statement begins with this letter from Rudolph Block of Mr. Hearst's editorial force:

New York, Oct. 9, 1909.

My Dear Judge: I have received your letter, and I cannot tell you how distressed I am over the course that matters have taken. I regret exceedingly to be drawn into the affair, but inasmuch as I was instrumental in bringing about your meeting with Mr. Hearst, and urged you so often on his behalf to run for Mayor, I feel that, since you ask for it and put the matter up to me, you have a right to my testimony.

Shortly before Mr. Hearst left for Europe last Summer he asked me to bring you to his house. I think this was the second or third time you had ever seen him. He asked you if you would not run for Mayor in the Fall. You asked him why he did not run himself, and said that if he desired to run or would run you would not get in his way. He answered that, under no circumstances, would he run, and urged you to run. You asked on what ticket. He responded: "I don't care what ticket you run on. I'll support you on any ticket."

I suggested then that perhaps Tammany might nominate you. He answered: "It makes no difference what party nominates him, I will support him." And he added: "I am not opposed to Tammany, but to Tammany methods, and when it does right it is entitled to credit."

You thanked Mr. Hearst and said that you might go to Europe in August, and that you would think the matter over. He expressed a wish that you would see him in Europe and asked that you let him know your decision after you got back. He said that if you wanted any article favoring or leading to your candidacy to be published in The American during his absence I was to see that it went in.

Sincerely yours,
RUDOLPH BLOCK.

Hon. William J. Gaynor, Brooklyn, N. Y.

After this letter, Judge Gaynor's statement continues:

"To this statement of Mr. Block, who is a member of Mr. Hearst's distinguished editorial staff, at a large salary, I add that after returning from Europe I saw Mr. Hearst in September according to promise. I said to him that a large number of organizations had already declared for me for Mayor, and that I might conclude to run.

Says Hearst Was Pledged.

"He said that he had in no way changed his mind, and that he would support me, whatever ticket I ran on, or whoever nominated me. He reiterated this repeatedly, and with apparent enthusiasm. He came out into the hall to the elevator as I was leaving, and took me by the hand and told me to come out with a statement that I would run and that he would support me. He repeated this several times.

"A few days later my letter to the Committee of Nine was written. A few days later the newspapers all announced that Mr. Hearst was participating in what was called the fusion conference between the Republican leaders, the 'Committee of One Hundred, and others, and opposing me. I could not believe it at first, but when it became beyond a doubt I sent a verbal message to Mr. Hearst that his conduct had given me the most painful shock I had ever experienced, as up to that time I had never encountered or seen such a breach of word.

"I received back a verbal message from Mr. Block, and by letter from other reputable persons who were about Mr. Hearst, that he did not deny he made the promise to me, but claimed at the time he made it he meant only 'regular' nominations, and that 'Tammany' never entered his mind.

"I do not understand this use of the word 'regular,' unless he wants to claim that his promise did not include the nominations of me by petition.

Even if Tammany Chose Him.

"Mr. Block informed me that he at once informed Mr. Hearst that 'Tammany' had been expressly mentioned, and that Mr. Hearst finally admitted it. He then began to favor me in a way, and as every one knows finally came out openly with a statement three or four days ago that he would support me, and advising all members of the Independence League to vote for me.

"Meanwhile, the primaries of the Independence League had been held throughout all the boroughs of the city. It was found that a decisive majority of the delegates chosen were in my favor.

"Thereupon Mr. Hearst would not permit the convention to be called, and the official of the League Party, who it was to issue the legal call, refused to do so. No other party boss ever went as far as this. It is said this may be an indictable offense, and it is being looked into.

"After the primaries Mr. Hearst began to cry out fraud, as usual, and that his ballot boxes had been 'stuffed.' No one could vote at the league primaries except its enrolled members, as every one knows. In fact, the enrollment was a mere skeleton, most of the districts having only a very few on the roll, and only a handfull voted at the great majority of the polls.

"For instance, at the poll in Brooklyn of Alfred J. Boulton, who is probably the next in the league after Mr. Hearst, only two votes were cast, as I am informed by Mr. Boulton himself.

"There were not ballots enough at any poll, probably, to stuff a teacup, let alone a ballot box. And yet the bald statement of Mr. Hearst that Charles F. Murphy, or Tammany, or some one, stole his primaries, or stuffed his ballot boxes, seems to have been gulped down by every partisan newspaper in the city.

"I can only say that prominent men in the league informed me that the sentiment in the league was overwhelmingly for me, and that they proposed to help to have delegates chosen for me at the primaries, and they did so, although I requested them to take no such part for me.

"There is not a pretense of any irregularity even in more than two or three districts throughout the city, and yet four-fifths of the elected delegates all over the city are for me, I am informed.

"Mr. Hearst now repudiates his league party, will not permit the convention to be called, and is having himself nominated by petition against me. I never had a moment's jealousy of Mr. Hearst, and hate to see his heart so blinded with jealousy and hate of me.

An Advantage in Money.

"I am fully conscious that his great estate of from $50,000,000 to $65,000,000 gives him a huge advantage over me in one respect, but I am ready to meet him before the people of New York. I suppose we are about to witness again such a lavish use of money by a candidate for office as was never before witnessed in American politics, and which if continued must in the end debase and corrupt our politics and our system of government. But it may be that with all his money and newspapers and power the people of New York may not let him run over me so easily as he thinks."

Justice Gaynor was busy most of the afternoon and evening preparing his statement to the public as to Mr. Hearst. He had been so moved by the action of Mr. Hearst in agreeing to run for Mayor that he changed his mind about spending the day on his farm at St. James, L. I., and remained at his home in Brooklyn.

The newspaper men were forced to call three times at the house before any statement could be obtained. Finally he sent his personal representative at the house, John F. Scanlon, to the waiting reporters with the statement. It is expected that Justice Gaynor will have more to say about Mr. Hearst at the mass meeting in the Academy of Music in Brooklyn to-night, which will be his first appearance on the stump.

Warm Denial From Hearst.

William R. Hearst issued early this morning a statement in reply to Justice Gaynor, in which he denies positively that he promised to support him under any circumstances on any or all tickets. Any such declaration, says Mr. Hearst, "bears its refutation on its face." Here is the statement:

> If Judge Gaynor has stated that I promised to support him under any and all circumstances, and upon any and all tickets, he states what is positively untrue. I will try to assume that he is honestly mistaken, but it is difficult for me to do so, as the proposition is so unreasonable and impossible that it bears its refutation on its face.
>
> Judge Gaynor is not a lifelong friend or a deeply loved brother to whom blind devotion might be due. He has been to me merely a representative of certain ideas, an exponent of certain principles. While he was supporting those principles I supported him. When he deserted those principles, I parted from him. I am still earnestly following the principles which Judge Gaynor falsely professed, and it does not seem to me, therefore, that I have deserted Judge Gaynor, but rather that he has discreditably deserted both his principles and his friends.

His Attitude Publicly Stated.

Judge Gaynor, moreover, does not have to hark back to any imagined impression gained in private conversation to learn my attitude toward him. I made a public statement of my attitude on Sept. 8. If that statement was wrong, why did he not correct me then? I said in a public speech before the County Committee of the Independence League, "We will know whether or not we can support Judge Gaynor when we know for what he stands and with whom he sands." I said on Oct. 6 that I believed Judge Gaynor's opinions would prove to be entirely satisfactory, but that he must be explicit and definite in the statement of his opinions, and that he must explain adequately to us independents how he was going to be able to conduct his fight successfully from the inside of the Tiger.

We asked for bread and he gave us a stone. We expected a ringing declaration of uprightness and independence. We received a grudging, hedging, dodging expression of opinion, or rather lack of opinion, and a squalid suggestion that we indorse his evil associates on the Tammany ticket. He invited us independents to enroll under the stained and draggled banners of Tammany Hall, and in order to elect him Mayor to abandon our opinions, our principles, our morals, our independence, our self-respect.

He demanded that we tolerate his political associates and forget his personal treachery. He asked us to be liberal, to think as the thugs and thieves, to combine with criminals, to support a panderer. Of course, I refused. I have never pledged myself to support Judge Gaynor, but if I had I would have felt myself relieved of any pledge by so infamous a proposal.

Says Gaynor Sought Him.

It is not true that I ever asked Judge Gaynor to come to my house in order to urge him to accept a nomination. He came humbly up to my house, once, twice, thrice, hat in hand, of his own accord and in his own interest, and I have no doubt that he had previously visited Mr. Murphy's house in the same abject attitude. It is not true that I told Rudolph Block or Judge Gaynor himself or any one that I would support Judge Gaynor under any and all conditions. As for Mr. Block, the distinguished editorial associate to whom Judge Gaynor so respectfully and ludicrously refers, he is the "editor" of the comic supplement of my Sunday paper, the sponsor for Happy Hooligan, the Katzenjammer Kids, and Judge Gaynor. His interest, evidenced so peculiarly in Judge Gaynor's candidacy, merely goes further to prove that he has a sense of humor if not a sense of honor.

At the Hendrick Hudson apartment house, 110th Street and Broadway, where Mr. Block lives, it was said last night that he was out of town and would not return for two weeks.

HEARST TICKET ALL READY.

He Will Be Placed at the Head of Fusion Candidates To-night.

At the meeting to be held in Carnegie Hall this evening under the auspices of the Ivins Committee, William R. Hearst will be nominated at the head of a ticket on which will appear the names of all the Fusion candidates for city, borough, and county offices already in the field, with exception of those nominated by Timothy L. Woodruff's organization at the Kings County Republican Convention. In this instance one exception will be made. Ex-Magistrate Alfred E. Steers, the Republican and Fusion nominee for Borough President of Brooklyn, will be on the Hearst ticket.

Before the Hearst leaders concluded their labors for the day all opposition to the indorsement of the entire Fusion ticket from within the organization had been overcome. The petitions placing the Hearst ticket in nomination had already been signed by the required number of voters. Charles E. Gehring, head of the county organization of the Hearst movement, said last night that the petitions would probably be filed with the Board of Elections some time to-day.

In the Bronx, where the Hearst men had balked at indorsing the Fusion candidate for Borough President, Cyrus C. Miller, and had a candidate of their own in Col. John F. Kirby, a meeting of the Hearst followers was held yesterday afternoon at which Col. Kirby himself appeared, and in an address said that he had determined to withdraw in order that there might be a united effort against the Tammany ticket. The meeting responded by unanimously indorsing Mr. Miller.

BANNARD CAMPAIGN TO OPEN TO-MORROW

Speaking Schedule Will Keep the Fusion Candidate at a Fast Pace.

WHITMAN'S WORK CUT OUT

Besides Scores of Mass Meetings, a Club Will Make a House to House Canvass.

Bannard's Programme.

To-morrow evening — Camp Bannard, 149th Street and Third Avenue, West Side Republican Club.

Wednesday, 4 P. M.—Earl Hall, Columbia University.

Thursday evening—Academy of Music, Brooklyn.

With the preliminaries of the campaign out of the way, active speechmaking will begin in the Republican camp this week. The programme of Otto T. Bannard, the fusion candidate for Mayor, has been only partly completed. Before the week is over, it was said at the Republican County Headquarters yesterday, a speaking schedule will have been made up which will keep the candidate busy to the end of the campaign, with several speaking engagements every evening.

At the opening of Camp Bannard, William A. Prendergast, nominee for Controller; John Purroy Mitchel, candidate for President of the Board of Aldermen; Charles S. Whitman, candidate for District Attorney, and Cyrus C. Miller, the Democrat who was nominated for President of the Borough of the Bronx, will speak with Mr. Bannard. The West Side Republican Club meeting will have the same speakers, with the exception of Mr. Miller, but with Walter M. Chandler and Florence J. Sullivan added.

The real whirlwind campaigner in the municipal fight will be Mr. Whitman. Beginning to-morrow, he will speak at eight meetings every evening from now until the end of the campaign, making his rounds of the meetings in an automobile.

The Bannard Campaign Club, which is composed of Republicans, Democrats, and independents, will get on the firing line to-day. The club has opened headquarters adjoining the Bannard headquarters in the Fifth Avenue Building. It will hold an opening rally in the assembly room of the United Charities Building on Wednesday night. Henry L. Stimson, who was the candidate for Mayor of the Committee of One Hundred, will be the principal speaker, unless Mr. Bannard should decide to attend and address the club.

The Bannard Campaign Club has been organized with a view of giving its special attention to the independent voters. It has already a voluntary enrollment of some 500 members, and before the week is ended expects to have at least 5,000 members enlisted in the work of soliciting through a house-to-house canvass every voter in the city to support Mr. Bannard.

Albert B. Kerr, a lawyer, who is an enrolled Democrat, is President of the club. Edwin O. Holter, a lifelong friend of Mr. Bannard, is Treasurer, and Henry H. Curran Secretary. The Executive Committee includes Walter F. Carter, Amos Pinchot, Walter W. Price, William F. Atkinson, David M. Goodrich, W. K. Brice, Arthur K. Salomon, Charles H. Kohlstad, and James A. Gaffney.

Among the Vice Presidents are Henry De Forest Baldwin, Robert Grier Monroe, James Byrne, Robert W. De Forest, Edward B. Whitney, Erskine Hewitt, Robert Erskine Ely, George L. Rives, Felix M. Warburg, Henry L. Stimson, Isaac N. Seligman, P. Tecumseh Sherman, William A. Keener, Alfred E. Marling, and Marcus M. Marks.

Mr. Prendergast has opened headquarters in the Fifth Avenue Building. He will maintain a Brooklyn headquarters at 409 Ninth Street, in that borough.

Mr. Mitchel and George McAneny, candidate for Borough President of Manhattan, will take over the abandoned Jerome headquarters, in the Bryant Arcade Building, at Sixth Avenue and Forty-second Street.

TO CHECK ELECTION FRAUD.

Society Prepares to Enforce Corrupt Practices Act.

ALBANY, Oct. 10.—The Association to Prevent Corrupt Practices at Elections has issued a statement, which says:

"With countercharges of fraud and intended corruption already being made and reports that immense funds are being raised for the campaign in New York City, the Association to Prevent Corrupt Practices at Elections has made plans for active and aggressive work to secure the enforcement of the corrupt practices act, to minimize the use of money by all parties, and to assist as far as is within its power to secure an honest election.

"In some of the Assembly districts it is reported that great sums of money will be expended. In those districts independent citizens can accomplish a great deal by banding together for the enforcement of the corrupt practices act. Such movements as these to be effective should be bi-partisan, the independent members of both great political parties combining to prevent those corrupt practices which are limited to no section of the State and no locality. A county organization composed of members of each party who would announce their determination to enforce the law against election bribers, could, with the assistance of a fearless lawyer, run down all alleged cases of corruption and reduce the purchase of votes to a minimum. In most localities the distribution of corruption funds is not limited to Election Day. For a week before the polls open this money used for the purchase of votes is distributed. So that now is the propitious time for those citizens interested in an honest election in their localities to begin the work, and such organizations will have the assistance and support of the State Association to Prevent Corrupt Practices at elections."

During the campaign of 1908 there was expended by political committees, clubs, and candidates in the State of New York for the Republican and Democratic Parties the sum of $2,220,212.42, of which the Republican Party expended $1,466,373.91 and the Democratic Party, $753,838.52. These figures were reached after deducting all duplication. In New York County the Republican County Committee expended $152,744.78 and the Democratic County Committee $88,920.22. In Kings County the Republican County Committee expended $47,486.58; Democratic, $34,760.25; in Queens the Republican, $5,066.95; Democratic, $9,865.21; in Richmond the Republican, $3,789.08; Democratic, $4,004.25.

DR. WISE ATTACKS GAYNOR.

Says He Has Fallen Low by the Spirit of Compromise.

In the course of his address yesterday morning at the Free Synagogue on "The Spirit of Compromise," Dr. Stephen S. Wise said:

"In the last few days we have witnessed a striking illustration of the spirit of compromise, as it has brought low a jurist of learning, probity, and distinction. In accepting the Mayoral nomination from polluted and polluting hands, Justice Gaynor has stooped to conquer, forgetting that what one would have highly one must have holily.

"Assuming that he did not seek a nomination from Tammany Hall, he would have won the respect of every decent, right-thinking fellow-citizen if to those who dared to ask him to carry the banner of piracy during this campaign, he had answered in words with which, as a student of the Bible, he cannot help being familiar: 'Is thy servant a dog that he should do this great thing?'

"After a life spent in waging war on civic corruption, Justice Gaynor has been unequal to the 'great refusal,' and, instead of scornfully rejecting the proffered invitation to head a typical Tammany ticket, he has lent the dignity of his honored name to the worst of causes.

"It is the happiest augury of our civic future that New York views with pity and with anger the plot to make Tammany Hall seem respectable during the election season by covering up its hideous face with a Gaynor mask. Under the pressure of necessity it may from time to time nominate a respectable candidate, but the time is past when a candidate, however high his repute ere fallen, can make Tammany Hall respectable.

"When Tammany Hall nominates a ticket made up of Roesches and Sullivans and Hagans, it is altogether fitting and proper, but when a Gaynor consents to lead such a ticket the respectable becomes little less than tragic. Men are said to rise on the stepping stones of their dead selves to higher things. It must be that Justice Gaynor dreams of rising on the stepping stones of his finer self to the higher things of political fame and power.

"If Justice Gaynor were truly in earnest he would pursue the course followed by Grover Cleveland when he was nominated to be the Mayor of Buffalo. He would not accept the nomination until the party bosses assented to his stipulation that the rest of the ticket be made up of men of character and personal worth. The party leaders demurred, but he was insistent. And Grover Cleveland marched straight from Buffalo to Albany, and from Albany to Washington—because he would not compromise."

yet." Later, when another questioner wanted to know why Mr. Bannard thought he was better than Mr. Hearst, the candidate replied:

"For me to say why I think I am better than Mr. Hearst is a little embarrassing at this time."

"Are you in favor of the new charter?" asked one man.

"I have never read the new charter," said Mr. Bannard, but he explained later that he meant he had not read all of it.

"Isn't it foolish to try to beat Tammany in a three-cornered fight?" was another question from the front rows. "If Boss Murphy were here to-night he would smile. Why not centre on one candidate and leave little petty things aside?"

"Well, centre on me," said Mr. Bannard smiling.

A young man near the door wanted to know: "How does Mr. Mitchel account for the fact that the Fusionists take up Prendergast, a tool of Tim Woodruff's, and why, if Mr. Metz proved himself so efficient, didn't they give him a chance on the ticket? Also, how do you account for the presence of Shea for Sheriff?"

Mr. Mitchel, who until then had been sitting quietly at Mr. Bannard's side, got up.

"In the first place I didn't make the ticket," he began. "But if I had, so far as I know Mr. Prendergast, I'd have put him on. Mr. Prendergast never stood behind the snow removal contractors. I don't know Mr. Shea. If there is anything against him bring it out and let him be defeated. But I don't believe it."

A man who had entered with Mr. Mullally here shouted:

"There are some Tammany men on the level, too. There's one in this very district—Hogan. He's on the level."

"Why did you ask for an increase in salary from $5,000 to $5,500?" was another question to Mr. Mitchel.

"I asked it because I believe that the character of work in the office of Commissioner of Accounts demands a man who, in private business, is worth that much," was the reply.

Justice Gaynor's name was then brought into the discussion. "I have been a nonpartisan man for many years," said one of the questioners. "To my mind Gaynor typifies all we need in our City Government. I will vote for him. What I want to know from the candidates here is what objection there is to Gaynor!"

"Up to this year," replied Mr. Mitchel, "Justice Gaynor gave cause to believe that he was all that could be desired. But this year he has seen fit to place himself at the head of the most disreputable organization of men in New York. He goes before the city asking, not for votes for himself alone, but for votes for all the other members of the Board of Estimate. He knows that all his protestations will not serve him, with the Board of Estimate against him."

"Could not a forceful man dominate that situation?" asked a voice. There was no answer to this.

Just before Mr. Mullally broke into the talk Mr. Stimson said that he personally was glad that Hearst had entered the fight for the Mayoralty.

In his address before the discussion began Mr. Bannard said: "I wish I had been the author of that recently made phrase, 'Government is an institution to live under, not on.'"

HORRORS EXHIBIT NOW HAS A RIVAL

Dominant Note in Tammany's Exhibit of Virtue Is Its Cheerfulness.

NO LACK OF MONEY THERE

A Piano and Boys' Choir to Sing Campaign Songs—Live Stock to Hit Off the Hundred's Show.

The "Acorn Musée," an imitation of the Citizens' Exhibit opened by the Committee of One Hundred in Union Square West last week, but with the important difference that instead of attempting to depict the alleged waste of the taxpayers' money by the last city administration, it has as its prime object the defense of Tammany, will be opened to the public to-day. The "Musée" is only two doors below the Hundred's exhibit. Great Oak, Joseph J. Johnson of the Acorns, who works in the Controller's office usually, and several of the little Acorns were on hand last night to show the exhibits to reporters in advance.

The most noticeable thing about the newest political sideshow is the attractiveness of the decorations. It is clear on a moment's observation that the Acorns have had a great deal more money to spend on their exhibit than was laid out on that two doors above. The floor is covered with six inches of perfectly good clean sawdust, the pillars down the long room are wound with Stars and Stripes bunting, and there is a general air of cheerfulness.

On a raised platform there is a piano, at which an able young man officiates continually, aided every now and then by a small choir of boys' voices. They will be supplied, in a few days with "topical" verses set to popular airs. It is more or less of an open secret that Tammany is "paying the freight."

In the two windows on either side of the entrance to the Musee are cages including a monkey and a goat. The former is labeled:

> Have you seen our neighbors' papier mache cow? This is what they are trying to make out of our voters.

The goat bears the caption:

> This is Fusion's goat and her name is "After Barnyard."

At the left, immediately inside the door, is a strapping baby elephant, whose uneasy trunk is nibbling anxiously at a very tightly bound bale of hay. Over his head a sign reads:

> This G. O. P. elephant wants to eat New York City hay after Jan. 1, 1910; but he'll eat crow.

The Bureau of Municipal Research also comes in for a compliment or two. Over the piano is a sign reading: "Buy the Latest Song, 'Throw De Mud at Old New York.' By the Renowned Humorist, Dr. Frederick Cleveland of the Research Bureau."

Another sign reads:

FATHER KNICK'S CRITICS.
And how the naughty mannikins
Amused themselves with sticking pins
And needles in the great man's breeches.
—MOORE.

THE MUNICIPAL RESEARCH.
Of loud uneasy sounds a rapid flood
Rolls from his mouth in plenteous stream of mud;
With the court and Senate-House he plies,
Made up of noise and impudence and lies.

There is more poetry and there are plenty of personal references in the exhibit. Mr. Woodruff and his supposed partiality for gay waistcoats, Herbert Parsons, who is referred to as "the great comedian in his favorite character, Pecksniff; manager, Joseph Cannon; press agent, John Raines," both come in for the Acorns' attention.

The Committee of One Hundred announced yesterday that it intended to open more exhibits similar to that in Union Square within the next few days and will have fifteen in full swing before election. A new one was opened at 190 East Broadway yesterday, with placards in English and Yiddish.

The portable exhibit at Sixtieth Street and Amsterdam Avenue will be moved to 39 Graham Avenue, Brooklyn, and on Tuesday or Wednesday a big exhibition will be opened somewhere downtown in Brooklyn. On Tuesday one will be installed at 149th Street and Third Avenue, in the Bronx.

LIVELY FIGHT IN RICHMOND.

Even Relatives Are Divided Over the Campaign Issues.

The campaign in Richmond Borough this year promises to be the liveliest political battle there in many years. The most interesting contest is for the office of Sheriff, the fight being between the two Democratic Aldermen and personal friends. Alderman David S. Rendt of Tompkinsville is the Democratic candidate, while John S. Collins of West New Brighton is the Republican and fusion aspirant.

Another interesting feature is that Rendt was elected for his first term on the Republican-fusion ticket, and this year not only his colleague and friend has gone over to the camp of the enemy, but his brother-in-law, Assemblyman Arnold B. J. Wedemayer, a well-known lawyer of Stapleton, who was defeated in a bitter contest for the Democratic nomination for Justice of the Second Municipal Court at Stapleton, is a candidate for Justice on the Republican ticket against the present incumbent, George W. Stake.

The contest for President of the Borough between the present incumbent, George Cromwell, who has held the office for three successive terms, and Tax Commissioner Charles J. McCormack, the Democratic leader, promises to be as exciting as the Cromwell-Feeney campaign, when, after a long battle in the courts, Cromwell was declared elected by three votes.

TAMMANY GETTING BUSY.

But Gaynor Will Have No Headquarters and Will Spend No Money.

With the opening of the personal headquarters of Robert R. Moore and John F. Galvin, the Tammany nominees for Controller and President of the Board of Aldermen, at the Cadillac, in Times Square, to-day, the Tammany election preliminaries begin in earnest. With election day only three weeks off, the Tammany managers are preparing to make up in energy what they have lost in time already.

One of the peculiar features of the Tammany campaign so far is that Leader Murphy and Candidate Gaynor have not been in conference once since the city convention, and they personally have taken no steps toward arranging the details of the campaign. Each has refrained from making overtures, and this has resulted in neither taking the initiative. Now the Judge declares that he will have no campaign headquarters except his home in Brooklyn; that he does not know what a campaign manager is, and that he "does not intend to spend a cent" to bring about his election.

Crane intimated that some of the alleged interviews with him telegraphed from the West were not entirely authentic. "A young man who interviewed me on the train en route to Chicago has a very vivid imagination, and put words into my mouth that I did not say. I treated him better than he treated me," said the Minister. In this interview Mr. Crane was quoted as saying that the situation between Japan, China and the United States "must be admitted to be delicate." He denied having made any such statement, and declined to be drawn into any discussion of recent political events in the Far East.

"How do you think you will like your new mission?" a correspondent asked him.

"Had I thought I should not have liked it I would have declined it," he replied.

It had been planned to run the Chicago express, on which Mr. Crane arrived, into the Union Station on track No. 13, but at the last moment a change of the switches brought it in on track 19. Asked if he attached any superstitious significance to this, Mr. Crane said:

"They ought to take the train out and try it over again."

WHAT CHICAGO PAPER SAID.

Talk of Protest Against Treaty and Broken Pledge by Japan.

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—The Chicago Record-Herald of Sept. 27 contained a dispatch from its correspondent in Washington stating in effect that the United States Government was preparing to take important action looking to the security of the "open door" in China. It was stated that the action of this Government would take the form of a protest based upon the controversy between China and Japan relative to the Antung-Mukden Railroad.

It was asserted that reports had been received to the effect that Japan had obtained control, for an indeterminate period, of mining concessions in Southern Manchuria. This was regarded at Washington as a distinct menace to the "open door," according to the exposition of that policy as given by the late Secretary of State, John Hay.

The article went on to declare that during the latter part of the Roosevelt Administration, notes had been exchanged between Secretary of State Root and Baron Takahira, Japanese Ambassador, wherein it was agreed that Japan would take no action, which, on its face, menaced the "open door" without consulting the American State Department. There was, according to the Record Herald story, no written binding agreement between the two Governments, but simply an understanding.

It was declared in the story that officials of the Department of State were surprised that the United States had not been consulted relative to steps which might menace the "open door" agreement.

In no part of this story was the name of Mr. Crane mentioned, nor did there appear in any part of it anything that might be construed as intimating that the story was connected with him in any manner.

Before leaving Chicago for San Francisco, Mr. Crane was quoted in the Chicago papers as saying:

"I will go unhampered by any restrictions. The President is interested in the political questions of China and it is his desire that attention be given to them. The finances and the system of raising revenues are in a demoralized condition and need reconstructing. The systems of banking are antiquated and need to be revolutionized. The Government is trying to suppress the use and sale of opium, and there is a big field in the development of the educational systems which will give me plenty of work.

"Secretary Knox is interested in the establishment of amicable commercial relations between the United States and China and the development of the industries and resources of China, so my work will be two-fold in its nature."

A case somewhat similar to that of Minister Crane occurred when, about twenty years ago, China objected to the appointment of ex-Senator Henry W. Blair of New Hampshire as Minister to that country. Mr. Blair, like Mr. Crane, had reached the Pacific Coast when the Secretary of State ordered him back to Washington.

As a Senator from New Hampshire, Mr. Blair had taken a prominent part in the debates leading up to the enactment of the Chinese Exclusion act. He had taken the view that the Chinese were a "yellow peril"; that their religion, morals, habits, and customs were entirely dissimilar to those of Americans, and that the increase in immigration would constitute a menace to American civilization.

China declared that any man who entertained such sentiments was unwelcome as representative at the Chinese Court. There was a disposition for a time not to send another Minister, but finally it was decided to overlook China's action and to recognize the right of any nation to object to an envoy on such grounds.

CASSIDY THE ISSUE IN QUEENS CAMPAIGN

All Factions Work to Defeat Former President and Acknowledged Tammany Favorite.

PREDICTING HIS DEFEAT

Gresser, Candidate of Independents, Will Head Five Columns on the Official Ballot—De Bragga Worried.

All party lines have been broken in the triangular political fight now being waged by Democrats and Republicans in the Borough of Queens. Between the regular and independent Republicans and the independent Democrats and other factions there appears to be but one issue at stake, and that is to defeat "Joe" Cassidy and his entire ticket.

Their only point of difference is how best to accomplish this. Predictions were freely made in Queens yesterday that Cassidy would be third in the running. These predictions would indicate that the real fight will be made between the regular Republican ticket head by Joseph H. De Bragga for President of the Borough against the independent ticket headed by Lawrence Gresser.

A feature that has created consternation in the Cassidy camp and is causing uneasiness in the De Bragga headquarters is the assertion that the Gresser ticket will appear in five different columns on the official ballot. It is planned to place the Gresser ticket under the Independent Democratic nominations, under the Independent Republican nominations, the Hearst ticket, the Citizens' Union, and the Committee of One Hundred. This announcement has started out every lesser candidate in Queens with a petition getting up an independent nomination, with the result that yesterday was an active day with Queens politicians.

Out of the general mix-up only one straight partisan ticket appears in the field, and that is the Cassidy ticket, on which all the nominees are Democrats. On the Republican ticket two of the most important offices have been given to the Democrats—that of County Judge, for which Burt J. Humphrey has been named, and Sheriff, which has been given to John B. Merrill. On the Gresser independent ticket George E. Cogswell, a Republican, is named for County Judge, and it is proposed to fill out the rest of the ticket by indorsing satisfactory candidates on either the Republican or Cassidy tickets.

It has been spread broadcast throughout Queens that if that borough expects a reasonable apportionment of the public funds to take care of the necessary improvements it would be well to have Cassidy at the head of affairs, as he stands close to Tammany Leader Murphy. In event of the turning down of Cassidy, it is more than hinted that through his influence with Tammany Hall he will attempt to punish his opponents.

Up to date these three tickets are in the field:

INDEPENDENTS.—For Borough President, Lawrence Gresser; County Clerk, Martin Mager; County Judge, George E. Cogswell; Sheriff, Thomas M. Quinn; Coroners, Gustav J. Schaefer and Dr. A. S. Ambler.

REPUBLICAN.—For Borough President, Joseph H. De Bragga; County Clerk, Theron H. Burden; County Judge, Burt J. Humphrey; Sheriff, John B. Merrill; Coroners, Gustav J. Schaefer and Dr. A. S. Ambler.

DEMOCRATIC.—For Borough President, Joseph Cassidy; County Clerk, vacancy still to be filled; County Judge, Burt J. Humphrey; Sheriff, John Neiderstein; Coroners, Joseph Flanagan and John F. Rogers.

PASTOR URGES REGISTRATION.

Condemns Churchgoers Who Hold Aloof from Politics.

Declaring that the church members in this city were numerous enough to decide a city election, the Rev. Dr. S. Edward Young of the Bedford Presbyterian Church, Brooklyn, denounced in strongest terms in his sermon last night those church members who failed to register or who held aloof from politics.

"The church member," he said, "who by sheer neglect has failed to register by the time the books are closed Monday evening should be disciplined by his church and denounced by its members. Is it nothing to church members who shall control the city's purse, its police, the salaries of its employes, the health of its millions of people, the education of its 650,000 school children, its hospitals, its parks? I know of no truancy to be more condemned than truancy of the ballot box."

Dr. Young went on to say he was astonished by the church members who did not care to take interest in "dirty politics." It would be better, he told them, if they "soiled their hands a little" to make the City Government clean.

"It is because the best people will not enter the political arena," he declared, "that our city's destiny is ruled by men we are ashamed to own as friends."

An Achievement—and a Great One. The

Weber Grand Pianola Piano

The highest phase of pianism has for many years been associated with the Grand form of pianoforte. It is the Grand that is regarded as the supreme test of the piano-maker's art. It is the Grand that is invariably used by the great concert pianists. Therefore, the union of the PIANOLA with the Weber Grand Piano is not to be regarded as an ordinary development in musical instruments, but rather as an achievement of real magnitude—one destined to have far-reaching effects.

Not only is this instrument remarkable in combining for the first time the PIANOLA and Grand Piano, but it also contains important features which add greatly to the artistic character of the performance.

It is the FULL SCALE, or 88 note model, of PIANOLA that is employed, thus bringing out the deepest bass notes or the highest treble in the piano's range.

The Themodist, accenting the melody, gains in effectiveness by the new Graduated Accompaniment device, producing the cantabile effects so essential to the highest order of piano playing.

Another feature is the new Pedal Device enabling even the novice to use the "Sustaining Pedal" of the piano with proper effect.

These improvements, together with the vitally essential Metrostyle, bring out to the best advantage the WEBER Grand's magnificent tone and result in an instrument that may properly be described as epoch-making.

SMALL REGISTRATION PUZZLES LEADERS

Say They Are at a Loss to Account for the Lagging Figures.

THIS IS THE LAST DAY

Manhattan Has Fallen 17,830 Behind the Total of Three Days in the Last Mayoralty Fight.

With the registration figures for the first three days lagging far behind not only last year's record for the same time, but also behind the figures of the first three days in 1905, when the last municipal election was held, both the Republican and Democratic leaders have been directed from their respective headquarters to do all in their power to get out a large registration to-day, the final day.

Politicians in both camps frankly confess that they are puzzled and disappointed. Last year being a Presidential one, naturally it would be ahead of this year in the registration of voters. But why the figures should fall behind the last Mayoralty year the leaders do not know, unless it can be accounted for by apathy on the part of the voters.

Here is a comparative summary covering the totals for the first three days of registration in 1905, 1908, and this year:

	1905.	1908.	1909.
Manhattan & Bronx	277,576	293,494	259,746
Brooklyn	179,132	197,881	173,479
Queens	23,453	35,894	36,636
Richmond	11,097	12,240	11,952
Total	496,258	539,509	481,813

This is how the boroughs compared with last year's figures:

Manhattan—Decrease from 1905, 17,830; from last year, 33,748.

Brooklyn—Decrease from 1905, 5,653; from last year, 24,402.

Queens—Increase over 1905, 13,183; over last year, 742.

Richmond—Increase over 1905, 855; decrease from last year, 288.

These comparisons show that there has been a notable decrease in all boroughs with the exception of Queens, where there has been an immense influx of population in the last four years, and even since the last election was held. Queens shows an increase, and Richmond, where there has been opened considerable new territory for building purposes during the last twelve months, remains practically stationary.

The grand total for registration in 1905, the last Mayoralty year, showed an aggregate of 647,089 voters registered in all the five boroughs. The grand total for four days last year was 681,739. In order to bring the total for this year up to the figures for 1905, 165,276 voters must register to-day. To reach last year's total would require a registration to-day of 199,926.

The leaders do not expect to be able to reach last year's total. Ordinarily, the total of four years ago should be surpassed this year. It has been calculated that there is an increase in the voting population of about 8 per cent. in four years. But to attain this result would require the registration of twice as many voters to-day as registered on Saturday, and that is more than the registration machinery, with the signature provision and present stringent registration law, could take care of.

Herbert Parsons, President of the Republican County Committee, shows plainly that he is worried over the registration. The decrease seems to have affected the heavily Republican districts more than the districts generally carried by the Democrats.

There has been considerable falling off in the Sullivan districts, at the lower end of the east side, but this can be accounted for partly by the tearing down of tenement houses in that locality to make room for bridge approaches and by the migratory movement to sections on the city's outskirts.

But for the decline in the grand total for the entire city there is nothing that will explain except apathy or the exodus to New Jersey following the opening of the McAdoo tubes.

When asked to account for the slim registration on Saturday and for the falling off in the totals, Mr. Parsons said the registration this year should not be compared with that of last year, when a President was elected. He said he thought much of the decrease could be accounted for by the elimination of the fraudulent registration which has marked other Mayoralty years. This year the laws are more stringent, and the precautions taken to prevent fraud more comprehensive than ever.

MARSHALL FIGHTS TAGGART.

Indiana Governor Will Lead Opponents of Democratic Machine.

Special to The New York Times.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 10.—Conferences among Democrats from all sections of Indiana, quietly held in the office of Gov. Marshall, culminated in the announcement to-day that the Governor had consented to take the leadership of the Democratic Party. This means real opposition to the Thomas Taggart machine, which is backed by the brewers and saloon men.

The Governor is opposed to any action by the State Convention on the question of local option. He will insist that members of the Legislature be left uninstructed on this question unless their immediate constituencies see fit to instruct them. He holds that it is not the office of a State Convention to take up the matter.

Those who have consulted with Gov. Marshall believe that he wants to give the party a new line of attack and to keep it from alienating its best element. Taggart, Senator Fleming, and Representative Sweeney have been arranging for an anti-local option campaign next year, but will have to fight to carry out their scheme.

RADICALS FEAR TAFT WILL GIVE UP FIGHT

Strong Suspicion in Wisconsin That He Will Be Dominated by Aldrich and Cannon.

FEW ARE OPENLY WITH HIM

They Generally Are Foes of La Follette—Boston and Winona Speeches Are Strongly Criticised.

Special to The New York Times.

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 10.—"Mr. Taft cannot persuade this country that he can till the field of the Roosevelt policies with Aldrich and Cannon for his team. He has got to have a different pair of plow horses."

In that language a Wisconsin member of the House described to THE NEW YORK TIMES's correspondent the feeling of Republicans in Southern Wisconsin regarding the Republican Administration. He had been asked what was the effect on the Republicans of this State of the recent speeches of the President.

Now, there is a curious fact at once apparent whenever one begins to talk up here of the recent Taft speeches. The President has delivered a number of notable addresses since he started at Boston on his swing across the country. Some of them, especially that at Des Moines, have dealt with subjects dear to the hearts of the Republicans of the Northwest. The way in which Mr. Taft discussed the subject of corporation control and the measures he outlined in that Des Moines talk meet with the instant approval of these Republicans when they are brought up by the questioner.

But such expressions do not come spontaneously from the politicians. It always takes a prodding question to get a start on that line of discussion. The subjects that come voluntarily are the speeches at Boston and Winona, the praise of Aldrich and the defense of the new tariff law.

There is a substantial reason for this reticence about the Des Moines speech. It is apparent in all that is said on the other topics. These Republicans have become suspicious of Mr. Taft—not, perhaps, of his intentions, at least not openly so as yet, but of his power, or at any rate of his determination to carry out his announced programme, if carrying it out shall develop a hard fight with Aldrich and Cannon. And there is scarcely a Republican in Wisconsin who believes that such a programme can be enacted into law without a fight with Aldrich and Cannon.

Radicals Repudiate Taft.

One finds three classes of Republicans up here. The first—from the point of view of outspokenness—is composed of those who have practically made up their minds with regard to their President. They tell themselves that they have been "buncoed," and that Roosevelt was deceived in his man when he selected Taft for his successor. They say that Taft has gone over entirely to the camp of the enemy, and that Aldrich and Cannon have him bound hard and fast and ready for delivery at any needed point.

Only one argument is needed by these men to demonstrate fully their position. They point to the course of the President in helping Cannon on the organization of the House, and in treating with Aldrich and Cannon throughout the tariff fight. That indicates beyond question, in their minds, the readiness of the President to continue dealing with Aldrich and Cannon throughout his administration, and you might just as well whistle at the wind and tell it to stop blowing as to tell these men that Aldrich and Cannon will ever put through a satisfactory programme of corporation legislation except under the compelling influence of a club.

These men don't believe there is any fight left in Mr. Taft. They are convinced now, far ahead of the actual conflict, that its issue is already determined; that the end will be a compromise by which the corporations will be left untouched and the "people"—meaning themselves and their class—will be "buncoed" again. It is qiute useless to point out to them the folly of reaching fixed conclusions now as to what is going to happen next Winter. They reply simply that they are not prejudging anything. They are simply regarding the future in the light of the past, which the wisdom of all experience has taught them to do. And following that rule, they see Mr. Taft failing in his announced intentions, compromising or surrendering at the critical points, and going out of the Presidency at the end of one term leaving a disgusted, disheartened, and defeated party.

Want to Believe in President.

It is perhaps not necessary to say that these are the extreme radicals. The second class is larger and not so open in its expression of discontent. It comprises, in fact, the bulk of the rank and file of the Republican Party in this State. It is composed of men who have had a sickening experience, but are not ready simply on that account to give up hope, and who are hopefully and prayerfully looking to the Winter's work at Washington to restore them to serenity and the President to their full affection. They take his Des Moines speech at its face value as representing what he wants and intends to do. They mean to help him to the uttermost in its accomplishment.

At the same time they are uneasy. Many of them are fearful and suspicious. The blunt fact is that they have lost some if not most of their confidence in Mr. Taft, and are afraid that when the crisis comes he will not meet it fully in the way they desire. They cannot believe, any more than those of the first class can, that Aldrich and Cannon will permit the announced programme of corporation legislation to go through if it can possibly be blocked.

They expect to see Aldrich and Cannon try first to defeat the purpose of the legislation by the customary and well-known legislative tricks of emasculating amendments and by subtlety of language in the bills. But they are prepared to meet that sort of attack. They have confidence in their own ability to detect and expose all such tricks, and, moreover, they believe that Mr. Taft is himself the expert on such legislation and cannot be fooled by legislative legerdemain as he could be and was—in their estimation—on the tariff.

Fear Taft Will Fail in Fight.

What they are afraid of is that when this expected trickery has been developed and defeated and it comes to a square stand-up fight for the enactment of bills that will do the desired work, then Aldrich and Cannon will be able either to persuade the President to yield or to win him over to a compromise that would cripple if not destroy the programme. They fear that Mr. Taft will submit to the argument that it is "better to get something, even though a little, than to lose all;" that some progress is better than standing still. In other words, they are afraid that the President will not fight when fighting becomes essential to success—bluntly, that he will "quit."

It is only a fear with these men, not yet a belief, as with the first class. They are willing to wait for the event before reaching conclusions. But one fact is evident now, if their fear proves justified; if the President does quit, if he yields or compromises, and does not obtain the things he goes after, they are through with him for all time. Neither Roosevelt nor any other man can thereafter appeal to them successfully for support of Taft.

But if the President does stand up to the fight, whether he wins his legislation or loses it will make no difference with these men in their regard for him. They will acclaim him as a hero of the same stamp as Roosevelt and will follow him joyfully to the end. If he gets into a struggle with Aldrich and Cannon next Winter, the hearts of the Wisconsin Republicans will leap for joy. They will be behind him to a man, and will go down with him to defeat so far as the legislation is concerned, shouting hurrah and just waiting for the next opportunity to fight again.

The third class of Republicans is the quietest, and perhaps it is the smallest, although in respect of size it may have some advantage over the first. It is composed of men who are saying that President Taft is all right, that he got the best tariff law that could have been expected, and that he will show before long the true stuff of which he is made. Two things are noticeable about these men. To begin with, they are not so very loud in the expression of their views. Next they are almost unanimously opponents of Senator La Follette. They speak somewhat contemptuously of the Republican critics of the President as "La Follette men," and say that the only open opposition is to be found in the "La Follette newspapers."

National Forces in Local Fights.

Much could be said in explanation of this situation, but it is not the purpose in this dispatch to go into the complications of the local Republican rows. They have only one bearing upon the question of National politics. That is in the information coming from both sides that National forces are making themselves felt in the local fights, and on the side of the opposition to La Follette. This fact tends, of course, to confirm the suspicion of the first and second class as to Mr. Taft's course in the future. If he is using patronage, or permitting it to be used, against the men who have opposed Aldrich and Cannon in the Senate and House, that fact alone will tend to confirm these men in their suspicion that he will be found sympathetic to Aldrich and Cannon in questions of legislation and discipline.

The "La Follette men"—who are nearly all in the first class here described—and some of the second class also, promptly reply to the third class indorsement of Taft and the tariff law that it is inspired by opposition to La Follette, and that if La Follette had been for the tariff law they would have been against it.

One new element of hope has been given to Wisconsin Republicans by the President's Western trip. They smile at the suggestion that he has convinced the people here that the tariff law is a good one. They reject the suggestion that he has improved his own standing among the Republicans of the Northwest by his speeches. But they do think that he has learned something himself as to their feeling, and they hope that he will profit by it.

LA FOLLETTE FOLLOWS TAFT.

Will Make Anti-Tariff Speeches Along the President's Trail.

Special to The New York Times.

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 10.—It is a striking coincidence that Senator La Follette's Chautauqua tour of the West, while he is to resume at once, will take him over the identical country which President Taft is about to leave. The President defended the tariff, but La Follette will flay the bill. The Senator is engaged to deliver a certain number of addresses and the Chautauqua Bureau designates the places. It was announced before President Taft began his tour that the Senator would go West over one of the northern routes, then travel down the Pacific Coast and return by a more southern route. The Senator has received a partial copy of his itinerary, and it discloses the fact that he will take up Mr. Taft's track in Minnesota and be close to it all around the West. He will speak at two points in North Dakota, six points in Montana, one place in Wyoming, several places in Washington and Oregon, eight places in California, one in Utah, and three in Colorado.

COOK TALKS IN MILWAUKEE.

Welcomed by Committee of City Officials and Business Men.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 10.—Dr. Frederick A. Cook, the arctic explorer, delivered a lecture before a large audience in the Auditorium to-night. A committee, composed of city officials, members of the Citizens' Business League, and the Merchants and Manufacturers' Association, met Dr. Cook at the railway station, whence he was driven to the Pfister Hotel, where an informal reception was given him.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 10.—Dr. Frederick A. Cook, who lectured here yesterday, had a day of royal receptions, and if a complete programme had not been made out beforehand, some of these entertainments would certainly have been canceled.

In the forenoon Dr. Cook was taken to the Chamber of Commerce, where all the members had gathered, and where President Roth, in a rather neat little speech, told the assembled financiers that "Dr. Cook has but a few minutes to speak, but will tell something about his discovery of the north pole."

Dr. Cook was greeted with long outbursts of applause, much longer, in fact, than his speech. The explorer bowed and stepped to the front of the rostrum. He held in his fingers a piece of paper about the size of a postage stamp.

"Ladies and gentlemen," he began, and then looked at his paper. "The reception comes from cold-blooded business men," and looked at his paper again. "It pleases me greatly. Thank you."

Then he bowed his way out. When he had gone President Roth looked about him and tried to smile, but he couldn't when he saw the faces in front of him.

Some one said: "Well, what do you know about that?" and the meeting adjourned.

McMILLAN COMING HERE.

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 10.—Prof. Donald P. McMillan, who was a member of Commander Peary's expedition, left Freeport for New York to-day.

He told his friends before he went that the forthcoming statement of the Peary Arctic Club would disprove all Dr. Cook's claims to the discovery of the north pole.

TAFT PREACHES DUTY OF SELF-RESTRAINT

At Meeting Arranged by Ministers of Fresno, He Says It Is Basis of Citizenship.

TAKES A TEXT FROM BIBLE

Points Lesson with Reference to Those Countries Where Minority Meets Defeat at Polls with Revolution.

FRESNO, Cal., Oct. 10.—From the snow-capped Sierras yesterday President Taft plunged to-day into the Summer heat of the San Joaquin Valley, and arrived here shortly after 3 P. M., when the thermometer was hovering about the nineties. Practically the entire population of the city and surrounding country greeted the President, and after a short automobile trip through the business section he addressed a gathering of many thousands in Court House Square.

The meeting was arranged by the Ministerial Association of Fresno, and nearly all of the churches of the city were represented. The President spoke for the first time since last Wednesday noon. He was introduced by Mayor Howell.

"It has not been my part," said Mr. Taft, "until I began this trip, in religious exercises, to do other than form one of the audience, but I have found it impossible under the urgency of the ministers of the Gospel who occasionally desire a lay substitute, to keep them from taking their place and attempting to preach a sermon."

The President's speech was in fact another Sunday sermon, the third he has preached since his trip began.

His text, quoted from memory, was, "He that ruleth his spirit is greater than he who taketh a city." From this text the President drew the lesson that popular government must always be a failure unless it is based upon sound common sense and the self-restraint that goes to make the good loser. He drew an analogy between the American people in this respect and those people who in their attempts at self-government follow an election with a revolution. On his way here President Taft stopped at Merced for three hours and attended morning service at the Presbyterian Church.

The President's greeting at Fresno came from what is probably the most cosmopolitan community he has met in all his travels. In the throngs that lined the walks was a comingling of Chinese, Japanese, Armenians, Portuguese, and a dozen other nationalities. In fact it was said to the President that in one of the public sections twenty-six nationalities are represented. One-half of the Armenians of the entire country are said to be gathered here. Having the reputation of being one of the hottest cities in the United States, with a Summer temperature ranging between 100 and 115 degrees, Fresno has attracted many from other sunny climes.

A feature of the President's visit to Fresno was the presentation of an address of good-will from the Japanese residents, as follows:

> Mr. President: We, the Japanese residents of Fresno City and surrounding country, have the great honor to offer to you our sincere and most friendly greetings and to accord you a most joyous welcome to our community. We hail you, Sir, as the honored chief of a great Nation which we are glad is on the friendliest terms with ours, and we also rejoice that our beloved country, Japan, has the honor and great privilege of reciprocating such fraternal regard.

The President left here at 6:20 P. M. for Los Angeles, stopped at Bakersfield to-night for a few minutes to make a car-end address. He was a little stiff from his long mountain walk of yesterday, but declared that he would like to have a similar experience every day.

What Mr. Taft Said.

Mr. Taft's speech, or sermon, after the preliminary remarks already quoted was in part as follows:

"I want to say," said the President, "with respect to this audience that the presence of the veterans of the civil war is always a great inspiration to higher thoughts, to higher moral standards, and to everything that goes to make our country worth living for. There is a text, I don't know that I can quote it exactly, but to those gentlemen before me who have taken part in the battles of the war, it will come by reason of its comparison, with great significance: 'He that conquereth himself is greater than he who taketh a city.'

"Now, the homely application to the individual of that text, I need hardly to point. There are so many instances in little things. I like to dwell upon the importance of little things in life, for life is not made up of one great series of grandstand plays. It is made up of the little things that go either to make others happy or to make them unhappy.

"It is the conduct of the husband as he comes home from a tired day in restraining himself when he is met by his eager, curious wife, who wants to know how he has been living during the day and what has happened. Perhaps something has happened that does not please him or that he does not like to refer to, and he cuts her off with a short answer. Oh! I know it—and so do you. You have done it; so have I.

"Now, it is the overcoming of that disposition, the keeping constantly in your minds and hearts her happiness, and yet your comfort and your disposition. That is what makes you greater than taking a city.

"But I am supposed to look at things from a political and governmental standpoint, and the text applies to me more strongly in that regard, possibly, than in any other, because of some very acute experiences I have had in political matters.

"Popular government we all approve of, though sometimes I don't think we know exactly when we do approve it. I think we mistake frequently ends for means. We talk about liberty as something to be accomplished as an end. We think of popular government as something to be accomplished as an end. Well, neither is true. Liberty is a means in the pursuit of happiness. Popular government we have, because we believe in the long run that it is the best government; that it is the government that makes most men happy.

"But you cannot run a popular government merely by calling it so. You have got to have some means of determining what shall direct the course of government; what shall decide—that is the majority. I don't know any other method in a popular government. We do have checks. We do have indirect means of giving expression to that vote of the majority, but when you get down to the basis it is the control of the majority.

Majority Must Rule, Its Spirit.

"Now you cannot have a decent popular government unless that majority can conquer itself; that is, unless that majority exercises the self-restraint that men with great power ought to exercise. And why? I am not going into the various parts of the world, but I might call your attention—if it were not that I am in a responsible position now with respect to foreign countries, and I must speak with care.

"I would call your attention to a good many instances where those who are in favor of popular government, and who, if I may use the expression, pull the tail feathers out of the eagle in deifying liberty and apostrophizing everything that we think dear, yet, just as soon as they become a majority think that fact gives them the right to control the minority absolutely, and if the minority show any disposition to question it they send them to jail.

"What is the effect of that? They say this is popular rule; this is the rule of the majority. So what does the minority do? Why, the minority says, 'We will take to the woods,' and they do take to the woods. And so we have that system that alternates between an election and a revolution, if you call that popular government.

"Now, why is it that it works that way? It is because the majority and the minority do not govern themselves and do not exercise that self-restraint, without which popular government is absolutely impossible. And that is the application of the text that comes home to me in thinking and dealing with these countries that are struggling for popular government. A minority that is beaten in the election cannot stand the defeat. It has to go to the woods. They are not good losers, and the majority are not good winners.

"Popular government is a most difficult thing to establish. We have had to hammer it out in a thousand years of Anglo-Saxon suffering, controversy, and contest. And now it rests in the common sense and the self-restrain of the American people. It rests in the knowledge of the many that they must keep within the check of the law and Constitution if the Government is to be preserved.

"And it must rest in the view of the minority that it is much more important that the Government should be sustained than that the minority should for the time being have control of, or a voice in, the Government. It rests in the knowledge of the majority that the rights of the minority and the individuals of the minority are exactly as sacred as the rights and the wills of the individuals of the majority."

UNEMPLOYED NAME A MAYOR.

Cornelius Donovan, President of Tenants' Union, Heads Their Ticket.

The Executive Committee of the Eight Hour League, the "party of the unemployed," decided yesterday to file its certificate and emblem with the Board of Elections to-day. The committee says that it has 3,000 signatures to its petition or, 1,000 more than are needed for a place for it on the municipal ballot.

The emblem of the league is a clock with three hands pointing to the hours of twelve, four, and eight, and it had already issued campaign buttons with the emblem. The league's only nominee is Cornelius Donovan, President of the Tenants' Union, for Mayor.

Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway

The Drawing of these Lands (10,000 Farms of 160 acres each) will be held at Aberdeen, Oct. 26

The land over the greater part of the reservations is well adapted for farming. The soil is fertile and where it has been farmed by the Indians, good yields of grain have been raised. It is similar to that in the counties on the east where land sells for $25 and $50 per acre. Lignite coal is found over a great part of the reservation.

The Chicago, Milwaukee and Puget Sound Railway—the new line to the Pacific Coast, crosses the Standing Rock reservation and is the only railway on or through this reservation.

CHINESE CALLED ON TO BOYCOTT JAPAN

Circulars Threaten Vengeance, and Even Death, for Those Who Do Not Accede.

ASSOCIATION PUSHES PLAN

Oppression and Slavery in Railroad Zone Charged—Japan Will Insist That Propaganda Be Stopped.

TOKIO, Oct. 10.—Copies of circulars issued in North China by a body of Chinese calling themselves the Popular Association of the Three Eastern Provinces have been received in Japan, after having been spread broadcast among Chinese of the lower classes. The circulars contain inflammatory statements against the Japanese. They bear upon what is called "the weakness of poor China" and "the insulting aggression of Japan."

Assertions are made that Japan has devastated the arable lands of North China and enslaved laborers along the line of the Antung-Mukden Railroad; that Japanese officials have beaten the men, insulted the women, and terrorized the people.

The circulars point out that the weakness of China in a military sense makes it impossible for her to resent this treatment except by a boycott, and call upon the people of China generally to refuse all dealings with the Japanese. All students and persons who value freedom are called upon to propagate the doctrines of the association. Failing in this, they are threatened with vengeance and even death.

The document concludes with the request that Chinese vehicles, vessels, and railroads refuse to carry Japanese goods. An endless chain is sought in the request that patriotic citizens into whose hands the circular may fall shall have them reprinted and scattered broadcast until Japan is completely shut out from all commercial communication with China.

These circulars have created something of a sensation in Japan. Efforts are being made to prevent the spreading of their contents among Japanese of the ignorant class because the danger of arousing feeling at this time is recognized. Meanwhile there is reason to believe that Japan has called, or will immediately call, the attention of the Chinese authorities to the illegality of the boycott propaganda, demanding that the circulars be outlawed as illegal documents, and that the "Popular Association of the Three Eastern Provinces be disciplined."

The exact method by which China is to control her people in this way is not known, but it is believed here that the Government of China can suppress promptly any boycott movement. All merchants of standing in China have official rank and can be disciplined.

CHOLERA THREATENS SEOUL.

Bad Sanitary Conditions Favor Its Spread—Schools Regularly Fumigated.

SEOUL, Oct. 10.—Cholera threatens to become a serious epidemic here. The authorities are taking every precaution, but Seoul is not a sanitary city and the disease has spread rapidly. The palace of the ex-Emperor has been invaded, and the home of the Resident General has not been immune. The schools are closed regularly for fumigation.

For a year the sanitary authorities appointed by the Japanese Resident General have been cleaning up the city, but only those who have gone into the alleys and byways of Seoul can know the uncleanliness of the place. Two years ago cholera would have swept Seoul, as the city was then without drainage of any kind. Rain was the only scavenger. Now there is a reasonably good water supply, and some kind of operating drains has been built.

With the use of disinfectants, there is reason to hope that the plague will be checked. Physicians of the Dai-Han Hospital, which Prince Ito recently opened, are doing tremendous work in disinfecting, and are ably seconded by medical missionaries.

NORTHCLIFFE MILL SET GOING.

Lady Williams, Lady Northcliffe, and Mrs. Beeton Start the Machinery.

Special to The New York Times.

GRAND FALLS, N. F., Oct. 10.—Before an audience of a thousand people the Harmsworth mills were formally opened last night. Bishop Jones of the Anglican Church pronounced the invocation, and Lady Williams, wife of the Governor of Newfoundland; Lady Northcliffe, and Mrs. Beeton, wife of the President of the Harmsworth Company, by pressing levers set going three paper-making machines, all amid resounding cheers.

Gov. Williams spoke briefly, urging the workmen to labor assiduously for the interest of the colony and their own interest, predicting that the colony would have ere long many other similar enterprises.

After the machinery was started the assemblage began a tour of inspection. A promenade concert followed until midnight. The special train with the guests from St. John's started homeward shortly afterward.

ST. JOHNS, N. F., Oct. 10.—Lord and Lady Northcliffe, Gov. Sir Ralph Williams, Premier Sir Robert Morris, Bishop Llewellyn Jones, the Anglican prelate of Newfoundland, and the other members of the official party which attended the opening of the Harmsworth paper mills at Grand Falls Friday and Saturday, returned here to-day by special train.

An interesting feature of the opening was the presentation by Lady Williams, in behalf of Lord Northcliffe, of a gold watch to John Slade, a mill workman of eighteen years, for bravery. Slade has but one leg, but swam for and rescued a fellow-workman who was at the point of drowning.

SPANISH MAYOR ARRESTED.

He and Other Officials Suspended for Encouraging Gambling.

MADRID, Oct. 10.—In Spain every city, town, and village has its casino, which is at one and the same time a sort of café, club, political centre, and gambling place. Certain kinds of gambling are prohibited.

It having been ascertained a short time ago that one of these prohibited games was being conducted in the casino of the City of Baza, near Granada, the Civil Governor of the province sent a special officer there to stop it. In the casino at the time was the Mayor of Baza, while the Lieutenant Mayor was running the game and several other city officials were playing. The special officer ordered the game stopped, whereupon the Lieutenant Mayor and the other players set upon him and beat him, and, calling in an ordinary city policeman, bundled him off to jail, to all of which the Mayor gave his approval.

This happened several days ago. Yesterday, at the direction of the Civil Governor, six municipal officials of Baza, including the Mayor, Lieutenant Mayor, and a Chief Sergeant and officer of the municipal police, were suspended from office and placed under arrest, together with nine other men.

CZAR GOING TO ITALY SOON.

May Visit King Victor Emmanuel at Racconigi Within a Week.

ROME, Oct. 10.—It is expected that the Czar of Russia will visit King Victor Emmanuel within a week. Signor Melegari, the Italian Ambassador to Russia, has already returned to Italy in order to receive him.

The strictest secrecy is being maintained as to where the meeting between the Emperor and King will take place, but it probably will be at Racconigi, the Summer castle in Piedmont, where the Italian sovereigns have made a prolonged stay this year. According to some persons it will occur at Bari, on the Adriatic, northwest of Brindisi, which is rich in Russian memories. The Empress Alexandra, who is still ill, will not accompany her husband to Italy.

The Czar abandoned the idea of a voyage to Italy by sea because Turkey granted permission for his ship to pass through the Dardanelles only on the condition that he would visit the Sultan, while the Czar took the ground that under the rules of precedence the Sultan, having ascended teh throne at a later date than himself, should be the first to pay a visit.

DOUBT AMERICAN PROTEST.

TOKIO, Oct. 10.—Special dispatches alleging that the United States is contemplating a protest against the recent Chinese-Japanese agreement are printed in leading newspapers to-day, with extended editorial comment.

Almost without exception the editors think the alleged protest will not materialize and that the dispatches are without authority.

NO DEAL ON CANNON, RAINES AGAIN SAYS

Issues a Statement Denying Parsons's Version of the Defeat of Election Bills.

NO TIME TO ACT ON THEM

Thinks One Goes Too Far—Insinuates That Parsons Sought Choice Committee Places from Cannon.

CANANDAIGUA, N. Y., Oct. 10.—John Raines, Republican leader in the State Senate, in a formal statement to-night, replied to charges made by Herbert Parsons, President of the New York County Republican Committee, that important amendments to the election law were defeated in the last Legislature through a deal by up-State Republican leaders made to obtain Democratic votes in the House for re-election of Speaker Cannon.

Senator Raines says that Senator Agnew introduced only two resolutions for the discharge of the Judiciary Committee from further consideration of election law bills. One of these measures, he says, "was known as the Identification bill, and this is presumably the important bill which was defeated on account of the alleged deal between the agents of Speaker Cannon and the up-State leaders. I have said there was no such deal, to my knowledge. Mr. Parsons has cited the defeat of this bill as the result of that deal."

The vote on this measure, Senator Raines says, was as follows: For suspension of the rules—Senators Agnew, Allds, Brough, Cobb, Cordts, Davis, Gledhill, Grattan, Hamilton, Heacock, Hewitt, Hill, Holden, Hubbs, Mackenzie, Meade, Platt, Raines, Rose, Schlosser, Travis, Wainwright, White, Witter, all Republicans, and, with four exceptions, all from above the Bronx.

Those voting in the negative were Senators Bayne, Burlingame, Caffrey, Cronin, Cullen, Frawley, Gardiner, Grady, Harte, Hinman, Kissel, McCarren, McMenus, Newcomb, Ramsperger, Schultz, Stillwell, C. D. Sullivan, T. D. Sullivan, Wagner, three Democrats from above the Bronx, one Republican from above the Bronx, Mr. Hinman, and thirteen Democrats and three Republicans from below the Bronx.

Wants Blame Put Elsewhere.

"It will be noted that Senators Hinman and Newcomb voted against the suspension of the rules," Senator Raines goes on. "Had they voted with the other twenty-four Republicans, most of them from up the State, the rules would have been suspended, and in all probability Mr. Agnew's bill, which Mr. Parsons says 'was so vital to secure honest elections in the City of New York,' would have been passed.

"In view of this record, what becomes of Mr. Parsons's statement as to the conspiracy on the part of up-State Republicans to defeat this legislation in the interest of Mr. Cannon's re-election as Speaker? And what becomes of Mr. Parsons's charge of bargains on the part of up-State Republicans with Democrats for the defeat of this legislation? Let him charge it to Senators Newcomb and Hinman, who voted against it, or to Senators Allen and Davenport, who did not vote at all.

"The fact that on the last day of the session, Senator Agnew's motion to reconsider the vote by which the motion to suspend the rules was lost on the previous day, failed to receive the necessary votes, and that several changes of votes were made on that day, is not a factor as evidence of a bargain, because it was thoroughly understood that to carry such a motion meant that no business whatever would be done before the hour fixed for adjournment of the Legislature.

"It is not necessary to discuss the merits of this bill. I find I voted for it, but have some doubts as to whether I should ever do so again, as it virtually makes it possible on election day to compel through challenge, the answering by each voter of all the identification questions which are put on the four days of registration. Under such a system the possibility of a blockade at the polls on the one day of election would seem to be very great.

No Time to Pass Bill.

"The only other bill on which a record was made was Senator Agnew's bill, introductory number 813, for which Mr. Ward's bill was substituted. This bill is one which I have always favored, it being a restoration of the election law to the form in which it was first passed, providing that election districts should consist of 400 voters. The motion to lay on the table was carried, simply because to consider the bill then would have resulted in blocking most important legislation. This bill does not seem to be of that important nature which would authorize Mr. Parsons to charge a conspiracy between up-State Republicans and others for its defeat."

Senator Raines adds that the comity of feeling between himself and Minority Leader Grady is only such as to prevent filibustering, and promote the orderly transaction of the business of the Senate. He repeats his denial of having aided his son to obtain a place in the office of the Controller of New York, and in closing refers in sarcastic vein to Mr. Parsons, who, he says, can cite as proof that he did not intend to rehabilitate himself in some way for his alliance with the insurgents, "his numerous applications to Speaker Cannon to secure for him, from the Speaker, important committee assignments."

"I hope this communication will satisfy him that such attack was unwarranted," Senator Raines says. "One of the most important features in the prevention of casting illegal votes is to keep the names off the registers. In the effort to do that a Republican Legislature has gone to about the limit."

ARRESTED TWICE IN A NIGHT.

Auto Speeder Bailed by Alderman's Brother, Then by the Alderman.

Bicycle Policeman Dunn timed a red automobile that was running down St. Nicholas Avenue last night. Finding, he says, that it was going at the rate of twenty-five miles an hour, he stopped it at 116th Street. In it were Rudolph William Rudolph of 149 St. Nicholas Avenue, who said he was an advertising agent, and two women. Mr. Rudolph and one of the women remonstrated with the policeman all the way to the West 125th Street Station.

There they divided their attention, Mr. Rudolph, addressing Lieut. McNulty and the woman Policeman Dunn. Mr. Rudolph declared that he had believed that St. Nicholas Avenue was in a rural section of the city, and that automobiles could go as fast as they pleased on it. She told Policeman Dunn that she knew a good many people at 300 Mulberry Street, and that she would have him discharged. Finally Mr. Rudolph sent for Max Marx, a brother of Aldeman Samuel Marx. Mr. Marx bailed him out. That was at 9:55 o'clock.

Lieut. McNulty had just completed his entry in the blotter about the case, when Bicycle Policeman White came walking into the front door, and behind him was Mr. Rudolph, and the two women. White made a charge that the automobile had been going down St. Nicholas Avenue at the rate of twenty miles an hour. Lieut. McNulty wrote it down. There was not a sound from the prisoner.

"Anything to say?" he asked Mr. Rudolph.

"Nothing," answered the automobilist.

"What's the trouble?" he asked the woman.

"Nothing to say," she answered.

Mr. Rudolph then sent for Alderman Marx himself, and was again bailed out.

OPPOSES CANADIAN NAVY.

Leading Member of Parliament Will Work Against Government's Plans.

Special to The New York Times.

OTTAWA, Oct. 10.—It is evident that there will be opposition in Parliament to the Canadian Government's proposal to begin the construction of a Canadian navy.

C. A. McGrath of Alberta, one of the ablest members of the House, states that in the next session he will take the ground that Canada should make an annual contribution to the British Navy, and that an arrangement should be made that in ten years the contribution be returned to Canada in some equivalent form, such as ships or armament.

Mr. McGrath believes that it is not in the interests of Canada to be plunged into competition with the powers in navy building.

Smith Gray -Clothes-

THE AIM.

This "new meaning" which we have twice spoken of in connection with our clothes is just this: they don't look ready-made, don't even suggest it. That is not an apology for ready-made clothes, because all properly made clothes suggest neither "ready-made" nor "tailor-made." They simply elicit the comment "irreproachable." That is the point we have aimed at.

WARSHIP SIGHTSEERS FOOLED BY BOATMEN

"Stop at All the German Ships," Cried Barkers, but Couldn't Take Folk Aboard.

GERMANS NOT RECEIVING

One Boatman Arrested for Fraud, but Released—Poetic Consolation for Some on Gunboat Wasp.

Several thousand Germans went to the foot of West Ninety-sixth Street yesterday afternoon to vist the German cruisers, which, with the Dutch cruiser Utrecht, are the last of the Hudson fleet in New York. The German ships, however, which have been noted for open hospitality were closed to visitors yesterday and only those who had invitations or near relations on board the ships, were allowed to ascend the gangways.

The boatmen who own the launches that ply between shore and ships knew that no visitors would be permitted to board the German cruisers, but they did not spread their knowledge. Instead they shouted out every few minutes:

"A boat is about to leave for the German ships and we will stop at all of them."

As a result the scene at the landing when the disappointed Germans were brought back became one of much confusion. The Germans demanded to know why they had been taken alongside the ships only to be told by a young deck officer that they could not come on board. The boatmen replied that they had not guaranteed to put them on board, but had only promised to take them to each ship in turn and try and put them on board.

The police made an effort to stop the deception, but they got scant encouragement. No one was willing to go to the station house and press a charge.

The efforts of the Germans to get on the ships were in many cases really pathetic. On one boat, that had on board enough men, women, and children to fill two boats, was an old man who has a nephew in the crew of the cruiser Hertha. The boat he was on went alongside the Hertha twice, but the officer of the deck when he saw the crowd that was packed in the little launch shook his head and said he was sorry, and that even the old man could not be allowed to come aboard.

The old man was finally taken back to the landing, where he was informed that if he told one of the German officers on duty at the landing his predicament he would undoubtedly be taken to the cruiser on one of the launches of that ship. He did so, and saw his nephew, having lost an hour riding about in the river in the overladen launch.

The case of the old man was akin to that of hundreds of other Germans, both men and women, who wanted to visit the ships, and who like him had relatives or close friends on the ships. Few of them found out until they were in midstream that they should have gone out on one of the cruiser launches, which were the only boats that could put them on the cruisers.

The cruiser Utrecht was open to visitors, however, and that trim little ship was crowded. Everybody wanted to see the Captain's cabin and the picture that hangs there of the youthful Queen of the Netherlands. The Netherlanders are good linguists, and nearly all of the officers speak English fluently, and so every one who wanted information got it. Lieut. Lam, who has been impersonating Henry Hudson on the Half Moon's trip up the Hudson, will return to the cruiser today.

The Italian cruisers Etna and Etruria sailed away early yesterday morning, and great was the gloom of the boatmen near their landing. They had anticipated a rushing business yesterday. The Italians, it was expected, would remain until today. Only four of the foreign ships now remain in the Hudson—the German cruisers Victoria Luise, Bremen, and Hertha and the Dutch cruiser Utrecht.

Some of the younger Germans, when they found they could not visit the Kaiser's ships, went to the naval yacht Wasp, the training ship of the Manhatan Naval Militia. The Wasp is anchored abreast the Hertha, about 100 yards inshore. Some of the visitors to that ship came away with a poem. The Wasp, when in the regular navy, was the most famous recruiting vessel in the service, which explains the poetry that girl visitors received. Here is a little of it:

"The good ship Wasp," said the bo'sun's mate,
As he danced about in glee,
"Is as good a ship as ever sailed
On the rolling deep blue sea;
She may not toot,
But she'll recruit
To beat four dollars," said he.

"She may recruit, but she isn't the Victoria Louise," said a disappointed poetry-laden German maiden yesterday.

SUNDAY CROWD AT NAVY YARD.

Sees Ships of Atlantic Fleet, There Preparing for Southern Cruise.

Several thousand persons visited the New York navy yard, in Brooklyn, yesterday, where the battleships Connecticut, Rhode Island, and Nebraska are being made ready for the Winter cruise to southern waters. These vessels will remain at the yard several weeks for minor repairs and overhauling.

As the crowd looked at the three-funneled Ohio few of them realized that the days of that ship in the Atlantic Fleet are numbered, for, with the coming of the big battleships Michigan, South Carolina, Delaware, and North Dakota, four of the ships now in the fleet will in all probability be placed in reserve. The Wisconsin, Missouri, and New Jersey, it is understood, are other ships to make way for the mightier newcomers. The Michigan will join the fleet in about two months, the South Carolina a few weeks later, and the other two Dreadnoughts early in the new year.

The opinion in Brooklyn is that some of the naval officers attached to the ships now at the yard will take their physical tests some time within the next two weeks. The officers who are required to take the test have the choice of a horse, a bicycle, or a long walk. It is believed that most of them will walk.

FEARED SECRET SERVICE.

Sanity of Young Man Who Asked Police Protection to be Tested.

William L. Castle, who said he was a son of Henry Northrup Castle of 166 Freeman Street, Norfolk, Va., a wealthy man engaged in the gas industry there, was committed to Bellevue Hospital yesterday by Magistrate Finn in the Jefferson Market Court to have his sanity tested.

The young man walked up to Patrolman Conway at Broadway and Washington Place yesterday morning, and said he wanted to give himself up. He told the policeman that he did this in order to escape being watched by Secret Service men.

He told the policeman that he was living at 109 Waverly Place with an old friend of the family, Mrs. J. Landers. So when he was taken before Magistrate Finn Mrs. Landers was sent for. She said that Castle recently arrived from Honolulu, where he had been engaged for three years past in the real estate business.

Shortly after his arrival here he told her that he was being followed by detectives. Saturday night he aroused the house by making a noise like a steamboat whistle. Then he removed bricks from the open fireplace in his room. These he hurled out into the back yard, crying out that he hoped the Secret Service men would be killed. When his supply of bricks was exhausted he threw out his clothing.

Mrs. Landers finally quieted him, and telegraphed to his home. Mrs. Landers had a clipping from a Honolulu paper two columns in length. It said that Castle had boarded a Pacific Mail steamer outward bound and returned on the pilot-boat. He went to the office of the Pacific Mail Steamship agent in Honolulu and offered to bet $1,000 that he would repeat the prank, the newspaper said.

When he was committed he declared that he had been trapped, that it was a fraudulent court, a fake Judge, and bogus policeman. He shouted that he had great and powerful friends, including District Attorney Jerome, who would make all concerned pay dearly for taking away his liberty.

Special to The New York Times.

NORFOLK, Va., Oct. 10.—Henry L. Castle, son of Henry Northrop Castle of this city, has been in business in Honolulu for several years. His father and family connections here are prominent socially.

SETTLING ENCYCLOPEDIA SUIT

Negotiations in Progress to Buy W. M. Jackson's Partnership Claim.

The suit brought before Vice Chancellor Howell in the Court of Chancery in Newark last Spring by Walter M. Jackson of Newton, Mass. against Horace C. Hooper of London and others involving Mr. Jackson's alleged partnership interests in the American and English Encyclopaedie Britannice Companies, may be withdrawn in a short time. It was learned yesterday that negotiations have been in progress by which Mr. Jackson will receive a large sum—said to be several hundred thousand dollars—in return for relinquishing his claim.

In this country the Encyclopaedia Britannica is published by the Encyclopaedia Britannica Company, an Illinois corporation; in England by the Hooper & Jackson Company, Ltd. In this suit it is alleged by Hooper that no partnership agreement existed. Jackson introduced into the proceedings letters meant to show that in the making of plans for the selling of encyclopedias in this country, England and elsewhere, there was a partnership understanding.

It was brought out incidentally in the testimony that Hooper & Jackson once planned to purchase The London Times and begin an active advertising and circulation campaign. Nothing came of this, Lord Northcliffe's syndicate acquiring the paper.

A notable array of counsel has appeared in the case here, including Henry W. Taft, brother of the President: Robert H. McCarter, and Richard V. Lindabury.

FINDS SISTERS AND FORTUNE.

Luck of Lieut. Hehl of the German Fleet on His Visit Here.

Lieut. Fritz Hehl of the German battleship Dresden, which steamed away on Saturday, accidentally found two sisters in Brooklyn from whom he had been separated for twenty years, and also learned that he was one of the heirs to an estate left by an uncle in the Middle West. He said he would get a leave of absence as soon as he could, and would then come back to America for the double purpose of paying his two sister a more extended visit and of looking into his inheritance.

A number of German naval officers were the guests of honor on Friday night at a ball given in Prospect Hall, Prospect and Fifth Avenues, Brooklyn, by a German dramatic society. Two of those who placed themselves in line for introduction to the officers were Mrs. Minnie Lehmann, who lives in Brooklyn, and her sister from Chicago, Mrs. Clara Pfutzenmeier.

Mrs. Pfutzenmeier thought she saw in the Lieutenant something that stirred her memory. Her father and mother had died in Germany of typhoid fever in the same month, leaving the two sisters and a younger brother to the care of friendly neighbors. Shortly after that an uncle in the Middle West had sent for the two girls. They had grown up with his family. On his death he left a considerable estate to be divided between the three children. The sisters could find no trace of their brother.

As soon as Mrs. Pfutzenmeier came before the Lieutenant she asked his name, put a few searching questions to him, found that he was her brother, and then the ceremony of introductions was halted while Lieut. Hehl embraced Mrs. Pfutzenmeier and Mrs. Lehmann.

$63,749 IN PLEDGES TO SAVE THE HEATHEN

Dr. A. B. Simpson's Christian Alliance Goes Right on Breaking Records.

DONATION OF LAUNDRESS

$15 Brought Down the Aisle, with Many Hallelujahs—Everybody Ready to be Missionaries, It Seems.

Moved by exhortation, two large audiences, one at the Gospel Tabernacle, in Eighth Avenue, near Forty-fourth Street, the other at the New Amsterdam Theatre, signed pledges yesterday to give $63,749 to the work carried on here and abroad by the Christian and Missionary Alliance, of which the Rev. Dr. A. B. Simpson is President and chief collector. Last year the pledges aggregated $60,000, so this breaks the record. The contributions yesterday, Dr. Simpson said, included $6,000 in cash.

The Christian and Missionary Alliance has a training school for missionaries at Nyack, N. Y., but is best known for these collection meetings. The two rallies yesterday and a service last night at the New Amsterdam Theatre marked the close of the annual convention of the alliance, which had been going on for ten days at the Gospel Tabernacle. The morning rally at the tabernacle proved the more stirring of the two, $42,795 in pledges and $4,000 cash being put in the collection plates.

Dr. Simpson, before the morning collection, preached a sermon on the parable of the Good Samaritan, and in it urged the audience, which filled every seat in the tabernacle, to give all they could to support the missionary cause. Just as he was getting down to the point of announcing that the year's collection was at hand, a white-haired woman tottered down the middle aisle, in her hand clutching a roll of bills. As she reached the platform she exclaimed:

"Hallelujah! Praise the Lord! Here's all I have."

"So it's you, Sister Sophie," said the doctor, who seemed to recognize her. "You've given us $15."

"Bless your heart," replied the woman, "I only wish it was many times more."

That brought subdued applause from the audience, and the aged woman fairly danced in the aisle.

"Sixty thousand hallelujahs!" she cried as she made her way back to her seat.

Dr. Simpson said she was Sophie Lichtenfield, who maintains a family of some size by doing washing.

With an orchestra from the Alliance Training School leading, the audience sang Gospel hymns and ushers passed through the aisles with cards on which the pledges were to be written. These, with the cash donations, were then collected and Dr. Simpson read the pledges off.

"You understand that there will be no duns," he told the audience. "You write down what you wish to give during the year and then you give it as God wills. No one will remind you of it."

The pledges ran from 50 cents to $7,000, the latter being the contribution of the school at Nyack. Individual donations of $500, $100, and up to $3,000 were read off. As the larger sums were mentioned the audience would break into loud "hallelujahs."

As Dr. Simpson read the contributions they were checked up by his wife and others on the platform and totaled. When the clergyman announced the morning's pledge of $46,795, including two large hats full of silver and bills, there was a chorus of fervent "amens" and the orchestra struck up the Doxology, which was sung with a will.

In the New Amsterdam Theatre in the afternoon rally a dozen boys and girls from the audience volunteered their services when a call was made by Dr. Simpson for "little messengers" to take up a special collection for orphans in foreign lands. The children went through the house with the ushers and brought back the pledges. The total at this meeting was said to be $16,954, with $2,500 cash in the boxes.

Dr. Simpson asked the audience, while the collection was being taken, how many of them would offer their services as missionaries here or abroad. In all parts of the theatre men and women arose to signify their willingness. The doctor promised to ask for volunteers by name some time later.

RAIN MAY PREVENT TO-DAY'S BALL GAME

Weather Indications Unfavorable for Third Contest for World's Championship at Detroit.

TEAMS TIED FOR TITLE

No Change Will Be Made in Location Until Next Two Games Are Played —Interest in the Struggle.

STANDING OF THE CLUBS.

	W.	L.	P. C.
Pittsburg	1	1	.500
Detroit	1	1	.500

Pittsburg and Detroit are scheduled to play the third game for the world's baseball championship at Detroit to-day, although weather indications point to a postponement. The schedule adopted by the National Commission calls for games to be played daily between Oct. 8 and 14, Sundays excepted. Four more games yet remain to be contested. In the event of rain it will be necessary for the two teams to remain at Detroit until the first two games scheduled for that city have been played. The fifth game will be played at Pittsburg following the two at Detroit, and upon completion of that contest, the rival teams will play again at Detroit.

Should each team win three games a tie will result and a seventh game to decide the championship will be played. The National Commission will select the city for the deciding game, which may be some city other than those represented in the series for the championship. It is barely possible that New York, Philadelphia, or Boston may be selected in the event of a tie, although the probabilities point to a Western city.

NO GAME LIKELY TO-DAY.

Heavy Rainstorm Will Probably Cause First Postponement.

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 10.—The chances of playing the third game of the world's championship series between Pittsburg and Detroit here to-morrow are extremely dubious because of a heavy rain that began shortly after noon and continued without intermission for hours. According to the local forecaster the rain will continue steadily all night and possibly all day to-morrow. The rain may be steady to-morrow or may come in showers, and there will be brisk winds to accompany it.

While the infield at Bennett Park is protected by an immense tarpaulin and a game may be possible if the rain stops to-morrow morning, there is little likelihood of its being played. This will put the Detroit games over until Tuesday and Wednesday, and will delay the next game at Pittsburg until Thursday. As the rain is said to be general over the country there is also a chance that the stay in Detroit may be prolonged beyond even Wednesday.

The Pittsburg and Detroit teams arrived here to-day on the National Commission's special train. Manager Clarke of Pittsburg decided to bring his champions over last night instead of waiting until this morning, as he originally intended. The Pittsburg headquarters were established at the Pontchartrain Hotel. The majority of the Pittsburg supporters will not arrive until to-morrow morning, but there is a sprinkling of them here now.

The Detroit team arrived at an early hour, but there were some enthusiasts on hand to give Jennings and his men a few cheers as they drove through the streets in automobiles. Jennings wore a happy smile, and there was a general air of confidence among the Detroit players. Their decisive defeat of Pittsburg Saturday has caused a marked rise in their hopes, as they are certain Summers and Mullin will win their games.

If there is a game to-morrow, the Detroit choice of pitchers will probably lay between Mullin and Summers. If it is a dark day Jennings will likely use Mullin, because of the veteran's great speed, which will be doubly effective in the poor light. Summers may be given a chance if the conditions are more favorable, as he warmed up in excellent shape before Saturday's game, when Jennings chose Donovan.

Manager Clarke refused to make any prediction as to his selection of a twirler for to-morrow, but he intimated that his choice would probably lay between Adams and Maddox. The youngster from the American Association worked so well in the opening battle that there is a good chance he may be sent back. Great interest would be added to the game if the two pitchers who did such excellent work in the opening game were sent in.

The return of the two teams, each with a victory to its credit, has aroused the interest here to a fever heat. Predictions are being freely made that the crowd at the first game here will beat all records for world's series in this city. All the reserved seats were sold soon after the sale opened, and thousands have been unable to get them.

The National Commission is scheduled to hold a meeting here to-morrow, and it is expected some action will be taken on the Murphy-Pfeffer case. The commission has twice postponed action on this case, but it is likely it will be settled to-morrow.

Quakers Defeat Bronx Athletes.

The Philadelphia American League team, runners up to Detroit for the American League championship, yesterday defeated the Bronx Athletics, at Bronx Oval, Southern Boulevard, before a crowd of 4,000 spectators, by the score of 5 to 2. Bender, the Indian, pitched the first four innings, during which time three safe hits were made off him. Coombs then finished the game, and although fairly effective the locals, by a batting rally in the seventh, scored two runs. The visitors had practically their full team in the field, but after scoring four runs in the first three innings they eased up and took things easy. Collins and Davis led the Philadelphians in batting, with two hits each, while McGuire negotiated three safe bingles for the Bronx Athletics. The score:

CARDINAL A. C. TAKES MEET.

Sheridan A. C. Defeated in Contest by 51 Points to 42.

The dual meet between the Cardinal and Sheridan Athletic Clubs yesterday at Macomb's Dam Park was won by the former organization by the score of 51 points to 42. The victory was largely due to the track work of Irving Sammis, who won the 100, 220, and 440 yard events, scoring 15 points for his club. The result of the meet was in doubt up to the last event, and each event was keenly contested. The event was the first of an annual meeting between the two clubs, and was witnessed by several thousand interested spectators. For the losers, J. Bershein was the best point winner. He captured the running high jump and hop, step, and jump events. The summaries:

BETTING ON THE FIGHT.

Wagers That Ketchel Will Stay 15 Rounds Eagerly Taken Up.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 10.—Even money that Stanley Ketchel, middleweight champion of the world, will last fifteen rounds and two to one that Jack Johnson, the negro heavyweight champion, will retain his title after Oct. 16, when the two men will engage in a twenty-round battle at the Colma arena were thhe prevailing odds to-day.

Despite the fact that Ketchel is training for his first contest in the heavyweight class, the Michigan pugilist has a large following in this city. There seem to be large sums of the fifteen-round money, and much is being wagered that Ketchel will get the decision.

If Britt's prediction is verified, Ketchel will be heavier than many men who have contended for heavyweight honors.

Both men are training hard for the contest. The negro, having exhausted his supply of sparring timber, has announced that he will meet all comers until he completes his training.

SIX RECORDS FALL AT IRISH GAMES

New World's Marks Established in Five Events and One American Record Smashed.

LUNGHI'S SENSATIONAL RUN

Italian Clips Three Seconds Off Performance That Stood for 26 Years—Winged Fist Games a Success.

One of the strongest fields of athletes that has been gathered together during the outdoor season competed yesterday at Celtic Park, Long Island City, in the annual Fall games of the Irish-American Athletic Club, and as a result five new world's records were established and one American record was smashed. Emilio Lunghi, the Italian champion, who recently lowered the figures for the half-mile distance, started the string of world's marks by running the two-thirds of a mile event in 2:45 3-5, the former record of 2:48 1-5 having stood since 1883. Martin Sheridan of the Irish-American Athletic Club, holder of the discus record, went beyond his own best figures with a throw of 142 feet 10½ inches, and S. C. Northridge and C. S. P. Cassasa of the Irish-American Athletic Club, in the three-legged race at the 220-yard distance, made a world's mark of 27 1-5 seconds, which eclipsed the old mark by Zust and Puffer, which has stood since 1893, by 2 4-5 seconds. The four-mile relay team of the Irish-American Athletic Club, composed of Collins, Riley, Bromilow, and Kiviat, clipped 1 1-5 seconds from the best mark ever made for this event, covering the distance in 18:08 4-5, the former record being held by the University of Michigan, made three years ago.

In the 16-pound hammer event, with unlimited run and follow, John J. Flanagan sent the weight out 180 feet 1 inch. This event is practically a new one, though Tom Kieley of Ireland is credited with a mark of 154 feet 1½ inches, made in 1904. Sheridan established a second record during the day, making an American mark of 27 feet 9 inches for pushing the 42-pound stone from a stand with follow, thus eclipsing the old mark made by James S. Mitchell by slightly more than a foot, the previous American figures being 26 feet 8½ inches.

When Lunghi came to the mark in the two-thirds-of-a-mile scratch race against some of the best middle-distance men in the metropolitan section a record was looked for, in view of the speedy work of the Italian at the Canadian championships, when he clipped a fraction of a second from the world's record for the half-mile distance. Lunghi was in tune to start for another world's mark, and at the crack of the gun went out in front, and to the finish was never headed, winning easily from R. J. Egan, unattached, who finished second.

The most interesting event of the day was undoubtedly the four-mile relay race. The Irish-American team was on scratch, with the New York A. C. at 170 yards and the Mohawk A. C. running from the 190-yard point. Collins, who was the first man to run for the Irish team, cut down the lead of his opponents to twenty-five yards, and Riley, who followed, while not capable of making a gain, did not lose any ground. Bromilow then took up the running, and was in the lead by twenty-five yards at the completion of his part in the race. Kiviat, the schoolboy middle-distance man, set out with remarkable speed in the final mile, and rapidly increased the distance between himself and his opponents. At the finish he was about 100 yards in front. The summary:

120-Yard Dash, Handicap.—Won by S. C. Northridge, Irish-American A. C., (6½ yards;) W. H. Boschen, Acorn A. A., (7 yards,) second; J. Powers, South Paterson A. C., (8 yards,) third. Time—0:12.

SCHOOLBOYS' FINAL GAMES.

Morris Evening High School Athletes Wind Up Season.

The Morris Evening High School held its final monthly games yesterday at Pelham Bay Park. Big fields marked the entire programme, and the point winners alternated in the lead during the games. The feature was the three-mile run, which was won by S. Aggen, with a handicap of 300 yards. The winner held himself in reserve until the final lap, when he cut loose and won as he pleased. Fred Lindner, who captured the hop, step, and jump, made the creditable performance of 38 feet 11 inches in his first effort in this event. Kelly annexed the half-mile walk in easy style.

The club will open the cross-country season with an English hare and hounds chase Sunday, Oct. 24. All registered athletes are invited. The run will start from the headquarters of the club, 162d Street and Grant Avenue, at 3 P. M.

Carney Wins Long Run.

The monthly games of the Holy Cross Lyceum were held yesterday on the new West Side Athletic Club grounds. The feature event was the mile and a half-mile run which was won by W. Carney, who led all the way, but was pushed at the finish to beat J. Braddin by a yard. The summaries:

COAST MARIE BEATS CLARO.

Former Pacing Queen Carries Off Honors in Speedway Brushes.

With the close of the matinee season of the New York Driving Club and the delightful weather the Speedway Drive presented a lively scene yesterday. Many of the horses that have been competing at the Empire City track returned to the Sunday brushing, while a crowd numbering several thousand persons witnessed the events from both sides of the Drive near the finishing post. There was both quality and quantity, and several of the contests were so close that it was difficult to separate the horses as they flashed past the post.

In addition to many of the old-timers returning there were several newcomers, which tried conclusions with the regulars with varying success. The meeting of James A. Murphy's black pacing mare, Coast Marie, 2:11¼, and the brown gelding, Claro, 2:11½, owned and driven by Joseph F. Gibbons, was expected to furnish the most interesting brush of the morning, but Claro was erratic and acted strangely in both heats. Coast Marie had all her speed and won each heat by a big margin.

Composer, 2:12¾, driven by Andrew Crawford, came down the Drive with Ismalian, 2:21¼, with Thomas G. Hinds in the wagon. It was a nip and tuck affair for the first half of the distance, when Ismalian drew away and won by a couple of lengths. Composer then tried conclusions with Rose Electrite, 2:15¼, driven by E. Botenus. Composer came under the wire well in advance of Rose Electrite, but Driver Crawford admitted that Composer had run the best part of the distance and that Rose Electrite was entitled to the brush.

Max Simon brought out a new bay mare, Bonnie K., which he raced against Hugh Riley's little mare, Lucy. The latter was in splendid fettle, but broke near the end, and before she could recover Bonnie K. made up the lost distance and won by a length. L. N. Hartog drove his favorite, Katie Gay, meeting Jap, 2:20¼, driven by Thomas Lawson. The pair was well matched, but Katie Gay had the foot of her opponent and finished well in the lead. Lucy, after her first defeat, made good in her second attempt, beating William Durando's Joe Thompson.

J. Kennedy returned with Billy K. and signalized it by winning an exciting brush from Jap. Another pair of old-timers to make their reappearance was Christopher Hackett's Sallie A., 2:16¼, and James A. Murphy's Free Advice. The pair made a good contest for three-quarters of the distance, when Free Advice drew ahead and in the end won by a comfortable margin.

Two members of the Wilkes family gave the spectators a rare treat. Fred W. Bossert drove Mistrel Wilkes, 2:15½, while William J. Clark was behind Thomas G. Hinds's Mona Wilkes. The former won after a spirited finish.

Lady Worthy, the show horse, driven by Max Oettinger, showed her heels to Dr. C. H. Martin's Dicker, 2:17, in two heats, and in the final heat of the morning W. C. Reynolds with a new bay mare beat Philip Helpenhausen's Lemon Girl, 2:32. Among the fast performers jogged during the morning were Kinstress, 2:09¼, driven by De Witt C. Flanagan, and Sid Axworthy, 2:12¼.

The first Speedway matinee of the Fall will be held Wednesday, the following entries having been received by the Brush Committee:

XAVIER'S MONTHLY GAMES.

Liberal Handicaps Cause Defeat of Club's Crack Runners.

Keen competitions marked the monthly meet of the Xavier Athletic Association yesterday at Macomb's Dam Park. About 3,000 persons watched the club athletes complete a programme of six events. The defeat of J. Clarke, the long-distance runner, in the two-mile handicap was not unexpected. Clarke has been running in Marathons lately, and as a result has lost much of his speed. He dropped out in the last half mile of the event. S. Kennard, who was on the 150-yard mark, won the race by a good margin.

Bart Freeman and W. Nicholls, the club's crack quarter-mile runners, both went down to defeat in the 440-yard handicap, which went to McCherry, who received a handicap of 15 yards. C. Foster's quartet won the Cosmopolitan relay race, while Bart Freeman's team finished second, 50 yards away. The summaries:

100-Yard Dash, Handicap.—Won by A. Hax, (8 yards;) J. Robson, (10 yards,) second; G. Wilson, (10 yards,) third. Time—0:10 2-5.

Mott Havens in Winning Form.

By a total of 32 points to 22 the Mott Haven A. C. yesterday defeated the Northwestern A. C. on the latter's grounds. The feature of the games was the relay race, which was won by the Mott Havens by the narrow margin of a yard. The Northwestern runners led by fifteen yards at the end of the first lap, but failed to maintain their advantage. J. L. Dailey, Northwestern, ran a good race in the quarter-mile event. E. Ericson, Mott Haven A. C., the National champion, won the high jump with 5 feet 4 inches, and in an exhibition he added 6½ inches. The summaries:

60-Yard Dash.—Won by H. J. Drescher, Northwestern A. C.; J. Hentichs, Northwestern A. C., second; N. Winkler, Mott Haven A. C., third. Time—0:07.

BASEBALL STOCK MAY BE ISMAN'S

Philadelphian Admits Some One May Have Bought It for Him.

DONLIN DEAL IS REVIVED

Reported That "Bob" Davis Has Sold Out His Interest in the Quaker City Nationals.

A revival of the Magee-Donlin deal was current again last night by the report that Felix Isman had purchased the stock in the Philadelphia National League Baseball Club held by Robert Davis, the Democratic leader of Hudson County. According to the latest reports Mr. Isman headed a syndicate which purchased the Davis stock for $40,000, or $12,000 more than was originally paid for it.

Mr. Isman, who is at present staying at the Knickerbocker Hotel, was somewhat evasive in his answer to the question put to him last night as to whether he had purchased the stock of Robert Davis. He said that he did not know of it definitely, but that it was possible for some one to have bought it for his account.

It has been known for some time that Mr. Isman has been anxious to become identified with the National sport, and it is understood that it was only the premature publication of his contemplated plans to transfer Donlin to Philadelphia in exchange for Magee that prevented the consummation of the deal. That Mr. Isman had a deal on to secure the stock of the late Israel Durham, the principal stockholder in the Philadelphia National League Club, is admitted, but the pronounced stand taken by the Philadelphia baseball supporters resulted in the abandonment of the deal.

Mr. Isman's statement would indicate thrt Robert Davis's stock had been purchased, or at least a purchase price agreed upon, but the failure to complete the negotiations for the Durham stock when everything appeared to be settled caused him to be non-committal until the stock had been actually transferred.

If the deal has been arranged it probably means that Magee will play with the Giants next year and that Donlin will manage the Phillies. The Davis interests prevented the Magee deal going through last summer and kept William Murray, the manager of the team, with the whip hand, but with the Isman interests paramount Murray is likely to be sidetracked, although his contract with the Philadelphia Club has one more year to run.

The failure to elect a President of the Philadelphia Club is thought to be due to the possibility of eliminating the Davis interest from the club, and if Isman has been able to secure this big block of stock the election will shortly be held.

The friendship of Manager Murray with Mr. Davis dates back to the time when he was manager of the Jersey City team, owned by Robert Davis, and it is through this influence that Isman was blocked in his attempt to secure the Durham stock a couple of months ago.

COY BACK IN GAME.

Yale's Football Captain Will Be in Uniform To-day.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 10.—Yale will start this week with every football veteran in line for the first time this season. Capt. Coy will be in uniform to-morrow, and will run through a few practice signals by way of starting the Fall campaign, after a month in the hospital and two weeks of watching his eleven play from the side lines since his return. He has refused to assume charge of the team till he gets into his uniform, but to-morrow he will become Captain on the field, and he will run the eleven, except in the West Point game next Saturday, when Walter Logan will again be selected to take full charge of the team.

Andrus has arrived, and he jumped into a uniform with the rest of the Yale squad before the Springfield Training School game yesterday. He will to-morrow go to right tackle, supplanting Ted Lilley for the present. There is no criticism of Lilley's work, but he is not the giant that Andrus is. With Cooney, Goebel, and Brown playing strong at guard, there seemed more need for Andrus to play tackle than guard at present.

The injuries of Daly, Field, and Philbin, the regular back field, are slight. They will be worked little this week, but all will be pitted against West Point next Saturday. Secret practice in preparation for the Army game will not be ordered.

Army Preparing for Yale.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 10.—The coming week's preparation for Yale next Saturday will be a strenuous one for the Army squad. There were faults apparent in the Trinity game Saturday that did not suit Coach Nelly, and he intends to give the squad a heavy week's work. While it was against a second string in the last half that Trinity scored with a forward pass, there were times in the first half that even the regulars did not follow the ball as closely as could be wished. Weir, who has been out of the game for several weeks with a bad knee, gets back at guard to-morrow. In Saturday's game Dean and Byrne both received a twisted knee and may be laid up a couple of days. McCoach has left the squad, owing to an injury to his leg. Chamberlain's shoulder is coming along nicely, and he will alternate with Christian at full back this week. A series of games has been arranged for the third string, consisting of the St. John's College, Brooklyn, Oct. 13; Eastman Business College, Oct. 27; Pekskill Military Academy, Nov. 3; New York Military Academy, Nov. 10; Riverview Academy, Nov. 16.

PILGRIMS DEFEAT SCOTS.

English Soccer Team Wins Easy Game at Newark, 5-0.

The Pilgrims of England added another game to their string of soccer victories by defeating the strong eleven of the Scottish-Americans of Newark in the presence of a crowd of 5,000 spectators at the Newark Baseball Grounds yesterday. The final score was 5 goals to none, so that to date not one of the five teams that have been opposed to the visitors has 47 points to their credit. been able to get a single goal against the Britons. So far the Pilgrims have placed

The weather was a trifle warm for comfort, but it brought out the crowd from near-by Jersey towns, where soccer football has obtained a strong foothold. It was not quite as one-sided as the final score might seem to indicate, and in the first half hour of play the Jerseymen held their opponents down without scoring. They successfully broke up the Pilgrims' combination work and did a good deal of pressing on their own account. This gave the spectators the chance to cut loose, and brought out a storm of applause each time the Britons' goal was in danger. H. M. Lemoine of Shepherd's Bush was a tower of strength in goal for the Pilgrims, and was cool and collected in the most trying situations. J. J. Bayley, too, with his six feet 4½ inches, was frequently a saving factor at right back, and invariably bobbed up out of the mix-up by his goal, the first to "head" the ball out of the danger zone. Only once was he brushed aside in a mad rush by Capt. Richardson of the Scottish-Americans, but at this juncture Lemoine came quickly to the rescue.

G. R. Hoare, Woolwich Arsenal's great centre forward, monopolized the individual honors by shooting every one of the five goals placed to the Pilgrims' credit. Each time he seemed to be the right man in the right spot. T. T. Fitchie, Hoare's clubmate, and inside right, gave a pretty exhibition of football. His stops, with the foot alone, of high punts were remarkable, but in shooting for goal he went too high. H. J. Eastwood, on the right wing, and W. Davidson, on the extreme left, were very shifty, while the play of Capt. Milnes also came in for a lot of attention.

On Tuesday the Pilgrims will play the sixth match of their tour, against a picked team at the Wilbur Baseball Grounds in Trenton, N. J. The line-up:

Pilgrims.	Position.	Scottish-Amer.
Lemoine	Goal	Esplin
Bayley	Right back	Galley
Littlecourt	Centre half	Stewart
Cameson	Left half	Horne
Eastwood	Outside right	Fenwick
Brown-Sim	Inside right	McNicol
Hoare	Centre forward	Richardson

Goals—Hoare, 5. Time of game—Forty-five-minute halves.

Sunday Soccer Football Games.

At Clan McDonald Oval, Second Avenue and Seventh Street, Brooklyn, yesterday the Cameron football eleven of Manhattan and the Clan McDonalds of Brooklyn played a tie game, each team scoring two. The Clans started off like winners, and F. Glen at inside left scored a goal in the first few minutes of play, but before the half closed W. Hastings tied the score by shooting a goal from the far side of the field.

In a fast game yesterday the Brooklyn Club defeated the Astoria Independents at Visitation Oval, the score being 2 goals to 1. During the first half Becker, at inside right, scored for the Independents, and this was the only scoring before time was called. In the second period D. McNeil, playing at centre forward, shot the first goal for the winning team, and shortly after R. O'Hallaron tallied again for the Brooklyns.

At Macomb's Dam Park the Critchleys defeated the eleven of the Highbridge Football Club in an Amateur League championship game by the score of 2 goals to 1. There was no scoring in the first period, and in the second half Leggat and Meadowcraft tallied in the order named for the Critchleys.

The Cameron Reserves obtained the verdict against Clan Mackenzie at Van Cortlandt Park by the score of 5 goals to 2. At half time the score was 2 to 1 in favor of the Camerons. Greenblatt and Christie for the Camerons, and Wilson for Clan MacKenzie, were the first to score. After the restart Greenblatt, Christie, and Howie added 3 points for the winners, and Mackie scored on behalf of the clansmen.

Cornell Loses Good Player.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 10.—It was reported in Cornell football circles to-night that Bell, the left guard on last year's 'Varsity and one of the two experienced line men eligible for the 'Varsity this year, would not play football this Fall. Certain difficulties with the Faculty of the College of Agriculture, in which he has registered, are in the way, and will probably bar him from athletics. This will be the first hard blow to Cornell this Fall. On the other hand, Leventry, left tackle on the 'Varsity last year, is expected to report to-morrow. Burr Wood, the 'Varsity quarter back, has been laid off for several days, but will report again to-morrow, and other members of the squad are in good shape, though they were bruised up in the game with Oberlin. Contrary to expectations, the coaches did not rap the squad for its mediocre playing in Saturday's game, announcing that they expected something of the sort. They asserted that it was Cornell's policy this year to develop the team gradually, to teach the men rudiments, and use only the simplest plays until they were thoroughly mastered.

Fordham Enthusiastic Over its Team.

The undergraduates at Fordham gave the football team an enthusiastic reception on its return from Princeton. The excellent showing it made against the Tigers on Saturday has raised the New Yorkers' hopes of a brilliant season. With the exception of Kelleher and Walsh the squad is intact physically. Kelleher came out of Saturday's game with a broken rib, and Walsh sustained a twisted tendon.

It is likely that Kelleher will be out of the game for several days. Walsh's hurt is not serious, and the coaches feel that he will be in good shape for the Cornell game Saturday.

Gaelic Football Victory for New York.

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—The New York Gaelic football team defeated a picked Chicago team of players here to-day, 6 goals to 3. Chicago led the New Yorkers at the end of the first half, 3 to 2, but were outplayed in the second.

PARIS, Oct. 10.—At the Bois du Boulogne race course to-day the Prix Gladiateur, for a purse of $6,000 and a trophy valued at $2,000, was won by William K. Vanderbilt's Seasick II. In the Prix d'Automme, at one mile, Mr. Vanderbilt's Serpenteau ran second.

The Entire Illumination of the Hudson-Fulton Celebration

Represents but a very small part of the capacity of the power plants and distributing system of The New York Edison Company.

Supplied at so many different and widely scattered points, for an occasion of short duration, such an exhibition would be possible only with a system as extensively developed as that of this Company.

The Edison Service is capable of supplying any installation, however large or small, whether for light, factory power, elevators, street railroads, or any other purpose. Single installations are supplied from the few lamps required for the news and fruit dealers' permanent stands under the elevated stations and on the sidewalks, to the great structures whose installations aggregate 50,000 incandescent lamps, or more; from the 1-16 or 1/8-horse power sewing machine or fan motor to great power plants requiring motors in single units from 500 to 2,000 horse power—and even larger if desired. The cost is so low that the Edison Service is available to any one using light or power for any purpose whatever.

The Edison mains extend through every street and avenue of the city where the demand for service, present or prospective, has even partially justified the investment necessary to place them there.

Specialists in every department are "AT YOUR SERVICE" for consultation, estimates or assistance in securing adequate, economical and proper equipment.

AN EXPLANATION WANTED.

On what theory does Judge GAYNOR persuade himself that he is the champion of purity against corruption, of good government as against misgovernment, as he proclaims himself to be in the municipal campaign? He will hardly contend that he is personally a more honest or a more capable or a more practical man than Mr. BANNARD. All that he has found to say against the latter is that he is the representative and candidate of a bad political machine, but he cannot believe that the Republican political machine is really worse than that of Tammany. He must know that in many ways it is not nearly so bad.

If Mr. BANNARD will be crippled and entangled by his machine, what may be expected of the Judge at grips with his? Again, he appears to be fairly well acquainted with the men he would have to work with in the Board of Estimate, if he were elected with the rest of the Tammany ticket, and it is plain that he does not approve or trust them. He is even indignant at the thought that he should be held responsible for his involuntary association with them. But he will have to associate with them very closely, if elected, and, as the head of the City Government, he will be accountable for their and his joint action. What does he expect to do with them? What does he expect that they will do with him? These are practical questions to which the people of the city are entitled to plain and practical answers.

THE KING ADVISES.

There is little room for doubt that King EDWARD VII. is doing what he can to avert an open breach between the House of Lords and the House of Commons. It is an unusual course for an English monarch to pursue, but the situation is extraordinary.

There is not in the history of political change a more curious chapter than that which recounts how the Ministers of the King in the United Kingdom have gradually assumed both power and responsibility in the Government. It is the most striking instance of the British gift for compromise on the one hand, and, on the other, for gaining the substance of reform while clinging to the forms of the past. Certainly no other people would have established from the assumption that "the King can do no wrong" the principle that the King by himself can do nothing of essential importance, and the complementary principle that, since the Ministers are responsible for all that is done in the King's name, they, and the body from which they are created, must have all necessary Governmental power. But in despite of this singular and comprehensive theory and the tremendous practical consequences that have flowed from it, there does remain to the monarch a certain kind of power and influence that can be used with effect.

The Ministers advise the King, but also they advise with him. He is entitled to know not only the conclusions they reach, the measures they propose, but the reasons for them, and though he may not, and ordinarily does not, dispute them, he has the clear right to reason with the Ministers and to press his arguments as earnestly as they press theirs. In such a process it is inconceivable that the Ministers shall not be more or less definitely influenced by their sovereign. It was well known that in the case of Queen VICTORIA this influence was sometimes considerable. In the crisis arising out of the seizure of the Trent in 1862 it was decisive, and the Queen's intervention prevented the sending of a dispatch which the United States could hardly have answered save by force. In domestic affairs the influence of the sovereign is, of course, less frequently suggested or justified by British traditions, but it may be exerted, as Lord SALISBURY reported that it was exerted by Queen VICTORIA, in a marked manner. For, merely as an adviser, the sovereign, if a person of experience and intellectual force, necessarily possesses great advantages. For one thing his tenure is permanent. Parties come and go, he remains. He may know and see both sides of many questions when the Ministers of the day see and know but one. He may call to their attention facts and considerations of which they are ignorant, or which they would prefer to ignore. It is quite probable that that in substance is what King EDWARD at the present moment is engaged in doing.

It is natural that the King should desire to avoid what may become a grave constitutional crisis by which the institutions of the country might be seriously disturbed and bitter passions, as between classes, aroused. Moreover, he cannot but know that the monarchy itself rests to some extent on the same basis as the House of Lords, and that its continuance and usefulness depend upon its serving effectually the real interests and following the matured opinion of the nation. This is by no means necessarily a selfish view, for it is not to be questioned that King EDWARD, as did his mother, regards his rank as imposing obligation quite as much as conferring privilege or prestige. He may very reasonably wish to avoid any political contest in which the existence and authority of the House of Lords are put in issue and its power to serve menaced. Again, he may be conscious that parties in the United Kingdom are at present in such a state of confusion that the issue, if forced, would be determined, not on its merits, but by unreasoning passion to the serious injury of permanent interests. When Mr. BALFOUR, at Birmingham, the other day declared that the Liberal budget was not "a poor man's budget," a cry was hurled at him from the audience, "Then why do the Dukes fight it?" That shows a spirit abroad which the King very properly may wish not to challenge.

The King has sought and gained enviable fame in foreign affairs as a peacemaker. It is conceded that largely to his influence is due the series of agreements and understandings that have been reached practically with all Europe, save Germany and Russia, which have cleared up past differences and strengthened the security of peace for the future. It would be in harmony with the sentiment inspiring these efforts should he seek to moderate the extreme tendencies of parties in home politics and to preserve peace within as well as without his realm.

LAST DAY OF REGISTRATION.

This will be the last day for the registration of voters in New York City. If you have not registered before 10 o'clock to-night you cannot vote Nov. 2. Thus far the registration is smaller than it was for the last Mayoralty election in 1905. Yet the issues are, if possible, more important to every taxpayer in New York than they were four years ago.

The lack of public spirit which induces otherwise intelligent men to neglect so great a privilege and duty of citizenship in a so-called "off year" is not commendable. The professional politicians have no "off years." Tammany voters perform their duty to Tammany. It is of the highest importance that a fit man should be elected Mayor of New York this Fall.

UNFIT FOR THE BENCH.

Justice WILLIAM E. SCRIPTURE of Oneida County has been renominated for the Supreme bench. He is known in the up-State counties as an unfit Judge. He is of the worst type of the Republican machine politician—so bad, in fact, that some 3,000 disgusted Republicans in and about Utica and Syracuse have come forward voluntarily with a petition nominating Judge MERRELL, a Democrat but an able and respectable Judge, as an independent candidate against him. It is charged against Judge SCRIPTURE that while on the bench he has consistently curried favor with attorneys who practice in his court, that he has been an unconscionable disburser of the money of litigants for the benefit of lawyers who had influence in the judiciary convention that has renominated him. Of course, such conventions should be composed of laymen, not of lawyers, since lawyers have peculiarly intimate relations with the courts.

If Judge SCRIPTURE is re-elected, he will have but four years to serve before he reaches the age of retirement. This fact is used as an argument for condoning his faults, and for giving him the office during this brief term. But the up-State counties have suffered long enough from the doings of political sinners of the old régime. They ousted Judge MAURICE L. WRIGHT from his political control after flagrant offenses in the same judicial district, though Judge SCRIPTURE sought to justify them. Now it is time to oust SCRIPTURE.

THE FATAL DRY SHAMPOO.

A London woman who was getting a dry shampoo in the hairdressing department of one of the big stores last July died in the shampooer's chair. The manager of the department and his assistant were arrested on a charge of manslaughter and the case has since been before a Westminster police magistrate. It has become a celebrated case. The shampoo mixture was tetrachloride of carbon mixed with an appreciable amount of carbon bi-sulphate. Both are poisonous, but many thousands of persons have had their hair shampooed with the mixture and escaped with unimpaired health.

Moreover, for the benefit of Dr. CHALDECOTT, a celebrated anaesthetist, who has been called as an expert witness by the public prosecutor, a young woman who was not afraid had her hair done in his presence with sixteen fluid ounces of the mixture, only ten having been used in the case of the woman who died, and lives to tell the tale. Dr. CHALDECOTT's belief in the danger of the compound, however, has not been shaken. He says the fumes are vastly more dangerous than those of chloroform. The theory is that inhalation of the fumes caused death. The quick evaporation of the fluid creates intense cold at the back of the head, and this leads to quick and deep respiration. This testimony is scientific, and it seems reasonable, too, so that the general avoidance of the dry shampoo in London of late is quite explainable, especially as it would be difficult to say why a shampoo with more or less deadly drugs is more efficacious than one with harmless soap and water.

But the question is, how do the brave shampooers survive? They must necessarily inhale more of the fumes than the person shampooed, while their hands must surely get very cold. Do not cold hands affect one's breathing, too? There is not a particle of testimony that the shampooers, who have used many bottles of tetrachloride of carbon mixed with carbon bi-sulphate, have even been made ill. This is the mystery involved in the story of the fatal dry shampoo.

RAPID TRANSIT IN THE CAMPAIGN.

Every platform and every candidate gives first place to rapid transit as a campaign issue. Yet it should be understood that this is justified only by the keenness of popular sentiment upon the subject, and not by any possible acceleration of relief, whatever the results of the election. Mr. GAYNOR is most critical of past delays. M. HEARST is even more generous with promises of what he will do. Mr. BANNARD recognizes the popular eagerness for results, but he is more chary about making promises which are incapable of fulfillment.

The situation should be understood, both to prevent disappointment after election and in order that the issue may take a place in the campaign subordinate to other issues, respecting which the Mayor to be elected will be more influential. The check to subways has been the statutory expression of the popular belief that the present Subway was a gold mine, and that fabulous profits should not be given to the builder of the next subway. Therefore the Elsberg law was passed, and since that day not a foot of subway has been built, or ever would be built had not the law been amended at the last session of the Legislature. It was during that six-year interval that the city dissipated resources which might have gone into subways if the law had allowed. It is idle to find fault with any Mayor for conditions respecting which he was helpless.

This was a condition, not a theory. At the last letting, in April, 1907, there was not a single bidder, not even the owner of the present Subway franchise. It is a condition, not a theory, also that there still are similar obstacles to hasty subway construction, whoever is the next Mayor. The election will not put the city in funds, and if the Mayor were disposed to be extravagant there are other obstacles to eagerness among the bidders, unless the terms be made more favorable than sentiment has permitted.

Among engineers there exists belief that the softening of the Elsberg law has not yet proceeded far enough to permit of terms favorable to such large and quick construction as the campaign promises foster hope of. Thus Engineer NICHOLS of the Board of Estimate, in his report just published, argues that ten-year contracts—as the law now authorizes—should have two ten-year renewals instead of one. In any case it is certain that no result of the election can alter the conditions upon which alone contractors will build.

THE WORLD'S FINANCES.

Why is the world so nervous over a rise in the Bank of England rate at this time of the year? It's as normal as the arrival of October, almost, and yet a rise of ½ per cent. to 5 per cent. on Thursday is thought ominous around the world on Friday. Is it the condition of British affairs, or the condition of the rest of the world, which causes London's gold to slip away to St. Petersburg, Paris, Alexandria, Brazil, and the Argentine, to the tune of £2,321,000 in a week when nothing particular is occurring anywhere? The crops of the world are moving, of course, but that used to be nothing to worry London. There are tuppeny hapenny wars and rumors of wars or revolutions, but few care enough for them to read the telegrams about them. What is it which sets the world quivering? Surely not our modest revival in trade and the stock market. That is well enough to talk about after dinner, when the tips are passed with the coffee. But a New York money market which does not get above 6 per cent. when the farmers are harvesting eight billions of new wealth, and when nobody is thinking of issuing any of Senator ALDRICH's patent emergency cure, is rather a tedious affair.

The trouble is that everybody is nervous about everybody else, rather than about himself. First, the United States is on the world's nerves. We are ourselves somewhat too bumptious for our own good, but do not dream of the disasters about which we are cautioned from every financial capital which envies us. Secondly, all the world is worried about England. Nobody knows whether or not its politics are developing dynastic and financial possibilities to stagger humanity. Is England about to have a series of panics—a land panic if land is discriminated against in the nation's tax system, or a City panic if a Socialistic budget is passed, or a political panic if the Constitution is upset, or perhaps an omelet of all? A purely financial cause for worriment about England is that it cannot hold the gold which it gathers in a sieve. It used to have a concealed balance in its favor, corresponding to the concealed balance of trade against us, but that factor is less since England has consumed so much of its capital, and has recalled so many of its foreign investments. Now the merchandise balance against it does not allow the Bank to "correct the Exchanges" in the old way. The increase in the rate must often be repeated, and long maintained to attain the old effect, because England's trade, while improving, is not doing as well as it ought. Thus while September's exports increased £1,400,000, imports increased £1,500,000, and the balance against England is more troublesome than it was in the days when the excess of imports was a measure of homecoming profits, and the activity of domestic trade.

Then England is anxious about Germany for multifarious reasons. Its commercial and military competition is annoying, but that's a steady thing. This week's trouble is that Germany must borrow $125,000,000 to make good deficits, and England must find part of the money. It is a grand climax to a chronic series of deficits, and is the staggering price which it has to pay to worry England. Spain is burning up money, of course, and France is worrying about whether or not it must intervene to defend its economic and political prestige and interests. Altogether it is apparent that the world has much to think about besides the Bank of England rate, and for that very reason thinks the more about the rate, the once world-shaking rate, the rate of importance to-day, but now regarded as a portent about England itself, as well as about the rest of the world which not so long ago was more dependent than now on London.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Pardon Has Been Well Earned.

Michigan is showing well-justified interest in the case of HENRY SMITH, who, twelve years ago, when he was 18 years old, was convicted of "breaking and entering" a store and sentenced to serve five years in prison at Ionia. After he had been there a little more than a year he escaped, and has only recently been recaptured and sent back to his cell. So stated there is nothing in the case to create excitement, but the story of those eleven years of freedom had some peculiar features, not unprecedented, indeed, but sufficiently rare in the histories of fugitive convicts to explain why SMITH is now an object of general sympathy and why it is expected, or at least hoped, that Gov. WARNER or the State Pardon Board will soon release him.

It seems that the boy's first crime was his only one. On gaining his liberty he went far into the country, went to work as a farm hand, and later as a farmer on his own account, and has since lived what his neighbors say was an industrious and perfectly honest life. Incidentally, he married, and it is stated as the very best proof of what his character really is that though he did not consider it necessary to reveal the black spot in his career to those among whom he made his home, he did tell the woman whom he asked to marry him all about the burglary episode, and did it, too, before she was in any way bound to him. She was content to take him as he was, and to share with him the constant fear of his identification as a man "wanted" by the law.

Discovery came at last, and the indiscriminating law is exacting the forfeited years. This seems hard, and it is hard. More than that, it is absurd. The very best possible result of imprisonment—reformation—has been attained, so far as human judgment can decide, and now to keep HENRY SMITH in prison for four years, with perhaps an added penalty for his evasion, is not merely to inflict needless suffering upon him and his wife, but it is to impose the burden of his support upon the State to no conceivable purpose. Under the killing letter of the law, the man has no present right to liberty, but everybody feels, and he most of all, doubtless, that to shut him up is cruel injustice. If he is compelled to serve out his term he will probably come out of prison the criminal which he is not now and probably never was, the chances being that his early dereliction was merely a boyish escapade that happened to take a more than usually serious form.

Entertainment for an Admiral.

According to highly credible report, Sir EDWARD HOBART SEYMOUR, Admiral, much enjoyed the trip up to Ossining in the engine of the Twentieth Century Limited, which one of his great and good American friends was able to arrange for him. It was doubtless an interesting journey. It would be for anybody who shared the common human liking for rapid motion, the speed of the train being much more manifest to one in the engine than to those in the cars behind, and it would be particularly pleasurable for a man who, like the British Admiral, has a large knowledge of applied electricity and a special familiarity with mechanical principles, so many of which are utilized in the operation of a modern warship.

It is, therefore, no wonder that Sir EDWARD gladly accepted the invitation which Mr. MORGAN, knowing his taste, extended. He was thus enabled to get a close view of one of the newer utilizations of electricity—that as a motive power for fast and heavy railway trains—and he was also privileged to see the workings of a steam locomotive much larger and more powerful than any used in his own country, or in all Europe, for that matter. But—alas, there is always, or almost always, a "but"—wouldn't it have been just as well, and perhaps a little bit better, if the Admiral and his party had been taken to ride, not on a regular train drawing well-filled cars carrying ordinary passengers, but on engines for the time being devoted to that special service of commendable courtesy?

Of course all due precautions were taken, and the Admiral was not a man to bring them to naught by any unwise manifestations of curiosity. Still, it is well that the man at the throttle, no less than the man at the wheel, should not have his attention distracted in any way from the performance of his numerous and important duties as the guardian of many lives, and some will have something between a suspicion and a belief that if the passengers on the train that day had known that they were part of an exhibition for a distinguished guest, they would have been a little uneasy when the speed rose to more than a mile a minute.

Needlessly uneasy, no doubt, and nothing happened. It is only that as a precedent the Admiral's ride will be a bit disquieting to the nervous, and they will be inclined to hope that this particular method of entertaining eminent foreigners who are also expert judges of big machinery may not soon become very common.

A Warning Against the Politicians.

When President SCHURMAN of Cornell spoke so feelingly of the perils which come to State universities because of the control or influence which politicians could sometimes bring to bear upon the professors and their teaching, he must have had some particular institutions or institution in mind, and it would have added much to the interest of his address if he had given names and details.

According to all accounts many of the State universities are doing magnificent work, and work of a kind that was never even attempted by the older colleges. There have been rumors that the politicians are making themselves troublesome in a few instances by meddling with matters that do not concern them, but it is evident that the State universities are not suffering very seriously from this evil, and appreciation of the value of their new activities is becoming so general that real harm is hardly to be apprehended.

Of course the members of no Faculty are free to teach and preach absolutely anything they please, regardless of public opinion, and it is not desirable that they should be. All wisdom has never yet been monopolized by college professors.

PASS MEN AND HONOR MEN.

Says the English University Distinction Should Be Recognized Here.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your editorial of to-day, "Seize the Freshman," you make a comparison which is decidedly unjust to the American universities. You apparently forget that the English student body, which you use as an illustration, is divided into two groups, the "Pass Men," whose sole object is to gain a passing mark in their examinations, and the "Honor Men," whose interest in studies is undivided by any outside athletic or social attractions.

This distinction exists in our own American universities, though it is not marked as such. There are those who have no desire but to squeeze through with the least amount of work; and these, while too great in number, are no more, in proportion, than the "Pass Men" at Oxford or Cambridge, as a comparison of records shows. Then there are those whose aim is just as high as any "Honor Man," whose pursuit after scholastic attainments is just as keen.

So it is unfair to compare those Americans who "revere the muscles of a few of their fellows" to that class of English students who do not strive for physical perfection. Seize the Freshman, if you will, but do not hurl him by the scruff and knock new ideas into him. Do not say to him, "Honors are the only thing to be found in college." Say that they are the main thing, but do not tell him that because he may not measure up to the standards of an English "Honor Man" that there is no hope for him. Hold up the best ideals to him, but let those ideals be within his reach in his own class.

THE COLLEGE HERO.

Man Who Makes Everything Subordinate to Intellectual Pursuits.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your recent editorial, "Seize the Freshman," was surely a sound and timely one. The cherished American college is at present undergoing a most searching criticism, both from within and without. Great indeed is the pride we Americans take in our colleges and higher institutions of learning. But that has not and should not allow us to drift into an attitude of complacency and indifference. The public has a right to demand that the colleges keep their ideals and methods fresh and progressive in this period of educational transition. Educators are beginning to emphasize more sharply that the central, supreme purpose of the college is to develop scholarship. As President Schurman suggests, the student is the hero of the college life. Too often the college itself would lead us to believe that the gridiron warrior, the stroke of the crew, or the social idol, is the real college hero. But the college man who subordinates the attractive calls to other fields of his school life to scholarship and intellectual conquests far surpasses these in heroic achievement.

Sound scholarship develops men who think, and act according to their thoughts. The leaders in all stages and conditions of life, as President Hadley pointed out in his opening address to the Yale freshmen, are the men who think, and act according to the resulting issues and responsibilities of that thought. Our colleges can render no loftier service to the public than to teach their students to "enter the intellectual lists" and to compete strenuously in activities that equip them to become statesmen and scholars, men of individuality and character apart from their professions.

BARRIE DIVORCE SUIT.

Thinks English Press Will Grant the Request of Writer's Friends.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I do not in the slightest degree agree with your view that the action of the men of letters in England will add to the notoriety of the Barrie divorce suit. All they are asking is that when the case comes into court it shall be treated as other undefended divorce suits are in England; that is, reported in the briefest way.

I never care to pose as a prophet, but this prediction I will make, that all the English press, with the exception of the gutter section—fortunately not numerous—will do exactly as the English men of letters ask them to do, and that most people will be grateful to Lord Esher and his associates.

Celebration Enough.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It would not be well to continue the Hudson-Fulton decorations and demonstrations over Oct. 12, as suggested by one of your correspondents, for the simple reasons that, in the first place, the orange, white, and blue flags would not be appropriate for Columbus Day. Secondly, we have already had enough celebrating—in fact, too much. To have any further events of this kind would prove detrimental to the city and would be void of interest.

Christopher Columbus was duly honored in 1893 when the Columbian Exposition at Chicago took place. This was commemorative of the discovery of America by Columbus, and another celebration of Christopher's deed would be out of order at this time.

Tammany and the Police.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The best organization that Tammany Hall has had anything to do with is the Police Department, and yet they have been unmercifully abused and falsely charged in many cases where they were merely obeying the orders of their superiors. No doubt this would not apply to all and possibly not to a majority of the policemen, but in every case where I have had dealings with them I found them willing and anxious to enforce the law and treat people who deserved it with respect. They have at the same time endeavored to arrest and convict the law-violators, but in many cases they have not had the support of the Police Magistrate in doing their duty.

LET UP IN AUTO FATALITIES.

Only Two Persons Run Down Yesterday—Eight Saturday Speeders Held.

The crop of local automobile calamity news was short yesterday. Not a single person had been killed up to midnight.

Edward Flynn of 322 East Sixty-second Street turned his machine out of Forty-fourth Street into Fifth Avenue yesterday morning. It skidded, and Carlo Romano of 846 Second Avenue, who was cleaning the street at that corner, was unable to get out of its way. He was knocked down. He was removed to the Flower Hospital with a dislocated shoulder and a lacerated scalp. Mr. Flynn was later held in $500 bail for examination next Wednesday by Magistrate Corrigan in the Yorkville Court.

Rachel Goldstein of 221 East Third Street, 19 years old, started to cross Broadway at Twenty-eighth Street yesterday morning. An automobile driven by John Dunbar Wright of 41 East Fifty-first Street knocked her down. She was removed to the New York Hospital in the automobile. She had suffered a fractured right ankle and contusions. She refused to make a complaint against Mr. Wright, and he was not arrested.

Eight chauffeurs were arraigned in the Morrisania Court yesterday on the charge of having exceeded the speed limit in Jerome Avenue on Saturday. They were all held for examination in $300 bail each.

DELAY FRANKLIN ARMY TRIAL.

Action Against ex-Treasurer of West Point Waits on Federal Court.

The court-martial of Capt. Thomas Franklin, U. S. A., former Treasurer of the United States Military Academy, which was soon to have convened in the Army Building, in Whitehall Street, has been indefinitely postponed. The charges against Capt. Franklin concern his management of his office while on duty at West Point. A large sum of money is said to be involved.

The case of Capt. Franklin is now in the Federal courts, and it is said will not come up before the court-martial until after the Federal authorities have made their disposition of it. Major Blanton Winship of the Judge Advocate's Department will represent the Government when Capt. Franklin is brought before the army court.

SUNDAY NEWSPAPERS.

Doesn't See How Any Harm Can Come from Reading The Sunday Times.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

May I kindly suggest to Frederick W. Jackson of the German Theological Seminary that if he objects to reading THE SUNDAY TIMES on Sunday, he might put it aside until Monday, and then peruse its most instructive and certainly moral columns, for I think it is the consummation of al that is good in American journalism.

The late William H. Williams, General Manager of the Union News Company; R. F. Hamilton, and myself published the first Sunday evening newspaper in the United States, The Sunday Evening Journal, in 1884, of which I was the editor. We were so strenuously opposed by the churches in its sale on Sunday evening that our newsboys were constantly arrested, and Monday mornings I was kept busy at the Police Courts in procuring their discharges. Invariably the complaints were found on examination to be the result of bigotry instead of objections to violations of the Sunday laws.

THE SUNDAY TIMES is esteemed in thousands of correct and pure homes as a boon for the good of the family circle, and certainly no harm can come possibly from the perusal of any of its columns on Sunday. It is a beacon light to many homes that otherwise might remain in total darkness.

Let bigotry, therefore, become obliterated and sensible and true liberalism prevail with respect to the Sunday newspapers.

ANTI-SUFFRAGE VIOLENCE.

Says the Men Who Attacked Suffragists Were Not Rowdies.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In a recent letter to THE TIMES, I showed that the anti-suffragists in England have been guilty of much greater violence than the suffragists. A correspondent objects that this violence was committed not by anti-suffrage women, but by anti-suffrage men. Of course it was. That was just the point of my argument.

We have been told, ad nauseam, that the doings of the Suffragettes prove (1) the unfitness of women to vote and (2) the badness of a cause that is advocated by such methods. The very sufficient answer to this is that much worse things are being done by men, any by men on the anti-suffrage side.

Your correspondent says the men who do these things are hooligans, while the women are women of education and social position. Many of the men are not hooligans—except in their treatment of suffragists—and your correspondent has been misled by false reports as to what the women of education and social position have actually done. The men who broke the bones of the suffragists at Limehouse were of the same kind as the "broadcloth mob," made up of "gentlemen of property and standing," as the Boston papers said next day, that broke up the meeting of the Female Anti-Slavery Society in Boston years ago.

Your correspondent says the suffrage agitation in England shows that women in politics will be "at least as bad as men." Rather it shows just the contrary. Within the memory of persons yet living, Englishmen agitating for the ballot for themselves indulged in widespread rioting, bloodshed, and arson. Israel Zangwill says that, in comparison, England has reason to be grateful to the women for "the feminine mildness of their methods."

ALICE STONE BLACKWELL.

Dorchester, Mass., Oct. 8, 1909.

Miss Malone's Heckling.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

What stronger argument against Woman Suffrage than the conduct of Miss Maud Malone, the suffragette, at the ratification meeting of the Fusion campaign against the evil and rottenness of our city politics?

Any man guilty of such unpardonable disregard of civic duty and loyalty, to say nothing of common courtesy, could have been easily dealt with. Not so a woman, however, and Miss Malone took advantage of this very fact to discredit the cause and defeat the purpose of the men who showed her this courtesy.

Could we have a more striking object lesson of the unscrupulous methods and the utter lack of any high principle of patriotism in the women who are clamoring for the ballot and its purification through their influence?

THE PEANUT MAN.

There were thousands in the windows, there were thousands on the stands,
And their pulses leaped with pleasure at the music of the bands;
There were thousands upon thousands smiling far as eye could scan,
But the happiest one among them was the lucky Peanut Man.

How the thousands crunched and crackled, how they munched in wild delight,
As they reached a spot of vantage and just stood and hugged it tight!
How the shells rained all around them from the time the thing began!
Oh! the happiest man in Gotham was the lucky Peanut Man!

Hudson might have been omitted, Fulton might have been mislaid
When the floats loomed in the sunlight on that wonderful parade,
For the thousands all were happy as they sat or stood or ran,
And the happiest one among them was the lucky Peanut Man!

MRS. GILBERT OPENS NEW SCIENCE CHURCH

Threescore Women and a Dozen Men at the First Meeting in the Gotham.

MRS. EDDY NOT MENTIONED

Says Her Creed Will Foster None of the Mother Church's "Error and Superstition."

Mrs. Della M. Gilbert, with the assistance of Conrad Milliken, her second reader, succeeded yesterday, at her third attempt, in launching her "New Christian Science Church." The first service was scheduled for two weeks ago, but was put off till yesterday, because only thirty-five persons turned up. It was opened at about 4 in the afternoon in the white and gold ballroom of the Hotel Gotham, some sixty women and a dozen men being on hand. They listened with interest while Mrs. Gilbert, dressed in white, told them that her church was simply Christian Science without the "error and superstition, priesthood and idolatry" of the Mother Church—the one that had read her out after her first failure to start the new church last April.

Max Lieblin, pianist, played selections from Chopin and Rubenstein, and Miss Olive Schooley, with the rather feeble assistance of the congregation, sang a couple of hymns. Then Mr. Milliken read from the Scriptures, and a silent and then audible prayer followed, all of which, in no wise appeared to differ from the procedure in Mrs. Eddy's church, save that Mrs. Eddy's name was not mentioned.

Mrs. Gilbert thereupon made this announcement:

"This movement is in no sense antagonistic to Christian Science. We are for Christian Science. We are Christian Scientists. The inspired and immortal truths of Christian Science, proclaiming the divinity of spiritual man, and his dominion over all mortal conditions, we shall teach and preach to all those who can hear.

"But as Christian Scientists we are engaged in setting our house in order. We can no longer keep silent. Error and superstition, which have for years hampered the progress of this great work; priestcraft and idolatry, which have confused its simple and eternal truths, must be cast aside.

"Unhampered and untrammeled we must march onward and upward under the leadership of God alone, into the dust and conflict of the age-long battle for the truth. Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free.

"This is an age of progress unparalleled in the history of the world. Its spiritual awakening, so much more vital to the happiness and peace of mankind, shall be no less wonderful.

"Already, through the purple mists upon the hills, the dawn is softly stealing. The night is far spent, the day at hand. After the strong wind that rends the mountains, after the earthquake and the fire, there comes that still, small voice, which is the voice of God, truth unadorned, alone imperishable."

After this the collection was taken while Hans Lentz played "The Meditation" from "Thaïs" on a violin, accompanied by Mr. Liebling. There was also a sermon on "sin, sickness, and death," of the Christian Science type.

Mrs. Gilbert announced that Sunday services would be held at the Gotham every week at the same hour, and that she would be glad to receive names and addresses from all who cared to join.

JESUIT REBUKES DR. ELIOT.

Father Stanton Says "Prophet of the North" Is No Guide in Religion.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Declaring that the trend of many modern universities is away from God, Father William J. Stanton of the Society of Jesus to-day attacked President Emeritus Eliot of Harvard in a sermon preached before the students of Georgetown University, a Catholic institution. Father Stanton did not call Dr. Eliot by name, but his references were so pointed that he himself told his congregation they would all know whom he meant.

"Even the President Emeritus of one of our great universities, a man of fifty years' learning and experience, comes out of the North and speaks as though the world might benefit by his training," said Father Stanton. "What does he do? He rides roughshod over the convictions of 1900 years; he would rob the world of hope; he would put God off the stage and hand mankind over to his own uncertain efficiency. Oh, lame and impotent conclusion! A little child is a better guide than you, discredited prophet of the North. You may preside gracefully over sessions of the Faculty; you may do well for your institution, but you are not a guide in religion.

"I will not mention the name of this man. You all know who he is. But he denies everything the world has held sacred and leaned upon for centuries.

"Is this education or damnation? This man would have his religion bound by no creed or dogma, and as one brave newspaper expressed it, perhaps he would have this religion bound only by his own breath. That is all there is to it."

Father Stanton then referred to the Catholic institutions, and he said he thanked God in them education is not divorced from religion.

"The trend of most modern colleges," he continued, "now is against religion and the supernatural. Education should begin with God first. Not to do this is to slight God, and to try to form a man's character without His assistance. You know the subterfuges of many of the modern institutions of learning. They are founded to do without God. They are substituting evolution for the Divine Being. God was before evolution, and there could be no evolution without Him."

New Methodist Church Opens in Bronx

The new Prospect Avenue Methodist Church, Bronx, which has cost $75,000, was used for the first times yesterday, and will be formally dedicated next Sunday. At the morning service the pastor, the Rev. William W. Carr, explained the new plans to be inaugurated with the opening of the new edifice.

New Brooklyn Church Dedicated.

Glenn Brown in Avery Library Board

Glenn Brown, Secretary of the American Institute of Architects, has been chosen to succeed the late Russell Sturgis as one of the commission of three to make purchases for the Henry O. Avery Memorial Architectural Library at Columbia University. The other members of the commission are the librarian of Columbia and the Professor of the Architectural Department of the Columbia School of Mines. In the last ten years of his life Mr. Sturgis approved every purchase made. The library contains about 19,000 books, besides material in a circulating department equivalent to 10,000 volumes.

NO PLANS FOR SEASON YET

President's Wife at End of Week Will Return to House Shining Outside and Inside with New Paint.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—When Mrs. Taft enters the White House, at the end of the week, she will find there many important changes, in the planning of the most significant of which she was the guiding spirit. While the wife of the President has followed the advice of her physicians and refrained from formulating any programme for the coming Winter, her prompt inauguration of many reforms in the domestic economy of the chief of American homes has already borne fruit. These reforms will now be in full working order for the first time.

Mrs. Roosevelt, who brought with her from New York a number of white maids and nurses, drew a distinction between "upper" and "lower" servants, the distinction running through every relation in life below stairs. Mrs. Taft has eliminated the actual as well as the imaginary line as to privileges, food, or compensation, so that there are now no social distinctions in the kitchen and the same consideration is shown for one set of workers as for another.

There are still two tables, the white and black being served separately, but the quality of the food is the same for both. Mrs. Taft is following the same rule that has marked her housekeeping for the last twenty-five years, from its beginning in the eight-room cottage in Cincinnati, in the Governor's Palace in Manila, and in her several Washington homes. Always a model housekeeper, as well as homemaker, she is an exacting mistress demanding good service, but showing appreciation of the labor of the least of her servants by fair wages and fair treatment.

When Mrs. Taft arrives, the White House will more than ever deserve its name, for the most thorough painting of the building since its general remodeling six years ago will have been completed. Every inch of interior woodwork and the entire exterior has been painted, presenting a glistening marble-like appearance.

No changes have been made in the interior of the mansion, except in the Green Room, the least interesting and important of the three state apartments between the state dining room and the East Room. Here the change will not be obvious, for the while the furniture has been renewed as well as the paint, the new furniture is the exact duplicate of that selected in the beginning of the last Administration. The Red Room will continue to be used as the family drawing room, and the Blue Room as for years be the scene of all formal receptions.

RIVAL TENOR ILL.

So Signor Zerola Had the Field to Himself at Manhattan Concert.

Last evening's concert at the Manhattan Opera House might have resolved itself into a struggle for supremacy between rival tenors had not Signor Carasa been too ill to appear. As a result Signor Zerola had the field to himself, and so pleased the audience with his singing of "Vesti la Giubba" and an air from "Andrea Chenier" that he had to repeat both. Mme. Eva Grippon was also on the sick list. The two singers who were unable to appear were replaced by Messrs. Nicolay and Villa.

Mme. Miranda sang the "Bell Song" from "Lakmé" and Mme. d'Alvarez was heard in an air from Gounod's "Sapho." Others who sang were Mmes. Vicarino and Duchene and Messrs. Russo and Scott. The orchestra was directed by Messrs. Nicosia and Sturani.

The audience was a large one.

BJORNSON'S PLAY PRODUCED.

Fine Acting Alone Saves "When the New Wine Blooms."

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 10.—Björnstjerne Bjornson's long expected play, "When the New Wine Blooms," was produced at the Royal Theatre to-night. The theme is a glorification of youth and love. The comedy is clever, though the dialogue has some course touches.

The play achieved success only through the fine acting of the famous Ibsenite actress, Mme. Betty Hennings, who played the leading part, and Messrs. Mantzins and Adam Poulson.

Benjamin S. Eaton.

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 10.—Benjamin S. Eaton died yesterday at his home here. He conceived and constructed the first city water works for Los Angeles, where the inhabitants had before been watered by the bucket and barrel brigade. For years he worked to show the value of scientific irrigation. He was born in Plainville, Conn., in 1833. He was graduated from the Law School of Harvard University in 1846. He came to Los Angeles in 1853, and was soon afterward elected District Attorney of the county. The funeral will be held Tuesday afternoon under the auspices of the Los Angeles Pioneer Society, of which Mr. Eaton was one of the founders.

Lorillard Spencer Recovering.

NEWPORT, R. I., Oct. 10.—Lorillard Spencer, whose leg was amputated at the Newport Hospital two weeks ago, was removed to his residence on Halidon Hill, known as Chastelleux, yesterday, and is reported as resting comfortably. Mr. and Mrs. Spencer will remain here until the patient is strong enough to go to his New York home. Mr. and Mrs. Spencer had planned to visit Europe this Winter, which must now be deferred.

DAVID BISPHAM'S RECITAL.

Large Audience Greets Barytone, Who Opens Concert Season at Carnegie Hall

While New York is enjoying its usual Indian Summer, it is a brave man who will break into the warm weather with a song recital. The concert season, however, has to be opened some time, and although possibly yesterday would scarcely have seemed to be a propitious day to start the recital ball a-rolling, the result seemed to justify the experiment, for Carnegie Hall was crowded with an audience which had come to hear David Bispham.

Mr. Bispham's programme was very serious in its nature, not that the songs were all of the classic school, but the words of every one of them dealt with sacred subjects or death, at least every one but the air from "The Magic Flute," and Sarastro's air is scarcely a mirthful ditty. The occasion was made yet more solemn by organ accompaniments which reinforced those of the piano now and then, and by a line on the programme which requested that there be no applause during the continuance of any group of songs. This line was disregarded on more than one occasion, but during the singing of the Four Serious Songs of Brahms, Mr. Bispham held up his hand deprecatingly when the hand clapping started to ripple across the hall.

All the songs were sung in English, which made it possible, thanks to Mr. Bispham's clear enunciation, to follow the words even without reference to the printed slips which accompanied the programmes. Mr. Bispham, too, was in good voice, and gave a usually good account of the matter in hand.

The programme commenced with "Mighty Lord and King," from Bach's "Christmas Oratorio," the air from "The Magic Flute," and Beethoven's "Die Ehre Gottes," which last song was accompanied both by the organ and the piano and was repeated. In the next group were Schumann's "Requiem" and Schubert's "Im Abendroth" and "Die Allmacht," all sung in English. In the third group were the Four Serious Songs of Brahms.

It was for the fourth group that Mr. Bispham had reserved the bomb of the afternoon, Sidney Homer's "To Russia," which, written to words by Joaquin Miller, has been withheld, it is said, for several years, "for fear that it would give offense in certain quarters." Mr. Bispham sang it yesterday as if he hoped it would, and looked around him defiantly at the end, but all the audience demanded was a repetition. It is a stirring song, the music quite fitting the spirit of the words, although it is perhaps hardly as effective as the same composer's "The Pauper's Drive," which preceded it on the programme. Alfred G. Wathall, another American composer, was represented by a song called "The Mother's Visits," which was also repeated. This section of the programme ended with Gounod's "Ring Out Wild Bells."

The recital concluded with Mr. Bispham's reading of Longfellow's "King Robert of Sicily," for which music has been written by Rossetter G. Cole. The work is scored for full orchestra, but yesterday it was played on the piano and the organ. The artistic value of any composition of this sort is questionable, and in this particular instance cannot be considered to be very great. The music seems to add very little either to the interest of the poem or to its emotional expression. Rather at times it seemed to hinder the reader than to assist him.

The accompaniments were played on the piano by Woodruff Rogers and on the organ by Frank L. Sealy.

MARY JANE'S DOG GONE.

Little Actress's White Poodle Lost and She Is Inconsolable.

Gretchen Hartman has lost her dog. His name is Dippy, and he has been missing since Sept. 20. Gretchen is Mary Jane in "Mary Jane's Pa," and she has written a pathetic letter to Henry W. Savage, her manager, saying that she is heartbroken over Dippy's disappearance, for she sold her other dog when she went on the road, and left the missing one with a girl friend.

She says Dippy is a white French poodle and that he knows his name. She would like any one who has found a little dog to let her know, for any little lost dog might be Dippy. To assist her as much as possible Mr. Savage has had an advertisement put in the "Lost" column telling where the reward for Dippy's return will be paid.

POLITICAL HISSING AT OPERA.

Smetana's "Dalibor" and Emmy Destinn Score Success, Nevertheless.

BERLIN, Oct. 10.—Smetana's opera "Dalibor" was sung for the first time in Germany to-night at the Royal Opéra. It proved a brilliant success, but led to a minor anti-Czech demonstration from the cheaper seats, where the minority maintained a persistent hissing. The production was due to the desire of Emmy Destinn, who is of Czech origin, to sing her countryman's music on the Berlin stage.

Protests appeared in the press against the production on account of the Czech hostility to Germans in Bohemia and against extending the hospitality of Royal theatres to Czechish art. The opera house, however, was crowded with a fashionable audience, which enthusiastically applauded Smetana's work and Mme. Destinn's fine singing in the rôle of Milada.

BIG ZOO RODENT SCARED.

Nearly Drowns Himself in a Panic of Fear Caused by a Visitor.

Keepers worked over Sancho, the big capybara at the Bronx Park Zoo, for an hour or more Saturday, bringing him back to life. He hails from South America and is usually one of the most unobtrusive animals in the Zoo. He is the largest of all known rodents, weighing about 100 pounds. He is four feet long, and resembles a guinea pig more than anything else. Like others of his kind, he lives in the water most of the time, and in his native country they call him a water hog.

There is a big tank in the middle of Sancho's cage, and in this he spends much of his time. For several years the capybara has led a peaceful life there, devouring a peck or so of vegetables daily and waxing fat and sleek.

Sancho, like all capybaras, is of a very timid nature. This the keepers discovered when Cinnamon, the smaller of the two little lemurs which make their temporary abode in the annex to the reptile house, wandered away from home and got into Sancho's cage. One look at the intruder was enough for Sancho. He dived to the bottom of his tank, and when he didn't come up at the end of ten minutes Keeper Riley fished him out with a boat hook. With the aid of other keepers Riley revived the half drowned rodent.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Klaw & Erlanger's production of "The Circus Man," with Maclyn Arbuckle in the role of Fighting Hime Hook, will begin an engagement at the Boston Theatre early in November, and come to New York a few weeks later.

Tom Richards will replace Jack Gardner in the title role of "The Chocolate Soldier" at the Lyric Theatre to-night. Mr. Richards was one of the principals with Henry W. Savage's "Madam Butterfly" company two seasons ago.

Henry W. Savage has decided to "feature" Charles J. Ross and Lina Abarbanell in "The Love Cure," beginning to-day, when Mme. Abarbanell makes her first appearance in the role of Nellie Vaughn.

Delegates of Scottish societies have reserved nearly all of the orchestra seats at the Plaza Music Hall for to-night to hear Harry Lauder, who begins his engagement there this afternoon.

Silver-trimmed drinking glasses will be given as souvenirs at the Garrick Theatre to mark the seventy-fifth performance of Hattie Williams in "Detective Sparkes."

Rehearsals of "These Are My People," Edward Milton Royle's sequel to "The Squaw Man," will begin to-day. Besides H. B. Warner and Alice Crawford, the cast will contain Frank Campau, Loudon McCormick, D. D. Louis, Harold Hartsell, Ulric Kenrade, Howell Hansel, Harry Harwood, Averill Harris, Charles W. Johnson, Bennett Kilpack, Jessie Izett, and Maude Turner Gordon.

MUSIC NOTES.

Mr. Hammerstein has decided to substitute "Les Contes d'Hoffmann" for "Faust" at the Saturday matinee at the Manhattan Opera House this week.

10,000 FOLLOW BIER OF THE ZION POET

With His Zionist Song, "Hatikvah," Beside Him, Imber Is Buried from Educational Alliance.

EULOGIZED AS A CHILD

The Poet Never Grew Up from His Boyhood Estate, Says the Rev. Dr. J. L. Magnes.

The body of Napthali Herz Imber, the east side poet and the author of "Hatikvah," the Zionist national hymn, who died on Friday in want, was followed from the Educational Alliance Building in East Broadway to the Mount Zion Cemetery by 10,000 sincere mourners. There was no lack of eloquent men to sound praises over his body.

There was a good deal of uncertainty about the funeral arrangements Saturday night and yesterday morning. User Marcus, who appeared with a contract in which he had agreed a year ago to bury the poet when he should die in return for a poem, at first claimed the right to bury Mr. Imber. Several Jewish societies, however, were so ardent in their wishes to take part in the funeral services that Mr. Marcus waived his exclusive privilege and joined with the societies in arranging for the funeral of the dead poet.

The Attorney Street synagogue had been the place first agreed upon for the funeral services. The managers of the synagogue later, however, decided that the services could not be held there because the poet was not orthodox in his religion. The Educational Alliance was then decided on.

The Educational Alliance Building at 197 East Broadway was filled with people long before 9 o'clock, the hour set for the funeral. The aid of the police was necessary to hold in order the thousands who waited outside the building for the funeral cortege to start for the Williamsburg Bridge, on its way to the cemetery at Maspeth, L. I., in which the poet had wished to be buried.

The pall-bearers marched down the aisle to the strains of Chopin's Funeral March and set the coffin on a stand before the stage. The coffin was covered with the blue and white flag of Zion. "Hatikvah," the poet's own greatest work, painted on a large tablet, and draped with black, was borne behind the coffin.

After the recitation of the Psalm of the Dead by Cantor Abramson of the People's Synagogue, the Rev. Dr. Eichler, also of the People's Synagogue, delivered an address eulogizing the poet.

"He can be compared only with a star," said Dr. Eichler, "a wandering star, one which has led his people not into wrong paths. He suffered from our faults. We ought to be ashamed to acknowledge that he died in want.

"We mourn him as dead here, but he can never die. 'Hatikvah,' that immortal song which expresses the hope of the Jewish people, will be sung by the Jewish people for centuries and centuries to come. The poet will live forever in that song."

The Rev. Dr. J. L. Magnus of the Temple Emanu-El compared Imber to a child.

"I call him a child," said he, "for he was typical of the Jewish race. The Jewish people do not know how to play, and they are children for only a few years. Imber never grew up from his child's estate. He was gentle and playful as a child, and yet as a Jewish child. He knew how to play with words.

"He was a poet not so much from his poetry, but by the songs that will be immortalized by the Jewish people. Greater poets than Imber have lived, but they have not had the joy and distinction of being sung by all the people, by being immortalized by all the people, and to express in the songs the joys and hopes of the people.

"He used to say to me '"Hatikvah," that is my life, and that is how I will be known after my death.'

"He used to give his last cent to aid the poor. 'What care I what the morrow may bring forth?' he would say.

"Imber's faults were the faults of a poet or a traveling minstrel. His needs were few and easily satisfied, and with all his faults no one will ever forget him.

"Imber, friend, poet, child, forever restless. Imber is gone. Imber, farewell."

Speeches were made by the Rev. Mr. Zaph, Ben Senal, User Marcus, Dr. Tarlof, Dr. Fliesman, and others.

MOVING PICTURES IN SCIENCE.

Surgery, Agriculture, and Metallurgy Taught by Them Now.

Moving pictures are now, or within the near future will be, applied to the teaching of botany, metallurgy, biology, the science of agriculture, and surgery, and thus do away with the necessity of vivisection for teaching purposes. This plan was announced last evening by John Collier, General Secretary for the National Board of Moving Picture Censors, at one of the regular after-service Socialistic discussions of the Church of the Ascension, Tenth Street and Fifth Avenue.

After the Rev. Alexander Irvine had besought the several hundred Socialists gathered to deal gently with the unfortunate wealthy, and had declared that Socialism was narrow, bigoted, and intolerant, only a little bit less so than Christianity, the after-service talk was devoted to the moving picture drama.

In discussing the immediate future for motion pictures, Mr. Collier said that the greatest surprise for the general public would be the application of moving pictures to educational problems. Films had now been prepared to illustrate different processes taught in botany, which it had never been possible to see before in a process of growth. The same was true of biology, where, by use of the microscope and the moving picture machines, the entire history of cellular life could be thrown on the screen before the students. It was now possible to introduce the moving picture as an educational appliance to the study of medicine, which would result in lessening greatly the amount of vivisection practiced in undergraduate work.

With the present scheme the vivisections used in all medical colleges would have to be performed but once. Any number of films needed could be prepared from the one set taken, so that a single vivisection for one particular object would illustrate that subject for all the medical schools. This would greatly decrease the number of animals killed, while it would entirely do away with the danger of a vivisection being made by an unskilled person.

Films have been made for use in the Wisconsin agricultural colleges, showing in parallel pictures the difference between scientific and unprogressive farming, in process and in result, said Mr. Collier. This graphic presentation of the properly prepared field giving an abundant yield side by side with the unimproved one with a scanty crop, is proving a most effective means of instruction for the Wisconsin farmers.

The same method will be used for various branches of farming and dairying, in which reform is being urged. An interesting possibility, he said, is the use of this demonstration out in India, to make known the improved methods of farming in the famine districts. It is asserted that systematized agriculture would do a great deal toward preventing the Indian famines.

As for the moving picture as drama, Mr. Collier declared that it would draw away two-thirds of the public at the standard theatres and nine-tenths of that of the burlesque houses. The motion plays, said the speaker, were within the means of the ordinary family, while the prices of the Broadway theatres were prohibitive for the common run of people. The one chance for the theatres, he said, was to make use of the moving pictures to give the setting instead of scenery. This, Mr. Collier declared, had been tried with great success at the Opéra Comique, resulting in an immense saving in the cost of production. The backgrounds were made in color, he said, and gave more beautiful scenic effects than painted canvas.

If the regulation theatres adopted some such plan, Mr. Collier suggested, the cost of production would be so greatly reduced that prices would again go down to the level where the great mass of people could once more afford to buy theatre tickets. In the opinion of the speaker, the average Broadway drama has become "contemptible and unrepresentative," because it now relies largely on the traveling public, "desultory idle, and only seeking diversion," instead of reflecting the taste and thought of the bulk of the American people. Compared with the "disreputable and pitiful average" of the Broadway productions the once despised moving picture was "positively angelic."

When the heckling began, a woman arose and wanted to know why a humanitarian censor board of moving pictures had ever allowed a play entitled "Poor Pussy," and evidently designed to be humorous, to have been produced. It was discovered, however, that "Poor Pussy" was perpetrated before the board took up the blue pencil, so the lady felt reassured.

COACHING CLUB RUN ENDS.

Members Returning from Newport on the Yacht Diana.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Oct. 10.—The run of the Coaching Club from New York to Oakland Farm in Portsmouth came to an end this evening when the company returned to New York on board the steam yacht Diana as guests of Vice Commodore C. Ledyard Blair. A. G. Vanderbilt went to the Louisville Horse Show in his private car Fayfare.

During the forenoon the guests of Mr. Vanderbilt saw his horses of the farm parade in the training ring and driven before every design of carriage. Some of the guests drove and others rode saddle horses. The farm was inspected and then there was an exhibition run of the fire department of the farm.

Luncheon was served in the training ring, where everything used in the service bore the stamp of a gray horse, even to the dishes. During the afternoon the company drove about the country and Newport, stopping at the Reading Room, and to-night the company departed for home.

Boy Shoots Cousin Dead.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Oct. 10.—Pointing a gun at his fourteen-year-old cousin, Marshall Sanderson, in Whately to-day, with a playful warning of "Look out! I'm going to shoot!" Herbert Sanderson, aged 16 years, sent the charge of shot into the younger boy's breast, causing wounds which resulted in death an hour later. Both boys lived in this city, but were spending Sunday with relatives in Whately. The police considered the shooting accidental and made no arrest.

Col. John F. Wilson.

Special to The New York Times.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., Oct. 10.—Col. John Farmer Wilson, a retired merchant and ex-Mayor of North Plainfield, where he had lived since 1873, died suddenly this morning in his seventy-eighth year. At the outbreak of the civil war he went to Richmond, Va., and offered his services to Pope Walker, Secretary of War of the Confederacy. He served with the Army of Northern Virginia throughout the war. When the war ended Col. Wilson returned to Baltimore. Later he went to New York, and was with the Lehigh and Wilkesbarre Coal Company. He married Miss Mary Elizabeth Farmer of Baltimore in 1855. Mrs. Wilson died in 1886, and of the twelve children born to them but two survive. A memorial chapel named for Mrs. Wilson was erected by Col. Wilson in the Watchung Hills.

Alpheus P. Sharp.

THE FINANCIAL SITUATION.

On Tuesday last call money rates rose to 6 per cent., the highest figure touched since January, 1908, and at once the movement of prices on the Stock Exchange, which had been strong and advancing, became irregular, with extreme weakness in issues in which speculation had been heavy. At the week's end, although money had in the interval dropped to 4 per cent., with final loans on Friday made at 3 per cent., the course of securities was still confused and disturbed. So far as the stock market is concerned, there is nothing peculiar in its conduct under the circumstances. Some of the selling which affected prices was traceable to sentiment, for speculators had reposed upon the openly expressed opinion of a great many bankers that 6 per cent. would probably be the maximum rate for call loans through the rest of the year, and the touching of that figure so early in the session was disconcerting. More important, however, was the liquidation of lines of stock which had been acquired by means of borrowed money. The money itself had been secured upon the extremely low interest rates prevailing for several months, and the interest charge itself had been more than offset by the dividend yields of the securities purchased. This profitable condition of affairs was reversed by the rise in call money and the closing out of large commitments naturally followed. The opinion was expressed in this column a week ago that the controlling influence on prices would for several weeks rest with money, and certainly the developments of the week have gone far to justify the assertion. Cushioned as it is by real prosperity in all lines of business, however, the market for some little time should continue irregular, with narrow movements save in cases where individual forces are at work. This is what Wall Street knows as the "traders' market," and its advent and prolongation would be of the highest possible advantage to the money market.

In spite of the somewhat early date at which a 6 per cent. rate has made its appearance there is very little in the money situation, local or international, to create apprehensions of a real stringency. There are three main sources of supply for the New York market; first, through curtailment and reduction of stock market accommodation; second, in any reserves which out-of-town banks may have which are not required by trade in their own vicinity, and third, influx of foreign money. Presumably the banks will see to it that the stock market contributes its portion after the manner described above, which is simply through quiet and narrow trading. On interior reserves it will not do to count too largely, for there are few localities where returning prosperity has not made the demands upon the banks very nearly commensurate with their resources. As for foreign capital it is a matter of common knowledge that we have already drawn heavily upon that source of supply and to that extent limited future appeals. By means of finance bills and through the help of commodities bills, mainly to cover European purchases of cotton and grain, further funds may be turned to this centre, but trade is also reviving abroad, and the great Government banks of Europe are taking steps to conserve their resources. The 3 per cent. discount rate established by the Bank of England last week attests this fact, as does the advance in the Bank of Germany's rate to 4 per cent. in the previous week. It remains true, however, that in case of need gold can be imported, for money like other commodities will seek the best market, and if that happens to be our own, thanks to high interest rates, to this market it will flow. We have witnessed in the past the erection of artificial barriers by the great foreign banks in their efforts to prevent the outflow of gold, but their sole effect has been to increase the cost to the borrower. There is no reason to look for such developments this Fall, for at the moment, at least, it seems quite probable that a proper level of reserves can be maintained by our banks without resort to drastic interest rates.

How much discussion of money market probabilities concerns the immediate securities markets and how little it has to do with fundamentals could hardly have had better illustration than that afforded last week by the day to day developments in the business world. Not a day passed without its announcement of a dividend increase by some conspicuous corporation. Reflecting the excellent state of the mercantile world there was the initial declaration of 2 per cent. upon the common stock of the recently formed United Dry Goods Company, one of the largest concerns of its kind in the United States. An advance from an annual payment of 5 per cent. to one of 6 per cent. was made by the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe, a foremost railroad of the country. A corresponding increase, from 4 to 5 per cent., was made by the United States Realty Company in the annual rate of distribution upon its stock, the company itself being without question the largest engaged in the erection and management of great business structures in the leading cities of the country, and among miscellaneous corporations whose ramified operations respond to and depend upon the prosperity of millions of people, which likewise found it possible to disburse their larger profits to stockholders, were the American Light and Traction Company, the United Cigar Stores Company, and the United Cigar Manufacturers Company. In the iron and steel trades September was a record month. The output of pig iron, 2,385,000 tons, was greater by 50,000 tons than the previous high record established in October, 1907, and the present October month was entered with production at the rate of 29,750,000 tons yearly, or 4,000,000 tons per year in excess of the record production of 1907. In the matter of bank clearings September was also a record, for in no previous September of the country's history have the exchanges of the cities amounted to so vast a sum as the $13,400,000,000 aggregate of last month.

Weather conditions throughout the month of September foreshadowed very accurately the decline in the condition of cotton which the Government reported as having occurred. The percentage figure on Sept. 25, the date of the report, was 58.5, against 63.7 on Aug. 25 and 69.7 a year ago, while the ten-year average for September reports is 67. This promise of an unusually small crop is in conflict, however, with the Government's own ginning report, which shows an amount of cotton prepared for market in the present season up to Sept. 25 only 28,000 bales under the largest total ever ginned in that period, and very nearly equal to the amount of cotton prepared in the same time last year, when the final crop was 13,500,000 bales. Taking the smaller crop indicated, however, as a foregone conclusion, it still remains true that with the supplies carried over there is sufficient cotton for export purposes and for home consumption, although the surplus above these requirements is very narrow. With the higher prices ruling, our sales to foreign spinners will establish heavy credits, their extent being indicated by the simple statement that at an average price of $65 a bale the cotton ginned up to Sept. 25 shows a value of $130,000,000, as against $102,000,000 for a larger amount of cotton prepared for market in the same period of 1908. Exports are running very large, having been already 111,000 bales more than a year ago, and approximating in value since September 1 $60,000,000. What was practically the final report of the Department of Agriculture on the country's crops for the year was issued on Friday, showing the corn-crop condition to have been maintained so perfectly through the month of September that the outturn will fall little if at all below last year's yield. Favorable harvest conditions added 10,000,000 bushels to the earlier Spring wheat promise, and the total of all wheat will exceed 724,000,000 bushels, making a crop only twice surpassed.

THE MARKETS OF EUROPE.

BERLIN BOERSE ACTIVE.

Feature of Market Tendency to Realize—Momentary Recoveries Only.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Oct. 10.—The reaction which set in at the end of the foregoing week continued throughout the week ended yesterday. A general inclination toward realization was the feature of the market.

There were momentary recoveries, accompanied by advancing prices, but these proved only temporary. The bear movement continued till the close. There was an absence of anything bordering on nervousness, but rather a feeling of relief that the market was recovering soberly and gradually from the excessive buoyancy of the past few weeks.

Speculative issues all closed lower than at any time in several weeks. Government issues were weak also on a rumor that the Reichstag would shortly be asked to sanction a fresh imperial loan of $125,000,000. The Imperial Bank rate will be advanced to 5 per cent. to-morrow.

LONDON SPECULATION ACTIVE.

Further Advance Is Expected in Bank of England's Rate.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—The advance in the Bank of England rate had very little effect locally, and, in fact, was followed by increased speculative activity on the Stock Exchange last week in most departments except in Americans, which receded under the influence of fears of tight money in New York.

The position of the bank leads to the belief that a further advance in the official rate will be made before the end of the month. The markets, which were dull at the beginning, continued to show indications of improvement as the week progressed.

The Statist strongly controverts the generally expressed opinion that a break in American prices is coming, and predicts a further advance before the middle of November.

PARIS BOURSE QUIET.

Lower Prices, However, Induced Better Buying—Feeling Hopeful.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Oct. 10.—The Bourse was quiet during most of the past week with no important feature. Lower prices induced better buying, yet there was no decisive recovery. Some fear, too, was expressed that London would further raise the discount rate.

The market remained reasonably firm, copper being the most doubtful. Rio Tintos closed at 1943 against 1950 on Friday. On the whole the general feeling of brokers and speculators is hopeful.

COTTON SHUTDOWN ASSURED.

Necessary Number of Southern Mill Men Will Support Plan.

Special to The New York Times.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Oct. 10.—Basing their statements on replies already received to the requests sent out Friday night to members of the organization to unite in a shutdown of at least one day a week, members of the American Cotton Manufacturers' Association, which controls fifteen to twenty million spindles in the South, say that the curtailment plan will be supported by 60 per cent. of the mills, which is the percentage required to make it effective.

It is well known that stocks are low. Especially is this true of cotton on hand, bought before 13 cents became the ruling figure. For weeks textile manufacturers have anticipated the situation, now a reality, when they would have to fill contracts on a basis of 13-cent cotton that would not net a profit.

There is probably more conviction attaching to this present curtailment undertaking than to any similar one launched by Southern mill men. There is also satisfaction that New England and other sections are moving toward reduction of output.

The Weekly Financial Review.

To-day's NEW YORK TIMES WEEKLY FINANCIAL REVIEW contains the first installment of opinions from officers of the various State Bankers' Associations as to the feeling of the rank and file of the country's bankers toward the central-bank plan.

The outlook in the money market is discussed in a special article. The new table of railroad earnings now includes the hundred best-known railroads of the country.

Financial Notes.

The earnings of the Kansas City, Mexico & Orient Railway Company for the fourth period of September (nine days) were $45,000, an increase over the corresponding period last year of $16,700, or 57 per cent. During this period the road broke several records. First, Sunday the 26th was the best Sunday it had, the earnings amounting to $5,800, and the earnings on Monday the 27th were the largest for any single day in the history of the road, namely, $6,800.

the Market Puzzle

Five years Wall Street has been talking about its valuable equities and rich melons to the stockholders. Will it take five years more for something to come out of them? This week's issue treats of this subject. Another interesting article on Pacific Telephone and Telegraph.

BOSTON COPPER GOSSIP.

Mines Are Pushing Production at Low Costs.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Oct. 9.—Utah Consolidated will, after April 1, when its new smelter contract goes into operation, increase its shipments of ore to 1,000 tons daily, and, it is believed, will find its costs reduced from 9 to 8 cents per pound. With shipments of 15,000,000 pounds yearly the company would then earn $2.50 per share on 18-cent copper.

Large quantities of ore are being taken out of the Old Dominion mines, most of it from levels below the ninth. The copper values increase with depth. Material reductions in expenses are in effect underground.

Butte Central officials say that they expect to order work resumed soon. The shaft will be sunk to 1,500 feet, then crosscuts will be run to the two veins, meanwhile shipments will be made from the upper levels. The ore blocked out is said to average twenty-five ounces silver, $2.50 gold, and 1 per cent. copper to the ton.

Isle Royale produced 335 tons of ingot copper in September. Both shafts continue sinking, but only a little copper has thus far been encountered.

Granby Consolidated, with its smelting plant in a state of highest efficiency, counts on a further reduction in cost of production.

Arizona Commercial is installing a 1,000,000-gallon pump, which will prevent further delay in developing the property. The 700-foot level has been unwatered. The new smelter is almost ready.

The drift in the Minnie Healy vein, in the 1,200-foot level of Butte Coalition, continues in first-class ore.

Manager Edwards reports a better outlook for North Lake.

According to General Manager Brown, the ore shipped from Trinity before the mine was shut down last February, assayed 2.87 per cent. copper, 1.01 ounces silver, and 0.3379 ounces gold. On 14,242 tons of ore the net profit was $10,000.

THE POSITION OF THE STEEL TRADE

Record Output of Furnaces Not Sufficient to Keep Pace with Steelmakers.

PRICES GO STILL HIGHER

Bessemer Commands $18.90, Pittsburg, for Fourth Quarter—Rail Orders a Big Factor—Carnegie Mills Making Records.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 9.—A 28,000,000-ton clip by the furnaces in the production of pig iron is no longer fast enough to keep the steel mills of the country going when they are pushed to the extreme limit of their capacity. This was demonstrated by September's anomalous situation of furnaces beating all previous records for iron output, while stocks of material at the mills and the foundries decreased instead of increased. In other words, by the confession of the best posted men in the iron trade in the Pittsburg market the country is in for a pig iron famine before the close of Winter, in which importations of foreign iron will be welcomed.

The furnaces made 2,388,000 tons of pig iron of all grades during the thirty days of September, beating the record of the best thirty-one-day month in the history of the trade by 50,000 tons. This is at the rate of 28,670,000 tons a year, which is 500,000 tons higher than the total rated capacity of the country, as given early in the Summer. Yet this record has failed to satisfy the demands of the steel mills, the foundries, and other consumers of pig metal. A purchase of 46,000 tons of Bessemer by the Cambria Steel Company on Thursday of last week cleaned out the Valley furnaces of that grade, and a famine in Bessemer pig is looked for by Pittsburg. Totals made up by a number of large dealers place the actual sales of foundry irons during September in all markets of the country at 600,000 tons, and the foundries and machinery plants are said to be working on lower stocks now than they were at the beginning of September. They absorbed the total output of the furnaces and still decreased the visible stocks on hand.

The Cambria Steel Company's purchase last Thursday included 22,000 tons of Bessemer for shipment through the fourth quarter of the present year at $18 valleys or $18.90 Pittsburg, 24,000 tons of Bessemer for delivery during first quarter of 1910 at $18.50 valleys, and 3,000 tons of basic for prompt shipment at $17 valleys.

The Bessemer Furnace Association, which sold most of the Bessemer metal to the Cambria, is said to have sold out its total furnace capacity up to April 1, and it is stated that two of the large steel-making companies will shortly be in the open market to buy pig iron to help out their own furnaces. Pittsburg views with no special alarm the threat of the importation of German and Middlesborough pig iron. There will be enough business for everybody.

Following last week's sales of Bessemer, prices advanced sharply to $18.50 for Bessemer for all deliveries, with a likelihood that the Valley furnaces will be asking $19, Valleys, as a minimum for first quarter and first half Bessemer when the market opens to-morrow. Basic iron also gained a full 50 cents, going to $17 for prompt and $17.50 for 1910, while No. 2 foundry made even a better showing, advancing 75 cents to $17.75 for 1910 deliveries. Some furnaces shared the price 25 and 50 cents for small tonnages for last quarter, but no one was anxious to sell even for immediate shipment in any quantity at the lower prices.

The event of the week in Steel Corporation circles was the announcement that the Carnegie mills would all be forced to new high records for the present month, and the present quarter. Additional rail capacity has been put on at the Carnegie rail mills in Pittsburg; the Newark, O., rolling mills have been started, and preparations are being made for the long anticipated rush in winter rail rolling, as a result of the recent orders by the Pennsylvania and Norfolk & Western, large slices of which came to the Carnegie Company, and the anticipated 250,000-ton reservation by the New York Central.

The Mercer sheet mill of the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company was put on during the week, after an idleness of two years, and the combine now has in operation a larger sheet and tin plate capacity than at any time in two years, notwithstanding the strike of the union sheet and tin workers, which still drags on and has handicapped the company greatly at New Castle, Penn., and Bridgeport, Ohio. A sweeping injunction, secured at New Castle last Friday, largely broke the force of the strike there.

The week saw brisk bidding by the fabricators, and it is evident that the usual lull in the structural trade will not be visible this year. The Pennsylvania came into the market for a large tonnage of plates for the 2,000 steel cars it is building at its own shops at Altoona. The steel car plants increased their operating capacity in the Pittsburg district during the week by about fifty cars a day, and the demand for plates by the car builders on the Carnegie mills is becoming burdensome. As a result, plates and shapes are quoted at 1 point advance for delivery after Dec. 1.

Register to-day. It is the last day of registration. If you fail to register you cannot vote at the election on Nov. 2. The registration places open at 7 A. M. and close at 10 P. M. A full list of registration places in Manhattan and the Bronx is printed elsewhere in THE TIMES to-day. Register to-day.

RAILWAY PROTESTS TO COMMISSION

Lehigh Valley Questions Commerce Board's Authority in New Accounting Rules.

MAY SEEK COURT TEST

A Number of Other Roads Are in Sympathy with the Attitude of This Coal Road.

With the further regulation of railroad accounts by the Inter-State Commerce Commission which has come with the laying down of rules by the commission governing the form of balance sheets and the classification of expenditures for additions and betterments, more active protest is being made by some of the railroads against the requirements of the commission. Some of the most important systems in the country have refused to recognize the right of the commission to restrict the discretion of the directors in the matter of charges for depreciation of equipment and other similar matters, and now formal protest is being made to the commission against the latest requirements in respect to balance sheets and expenditures for improvements and betterments.

The Lehigh Valley has gone to the extent of registering its refusal to recognize the authority of the commission in this matter, and in a formal protest made to the commision, the text of which has just been made public, the management of that road suggests that it may resort to action in the courts, if need be, to escape compliance with these requirements of the Inter-State Commerce Commission. President E. B. Thomas's letter to the commission reads:

"The Lehigh Valley Railroad Company, in its own behalf and on behalf of and for its subsidiary and affiliated companies controlled by ownership of stock, lease, or otherwise, hereby enters its protest against the order issued by the Inter-State Commerce Commission under date of June 21, 1909, prescribing a 'classification of expenditures for additions and betterments,' effective July 1, and also against the order issued by the commission, dated June 21, 1909, prescribing a 'form of general balance sheet statement,' effective July 1.

"The Lehigh Valley Railroad Company believes that the commission has, as respects the two orders above mentioned, assumed an authority which was not intended to be granted to the commission by Section 20 of the act to regulate commerce, and further believes the adoption of said orders will not and can not be for the best interests of the Lehigh Valley Railroad Companay or any other common carrier engaged in a similar line of business; that a system of accounting so essentially theoretical cannot fail to produce confusion during years to come, and create in the minds of stockholders an erroneous impression of the financial condition of the carrier and mislead the public generally as to the cost of service performed by carriers and the reasonableness of transportation charges.

"The Lehigh Valley Railroad Company does not admit the right of the commission to remove from the Directors of the company the power to appropriate from the surplus, reserve, or other accounts of the company such sums for improvements and betterments as in the opinion of the board is wise, proper, and beneficial to the company, and to charge such sums or expenditures to the accounts which will most truthfully reflect the facts. It does not believe that the Directors of the company, who are intrusted with the management and operation of the property and its financial control, can fulfill their duty to the stockholders if, in the disposition of the surplus and in the determination of the amounts chargeable to operating expenses, they are restricted in the exercise of their discretion by these orders, and we understand that these orders do endeavor to effect such restriction.

"It is not the desire of the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company to enter at this time into any argument with the commission as respects the merit or lack of merit of the system of accounting prescribed in the orders above mentioned, as the statistician of the commission, we understand, has been favored in conference with the views of the representative of this company. It may be pointed out, however, that the system promulgated by the commission partakes in many respects of the practice followed for years by the British railroads, the financial condition of which and their cost of performing service, notwithstanding the much lower rates of wages paid in that country, being too well known to require any elaborate explanation.

"The Lehigh Valley Railroad hereby expressly declares that the compliance by it or any of its controlled or affiliated companies with the said orders of the Inter-State Commerce Commission prescribing a "classification of expenditures for additions and betterments" and a "form of general balance sheet statement," must not be considered as evidencing its acquiescence or assent to the validity of the said orders or as approving of the methods of accounting prescribed by the said orders, nor in any way having the effect of limiting, restricting, or estopping the said Lehigh Valley Railroad Company or any of its controlled or affiliated companies from testing the validity of the said orders by proper procedure in law or equity as fully and effectually as if the same had not been complied with."

The interest which attaches to this attitude on the part of the Lehigh Valley, with which the managements of many other railroads are in sympathy, lies not so much in the relative merits of the form of accounting which the commission has prescribed compared with the form which the railroads favor as in the fact that this attitude indicates a growing disposition to contest the right of the commission to go to the length in the regulation of railroad affairs to which it has gone in handling this matter of railroad reports. There are a number of roads which have consistently refused to accede to the commission's regulations in regard to equipment depreciation, although the rules governing these accounts went into effect more than a year ago. Railroad circles have awaited with interest a move on the part of the commission to enforce these accounting rules. Now that further protest is being entered in a formal way against the commission's requirements it seems more likely that the courts will be called upon to pass upon the questions at issue between the commission and some of the railroads in respect to the new accounting methods.

RECORD PIG IRON OUTPUT.

Heavy Increase in Production Offset by Larger Steel Capacity.

With the steelmakers again working at full capacity and conditions analogous to those which made the steel famine before the panic rapidly coming forward, the enormous increase in pig iron production and the still greater output ahead is one of the chief factors which may be counted on to prevent a too rapid upturn in prices. The Iron Age's figures of pig iron production in the 30-day month of September were 2,385,206 gross tons, as compared with 2,248,930 gross tons in the 31-day month of August. September production was at the rate of 29,020,055 tons a year. The significance of these figures are better understood by comparison with the previous high record rate of annual production reached in 1907, when the output aggregated 25,781,361 tons. In 1908 it had dropped to 15,936,018 tons. The rate of production at the opening of October was greater still, and indicates the rapidity of the increase. The Iron Age says on this point: "We entered the month of October with active plants having a weekly capacity of 564,885 tons, or at the rate of over 29,750,000 tons, which contrasts with a record production of 25,781,361 tons in 1907. In other words, we are now making pig iron at a rate of 4,000,000 tons larger than the best year the country has ever known."

Chicago Subway Plans.

A long conference was held in New York between representatives of J. Ogden Armour and the Harriman estate, who control the Chicago Subway Company, and the principal bondholders of the company. It was learned that the meeting, which is one of a number to be held, was called to settle the future policy of the company.

Since the organiation of the Chicago Subway Company, in 1904, to take over the Illinois Tunnel Company, the Illinois Telephone Construction Company, and the Chicago Warehouse and Terminal Company, the funds for the development of the property have been supplied by J. Ogden Armour and E. H. Harriman.

The Harriman-Armour interests decided at that time to add about forty miles of subway to that already built, and make the connections with all the railroad freighthouses in Chicago complete before carrying out the plans of the company for obtaining the freight-distributing business of the mercantile section of the city. This work has now been done, and the company has been doing a rapidly increasing business in the last few months, which, it has been said, assures income enough to take care of fixed charges.

Parties to the conference refused to admit that the object of the conferences was to draw plans for a reorganization of the property, but it is understood that the death of E. H. Harriman has made it necessary to find other sources of funds.

RICH VILLAGERS WAR OVER SEWER SYSTEM

Isle of Wight, L. I., Residents Accuse Lawrence Health Board of Plugging Pipe with Wood.

AN APPEAL TO GOV. HUGHES

Islanders Ordered to Move by Town Officials Declare It's a Plot to Get Their Land.

A village warfare which has waged for years between prominent members of the exclusive section of Lawrence, L. I., culminated yesterday when it was announced that charges of malfeasance in office would be filed this week with Gov. Hughes against the town officials of that community. Implicated in the fight are many wealthy members of the Summer colony there. There were hints yesterday of proceedings of even a more serious nature. It is alleged that some one has maliciously tampered with a part of the sewer system of Lawrence, thus exposing the inhabitants to the danger of diseases.

The battleground of the contending forces is that picturesque part of Lawrence village known as the Isle of Wight. It is a flat stretch of meadow land of 150 acres, divided from the mainland by a stream called Crooked Creek. The Isle of Wight reaches out into Long Beach Bay, about seven miles west of Long Beach. The island commands the only piece of water front in the vicinity of Lawrence and lies directly between the ocean and that select part of the village where many New Yorkers have country homes. In fact it is over the happy geographical location of the Isle of Wight that the present warfare started.

Among the present residents on the island are Dr. Irving E. Strong, Robert R. Clayton, Dr. Ensign B. Pardee, Washington Hull, the architect; A. H. Lanthier, H. W. Dawson, Mrs. Katherine B. Harris, Alexander Wilson, R. E. Leavitt, the New York banker, and the Rev. Dr. Flagg, former rector of Grace Church. Altogether about 150 persons make up the colony.

How the Sewer Was Built.

One of the first improvements was a sewerage system, the main line of which led across a wide stretch of swamp land and emptied into Crooked Creek. Later a canal was dug, so that the sewage could be carried into Woodmere Bay on the one side and Long Beach Bay on the other. At the end of this canal, where it joins Long Beach Bay, is located the Lawrence Beach Bathing Casino and the Cedarhurst Yacht Club. For many years the Isle of Wight was in the Town of Hempstead, but in 1906 it was made part of the village corporation of Lawrence, against the protests of the island residents.

The unimproved part of the Isle of Wight is owned by the Cedarhurst-Lawrence Land Improvement Company. The officers and Directors include most of the wealthy residents of Lawrence, and several of them are members of the Town Board of Health. The President of the company is R. L. Burr, Origen Seymour is Secretary, and the heaviest stockholders are Robert L. Burton of Woodmere, Newbold T. and John L. Lawrence, Edward M. Bentley, Mrs. Russell Sage, William P. Dixon, and Frederick Phillips. Mr. Bentley is President of the Village Board of Health. Newbold T. Lawrence is the Secretary, and among its officers are Mr. Phillips, Carlton Macy, and Dr. Slocum of Far Rockaway. The President of the village is H. Hobart Porter.

The trouble between the residents of the Isle of Wight and the village of Lawrence began in 1901. Complaint was lodged by residents of Lawrence with the Board of Health of Hempstead, by William P. Dixon and others, that the Isle of Wight sewer had burst and the conditions were so unsanitary that the health of the community was threatened. Notices to vacate were posted on all the houses, and the residents prepared to move. A committee, headed by Washington Hull, appealed to the Board of Supervisors for a public hearing. The board decided against them.

An appeal was taken to the State Board of Health. Prof. Landreth, engineer of the board, made a personal investigation. The appeal was sustained by the State board, but certain modifications in the sewerage system were recommended. These changes were made, and included the building of a causeway leading across the meadows to the edge of the bay and the installation of a septic tank.

Mr. Hull stated at that time that he had found that some one had plugged up the main sewer pipe with stones and sacks and that the breakage of the pipe was entirely due to this obstruction. From time to time after that, he said, the sewer pipe was broken, apparently with malicious intent, but each time it was repaired by the residents.

Second Complaint Made.

Last June the sewer overflowed again and the Lawrence Board of Health, for the Isle of Wight, having been taken under that village's wing, took action. A complaint against the property owners of the little island was filed by Frederick L. Phillips. The property owners were subpoenaed to appear before the board and show cause why the sewer should not be discontinued. The hearing was held in the town hall on Aug. 24 and the islanders were represented by counsel and two sanitary experts, W. Farquhar and Watson Vredenburg.

George A. Soper, a civil engineer employed by the village authorities, testified against the islanders, and the Board of Health announced that the residents would have to vacate. They nailed up notices on all the houses that the sewerage system was extremely unsanitary and that an epidemic of typhoid was imminent. Most of the residents became alarmed and closed up their houses and moved back to the city. All the Summer boarders in the place left precipitately. It looked as if the Isle of Wight was to be depopulated.

Mr. Hull, however, as before, began an investigation. He tapped the sewer pipe at frequent intervals, but could not find the obstruction. After working two days and two nights he announced yesterday that early on Saturday morning he located, about eight feet from the mouth of the sewer, where it empties into Crooked Creek, tightly wedged into the mouth of the sewer pipe, a large block of wood. According to Mr. Hull it had been necessary to dig a deep hole to reach the sewer and then a sledge hammer was apparently used to drive the block into the pipe. Before he removed the obstruction Mr. Hull sent for his lawyer and a photographer and had pictures taken. When the plug was released the sewer pipe was as good as ever and the waste which had accumulated on the meadows quickly drained off.

Islanders Prepare for War.

Mr. Hull reported what he had found to the other residents of the island, and an indignation meeting was held on Saturday evening. It was decided to appeal for relief direct to Gov. Hughes. Formal charges against the Board of Health of the village of Lawrence were drawn up, setting forth that proper police protection had not been afforded to the property owners of the Isle of Wight, and that the sewer had been wilfully tampered with, thus creating conditions obnoxious to the health of the community. Lawyer Wilfred H. Warner of 5 Nassau Street was retained on behalf of the property owners.

"The present sewerage system on our property is built after designs laid down by the late Col. George E. Waring," said Mr. Hull yesterday. "Some of the most interested property owners in Lawrence are members of the Board of Health, and it looks to me as if they were trying their utmost to get our property condemned so as to get possession of it. But we have lived on it for years, and we are not going to get out. We have ample proof to substantiate every charge we will make."

The residents of the little meadow island have organized the Isle of Wight Property Owners' Association. William A. Winant is the President, Wilfred H. Warner the Vice President, William E. Leavitt the Treasurer, and Washington Hull the Secretary.

"This whole matter was decided at a meeting of the Board of Health last August," said Edward M. Bentley, President of the Lawrence Board of Health, last evening. "The board ruled that the property owners on the Isle of Wight must cease delivering their sewage on the marshland. As far as Mr. Hull's charges are concerned, I am not at all worried, and I do not believe he will take the matter up to Gov. Hughes."

WEALTHY FARMER MURDERED.

Daughter Finds His Body in a Corn Field—She May Die of Shock.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Penn., Oct. 10.—Miss Maud Heufnagle discovered the dead body of her father in a cornfield near Paris, this county, this morning. Heufnagle was one of the wealthiest residents of Northern Washington County. So far as can be learned he had no enemies.

He left the farm on the morning of Sept. 30 to go to Pittsburg, where he expected to make a visit of a week or more with a sick daughter, and on his way to the train took a short cut along a path through a cornfield. That was the last seen of him, and it is believed that he was waylaid and murdered while walking along this path. Heufnagle apparently put up a desperate struggle for his life, as the ground near where the body was found was trampled for yards around. Heufnagle is known to have had a large sum of money and some valuable papers in his possession, and these are missing, indicating that robbery was the motive for the crime.

Officers in Western Pennsylvania, in Ohio, and in West Virginia are at work on the case.

Miss Maud Heufnagle, who fainted after discovering the body, had not regained consciousness this evening, and her condition is serious.

NEW COAST DEFENSE PLAN.

Submarines to be Used as Mine Planters in Place of Army Boats.

A scheme of co-operation between the Coast Artillery Corps of the army and the submarine force of the navy is now being worked out to provide for better protection of the principal seaports from outside attack.

The army now has a fleet of mine planters, big ocean-going craft, that with improved devices invented by the coast artillery officers can mine harbors where the water is as much as 300 feet deep, whereas only a few years ago eighty and one hundred feet was the limit.

Under the present plan it is understood that while the submarines will remain under the absolute control of the Navy Department, they will be used in place of military mine planters where there are strong tides and currents.

Lieut. Col. Charles J. Bailey, Assistant Chief of the Coast Artillery, visited Quincy, Mass., recently, where he inspected the new flotilla of submarines being built there for the Government. His report to Brig. Gen. Arthur Murray, the Chief of Artillery, has not yet been made public.

PLAY IN A SERMON.

Dr. Aked Also Deals with Bohemian Tendencies of Actors.

The Rev. Dr. Charles F. Aked, pastor of the Fifth Avenue Baptist Church, took a play as the subject of his sermon last night. After sketching the characters in "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," Dr. Aked made an appeal to humanity to rise to the possibilities of its potentialities for goodness.

"Take actors and actresses," said Dr. Aked, "make them bohemians and outcasts from society, and you have yourself to thank if they are according to the ban under which you have placed them."

He asked whether the members of his congregation had lived up to the potentialities of goodness to which they were born.

WOOD TAKES RIDING TEST.

With Other Army Officers He Starts on Ninety-Mile Trip.

ALBANY, Oct. 10.—Gen. Leonard Wood, commanding the Department of the East, headed a number of regular army officers who started from Camp Oliver to-day on a ninety-mile endurance test in horsemanship. They rode over a circuitous route as far as Schenectady, where they remained to-night. They will return to Albany Tuesday.

The regular army organizations, which have been participating in the military tournament at Camp Oliver for a week, gave a final exhibition to-day, and will break camp to-morrow, with the exception of the Tenth Cavalry, which will remain in camp until the officers return from the horsemanship test.

Machinists Plan for an 8-Hour Day.

It was announced here yesterday that the International Association of Machinists have agreed on a plan to bring about an eight-hour workday in the trade by degrees. The nine-hour workday now prevails. Twenty minutes will be taken from the workday every six months, so that at the end of a year and a half the eight-hour workday will be established. It is thought this can be done without antagonizing the employers as a direct demand for an eight-hour day would probably do.

CITY BREVITIES.

The New York Electric Show opens at Madison Square Garden to-night.

The diamond jubilee of St. Augustine's Roman Catholic Church in East 167th Street, between Franklin and Fulton Avenues, was celebrated yesterday by a solemn high mass. Archbishop Farley officiated in the chancel, but did not sing the mass.

Arrivals from Glasgow yesterday on the Anchor Line steamship Caledonia included C. F. Henderson of Liverpool, a Director of the Anchor Line; Mrs. H. McK. Cleland and Mrs. S. H. Meek, missionaries returning on leave from Lucknow, India; Judge and Mrs. C. J. Kavanagh of Chicago, Mrs. Andrew McLean and daughter of Brooklyn, and the Revs. Daniel O'Brien and C. O'Byrne of Buffalo.

SAYS HEIRESS MEANT TO ELOPE WITH HIM

Armand Singer Blames Florence Silberman's Father for Frustration of Plans.

TROTH PLIGHTED ON SHIP

Silberman Says There Was Never an Engagement and That Singer Tried to Borrow Money from Him.

Armand Singer, a young man who came here from London and is stopping at a hotel on Fifth Avenue, is disconsolate over the frustration of his plans to marry Florence Silberman, daughter of Samuel Silberman, a wealthy retired real estate operator of 133 East Seventy-ninth Street, but still has hopes that the father will relent in his opposition to the match.

Singer says he was introduced to Miss Silberman at a hotel in London in September by his brother Max. She was there with her father, her brother Alfred, and her three sisters. Singer had recently come from Java, where he cultivated cocoa, sugar, and coffee on the plantations.

"When they learned that I was sailing on the Kaiserin Auguste Victoria on Oct. 1," said Mr. Singer yesterday, "Mrs. Silberman said I must go with them on the Cleveland on Sept. 24. During the voyage I fell in love with Florence, and we became engaged.

"The day of my arrival, Sunday, Oct. 3, I was invited to the Silberman home, and that night I dined with the family at the Knickerbocker Hotel. I was told to call at the house every day. Wednesday I took Miss Silberman to luncheon at the Waldorf-Astoria. We arranged to get married by a magistrate on Thursday and go to Philadelphia for two weeks and then to Paris."

Mr. Singer accompanied Miss Silberman to a store on Fifth Avenue, he said, where she purchased several articles of clothing for traveling and had them charged to her account. He took the packages, six in number, to his hotel in a taxicab to take care of over night.

"That night, at 7 o'clock," said Mr. Singer, in sad tones, "I had a call on the telephone, which told me that something had happened, and my future bride's parents had been warned of our plans. I went to the house, where I saw Mr. Silberman. I must decline to say what took place there, but I stayed till 2 o'clock in the morning, when Mr. Silberman drove me home in a taxicab. On the way I told him that I had cabled my brother for money and had written to all my uncles and aunts telling them that I had married Miss Silberman. He asked me why I had done so, and I said that it was at his daughter's suggestion, as she thought that if I said I was actually married it might hurry them up in giving me their wedding presents.

"Mr. Silberman appeared anxious that I should stop the letters by cable, and I replied that that would be useless and expensive. He pulled out $1,000 in bills and offered it to me to pay expenses and take me home, and his lawyer has called on me every morning since offering the same amount. I do not want his money, and I have my affairs to see to here in this city.

"Mr. Silberman became so anxious about my welfare that he had a room reserved in the hotel under the name of J. Tompkins of New York, and on Thursday I met his daughter Beatrice here with her brother Alfred, who wanted me to send the six packages of clothing to their house. I had already sent them by a messenger from the hotel."

Asked if he had seen Florence Silberman since the fatal Wednesday, Mr. Singer said he had spoken with her on the telephone on Thursday afternoon, when she wept bitterly and asked him to go home.

Samuel Silberman, when seen at his home yesterday afternoon, denied that there had been any engagement between his daughter and Armand Singer.

"My girls are good looking," he said, "and naturally they attracted the attention of the young men on board the Cleveland before we had got out of sight. This Singer, whom we met on board for the first time, was the most persistent of the lot, and followed us to the house here after our arrival. He asked me if he could call on my daughter, and I refused, as he was only a steamship acquaintance. He persisted in his attentions to Florence, and she informed me about it, and on Wednesday evening I ordered him to leave the house and not come there again. Later that night the watchman found him sitting on the stoop and forcibly removed him."

His daughter Beatrice, who was present at the interview, with her sister Florence and her brother Alfred, confirmed their father's statements, and said the idea of an elopement was absurd in the extreme. Mr. Silberman said that Singer had asked him for a loan, which he had refused. This statement Singer denies.

Florence Silberman is an attractive young woman of about 22, with brown hair and eyes. Singer is about 27.

LITERARY NECKWEAR GIRLS

Are Striking for Funds for Opera, Turgenieff, and Tolstoy.

A new view of the striking neckwear girls who began the second day of their general strike yesterday was presented by the women officers of the Neckwear Workers' Union, who are running the strike.

According to them, the public must divest itself of the idea that the girl strikers are a frivolous lot, who look on life as a holiday when they are not working. Instead they say the girls are great readers and are improving their minds while the men drink beer and play stuss.

Miss Lillian Plesser, Secretary of the union, says that the girls are fond of Shakespeare, and also read Goethe, Turgenieff, and Tolstoy. When they can scrape up the money they go to the Opera, but as a rule moving picture shows suffice for them, not because they do not appreciate grand opera, but because it costs money.

Taxicab Burns in the Street.

A taxicab was driven into the garage of the Central Park Taxicab Company, at 141-151 West 110th Street yesterday morning at 2 o'clock and put on a stand to be washed. Gasoline from an unnoticed leak in the machine's tank caught fire. The whole underpart of the taxicab was flaming in a moment. Fearing for the hundred or more other taxicabs in the garage, the attendants rushed the burning machine out into the street. It was destroyed by the flames, the loss being $4,000.

Girl Dies of Fourth of July Bullet.

Twelve-year-old Edna Simmons, a colored girl, died at the home of her parents at 1,066 Fulton Street, Brooklyn, following an operation to extract a bullet from her spine. She was shot by William Hairston, a colored man, in front of his home at 539 Classon Avenue on the afternoon of July 5. He was annoyed at the noise of her firecrackers, and according to the police fired a ball cartridge at her, thinking it a blank. He is a prisoner.

Schooner Mysteriously Sinks.

BEAUFORT, N. C., Oct. 10.—An unknown schooner has mysteriously sunk in fourteen fathoms of water due west of the Diamond Shoal Lightship. Just when the vessel went down is not known, but it must have bee during last night, as it was not until this morning that the lightship crew saw topmasts standing well out of the water. There has been no word to indicate the fate of the crew.

CAN'T FORGET STUDENT BLACK

Even Now He's a Minister, Thirty Others Protest Against Him.

Friction has developed in the New York Presbytery over the protest of about thirty ministers out of a total of more than two hundred against the ordination of the Rev. Archibald Black and his installation as pastor of the Bedford Park Presbyterian Church on Oct. 14. Those who have drafted the protest include the Rev. Dr. W. D. Buchanan of the Fourth Church, the Rev. Dr. John Fox of the American Bible Society, the Rev. Dr. Henry B. Elliott, a veteran graduate of New York University, and the Rev. Dr. Daniel S. Gregory, who is employed as Secretary of the Bible League of America. The protest says that Mr. Black is unsound in the Christian faith; that he rejects the Bible as his guide, doubts the Virgin birth, does not accept the physical resurrection of Christ, and thus goes as far as it is possible for any one to go in agnosticism.

There is to be held this afternoon a special meeting of the Presbytery. It is to be held solely to receive this protest, and to consider whether it is to be advanced to the Synod of New York, and if so in what form. It is expected by some that Mr. Black will come before the Presbytery and make a statement. It is pointed out that he has once modified his views and may do so further. Others say there is no occasion for him to do so.

The trouble grows out of an alleged unsatisfactory examination of three theological students, named Archibald Black, John S. Steen, and George A. Fitch, last Spring, after their graduation from Union Theological Seminary.

Of the three students, Black is wanted by the Bedford Park congregation, Steen is said to have lost a $4,000 a year call, and Fitch has gone into the Y. M. C. A.

HE'LL HAVE CRICKET OPERA.

Curator Ditmars Breeding Songsters for All-Winter Concerts.

Curator Raymond L. Ditmars of the Bronx Zoo, whose private office is an adjunct of the reptile house, announces that by changing the breeding season of crickets, he can make them sing throughout the Winter. Furthermore, it is his intention to transform the reptile house, the only place in the Zoo devoid of hideous sounds—except when the crocodile blows his nose like the salute of a gun—into a cricket chirruporium, as he calls it.

He says that the monotonous silence of snakes grates on his inspiration—he writes books during his leisure hours. By placing a dozen terraria of singing crickets in the reptile house he hopes to make this resort more popular, both for visitors and for the reptiles.

The idea of singing crickets in the Winter time has poetical origin with the curator. Last Winter in his own home he heard a cricket on the hearth. He captured it, removed a brick from the hearth, built a home for the cricket in this recess, and had free song service all Winter. Hence the idea.

Accordingly, the ingenious curator recently collected a lot of field crickets, tree crickets, "sleighbell" crickets, and locust crickets, the latter having a specialty of imitating the warning jingle of a rattlesnake. By saving their eggs and applying artificial heat, a new generation of crickets will hatch in midwinter whose stridulating organs will begin operations in early youth.

"They will only live three months," said Mr. Ditmars, "and they won't be much of an expense to the Zoo; two blades of grass will feed the entire ranch for a day."

AFTER A BALLOON RECORD.

A. H. Forbes and Max Fleischmann Enter for the Lahm Cup at St. Louis.

A. Holland Forbes, First Vice President of the Aero Club of America, and Max Fleischmann of Cincinnati are preparing to make a balloon ascension some day this week, probably on Wednesday, from St. Louis. They hope to break all American records for distance. Mr. Forbes left New York for St. Louis yesterday.

Mr. Forbes has made his formal entry at the Aero Club for the Lahm Cup, as this trophy was not won last week by the leaders in the St. Louis balloon contest, as the pilots of the two leading balloons failed to file their entries for the trophy previous to the race. To win the Lahm Cup a distance of 473¼ miles must be exceeded, this being the record made by Capt. Charles de F. Chandler of the United States Signal Corps on Oct. 17, 1907.

"Mr. Fleischmann is anxious to land somewhere in the woods of Canada above Quebec or Montreal," said Mr. Forbes before his departure. He will carry a couple of guns, so as to be ready for big game shooting should we land in a good hunting district. We will be prepared to remain in the air three days. We have ordered a big supply of canned foods, and if necessary we will be enabled to camp out in the woods for a week."

The record of 872 miles made by the German balloonist Oscar Erbaloh in 1907 when he won the International balloon trophy in the race from St. Louis, is at present the official American balloon record for distance.

The balloon which Mr. Forbes and Mr. Fleischmann will use is the New York, which was used last week in the St. Louis races by Clifford B. Harmon.

POLICE SAVE THREE CHILDREN

Store Beneath All Ablaze, Parents Panic-Stricken, but Aid Arrived.

Policemen John J. Mooney and Thomas Laffy of the Butler Street Station, Brooklyn, and Sergt. Michael Walsh rescued three children of Louis Lieberkind, who owns a delicatessen store at 251 Court Street, yesterday in a fire which started in the tailor's shop of Isaac Greenblad, also on the ground floor of 251 Court Street. The building is a five-story tenement. The delicatessen and tailor shops adjoin.

The policemen had gone through the house to arouse the tenants, nearly all of whom made their escape by the fire escapes at the rear of the building. They reached the second floor landing when they heard screams from the rear room of the delicatessen store, where Lieberkind, his wife and three children, Ruth, 7 months old; Harry, 3 years, and Helen, 5 years, lived. The main hall was then filled with smoke and the flames were beginning to eat through the wall of Greenblad's store.

The police broke open the hall door leading to the Lieberkind rooms and found the father, mother, and children terror-stricken. They appeared too frightened to know what to do. The policemen took off their coats and wrapped them around the children and carried them through the smoke-filled hall to the street. They also helped the father and mother to get out of the building. When Mooney and Laffy reached the sidewalk a big plate glass on the tailor store window broke from the heat of the fire and fell upon them. The two officers were slightly cut on the hands.

PANIC STARTED IN HOSPITAL.

Frenzied Male Patient Runs Wildly About the Women's Ward.

One of the male patients in the Philanthropic Hospital, a private institution at Fifth Avenue and 127th Street, yesterday afternoon was Frederick Gablehouse, a baker of hugh size, who was entered in the hospital on Friday with the information that he was suffering from epilepsy and a mild form of insanity. His bed was in the rear of the first floor.

At 5 o'clock Dr. Mintz, the other fifteen patients, and the hospital attendants heard a wild scream from the rear of the first floor. In two seconds they heard a medley of screams from the women's ward on the first floor front, where there were nine patients. Dr. Mintz, who has charge of the institution, Miss Keene, the head nurse, and several other attendants, ran to the rescue.

The huge baker was rushing madly about the ward. He seemed to think that he was pursued by persons with murderous intent. All the women who could rise had jumped from their beds and were fleeing in terror from the room. Those who were too weak to rise had rolled out of bed and were seeking shelter under them. Patients in other parts of the house, frightened by the cries of the women and the yelling of the men, went running through the house, adding to the excitement.

The baker, clad only in his pajamas, raised one of the front windows, got on the fire escape, and leaped out into the street. Just at that moment Inspector Richard Walsh, who lives across the avenue from the hospital, came out of his home. Seeing the man in his pajamas and hearing the screams from inside the hospital, he ran over to the baker.

Gablehouse took the Inspector for one of his enemies. They clinched. The Inspector is a man of size and strength, but the baker threw him and the struggle continued. Dr. Mintz and several of the hospital attendants ran to the Inspector's assistance. The contest seemed to be still in Gablehouse's favor when Policeman Connolly of the East 126th Street Station brought the struggle to an end.

Gablehouse was quieted and taken back into the hospital. Dr. Mintz was preparing to send him to the Harlem Hospital last night, when a brother came up to the institution and took him away in a taxicab.

NATURE CALLS PARK DUCKS.

Migration Season at Hand—Plan to Trap Them and Clip Wings.

The services of a trapper of wild fowl are likely to be required very soon in Central Park if it is desired to prevent many of the young wild ducks and geese hatched there during the Summer from heading southward when the Fall migration begins. The old wild fowl which dwell the year around on several of the Central Park lakes are confined there by the simple expedient of clipping one wing of each bird.

The keepers say that all of the young wild fowl are likely to folow the migrating flocks southward when the ducks and geese which have summered in the North and Northwest begin to swing southward over the Park. The only way to keep the youngsters here, say the keepers, is to catch them and clip one of their wings.

But the job of catching them is not an easy one. Wild fowl are wary, even at night. The mother fowl sees to it that no one gets near the offspring. Even at feeding time the geese and ducks which have flocks of young ones keep their families away from the shore until the keepers leave.

The keepers say that about the only way to capture the wild fowl of this season's hatch is to trap them with nets such as are used by trappers in the North. The Park keepers have none of these net traps. The question of detaining the young wild fowl has not yet been passed upon by the Park management, say the keepers, but is likely to be in the near future.

The migration season will begin very soon now.

ROWDIES ATTACK CONDUCTOR.

He Is Mortally Injured in a Struggle on an Elevated Train.

Julius Reich, a conductor on the Ridgewood branch of the Myrtle Avenue Elevated Railroad in Williamsburg, was taken to St. Catherine's Hospital, probably mortally wounded, early yesterday morning as the result of a murderous attack on him by rowdies. Only one of the assailants was captured. He is Rutherford De Groff, who said he lived in the Bushwick section of Williamsburg. He was held without bail in the Manhattan Avenue Police Court by Magistrate Higginbotham to await the result of Reich's injuries.

The attack on Reich occurred while a train was approaching the Wyckoff Avenue station on the borough boundary. Complaints had been made by men and women to Reich of having been insulted, and several times he remonstrated with the rowdies, but no notice was taken of it. When he threatened to have them arrested they set upon him. One struck the conductor with what is believed to have been a blackjack. When Reich fell he was kicked and jumped on.

Meanwhile there was a panic among the passengers, and then screams were heard by the motorman. He blew the alarm whistle to attract the police. As the train pulled into the station nearly all the rowdies succeeded in getting off the cars and making their way down the iron girders to the street. Policeman Buchfeit was on the platform awaiting the train, and as he boarded it he found Reich insensible on the floor. Passengers prevented the escape of De Groff, while he fought furiously to get away.

AUTO RUNS AWAY ON A HILL.

Its Owner Turns It Into a Ditch Half Way Down—All Safe.

E. D. Dennis of 76 Burnett Street, Newark, with a party of friends in an automobile yesterday afternoon, had a narrow escape from death on Northfield Avenue, one of the steepest and straightest of the mountain roads of West Orange, N. J. Mr. Dennis had made a tour of the country west of the two Orange Mountains and was returning home about 4 o'clock. He started on the last downward run into Orange. Just before reaching Gregory Avenue Mr. Dennis released his brake, but when he tried to throw it on again he was unable to do so.

The grade at that point is nearly 30 per cent., and before Mr. Dennis realized his peril the car was traveling at thirty miles an hour. The driver threw in the reverse at half speed, and in that way managed to check the momentum in a small degree. A glance at the road ahead of him, with a sharp curve at the bottom, showed him two cars climbing toward him.

Mr. Dennis tried to turn his car at right angles into the gateway of George H. Macy's residence. In front of the gate is a deep ditch. The car tipped as he turned, and all were thrown across the ditch upon the soft grass bank beyond a fence into which the car had crashed.

A young matron with a five months' old child, one of the party, suffered from shock, but Mr. Dennis and his two men companions were not affected. The car was wrecked.
